SUICIDE NOTE SAID NOT IN BERN'S HAND

Mysterious Visit of Lone Man During Night Also Given as Ground for Murder Theory.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(AP)—An employe's theory that Paul Bern, film producer, who was found dead in his palatial home shortly after his marriage to Jean Harlow, platinum blonde actress, was murdered, was revealed today in the records of the grand jury that investigated Bern's death and labeled it suicide.

The expressed belief of Clifton E. Davis, landscape gardener for Bern when the latter built a mansion for his bride, that Bern was slain came to light when records of the grand jury's investigation into the producer's death were transferred to the present grand jury conducting an inquiry into the official acts of Buron Fitts, district attorney.

Davis testified he believed his employer was murdered after he reputedly had a "fuss" with Miss Harlow.

Bern, Bello Unfriendly.

Davis testified that after Bern's body had been found, Mario Bello, Miss Harlow's stepfather, telephoned him and said:

"'You are talking too much. Move your family over to the garage and keep your mouth shut.'"

"Didn't Bern like Mr. Bello?" Davis was asked.

"No," was the reply, "and Bello did not like Bern."

Davis, the record showed, had be-

'Uncle Remus' Suit Dismissal Affirmed

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The United States fifth circuit court of appeals today affirmed the lower court dismissal of the $10,000,000 suit of Mrs. Esther LaRose Harris, widow of Joel Chandler Harris, against the Coca-Cola Company for alleged use of copyrighted material from her famed husband's book, "Uncle Remus, His Songs and Sayings."

Mrs. Harris, whose home was in Atlanta, charged in her suit filed in 1931 that the Coca-Cola Company had used illustrations in an advertising program that year drawn by A. B. Frost, which appeared in the edition of "Uncle Remus" published in 1895 and over which she held copyrights.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the northern district of Georgia, on June 6, 1934, dismissed the suit "for want of equity."

In affirming Judge Underwood, the circuit court said:

"We think no right to the exclusive use of the Frost pictures came to Mrs. Harris with the extension which the law gave her of the copyright on her husband's literary work."

REICH IS ACCUSED OF ARMING FORCES IN SAAR TERRITORY

League Commissioner Charges Force of 10,000 Is Terrorizing Opponents of Germany.

GENEVA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The League of Nations heard again today that German nazis have armed forces working secretly in the Saar basin for the territory's annexation to Germany.

Secret police numbering 10,000 are busy terrorizing Saarlanders believed to be opposed to joining Germany, the League's commission governing the Saar advised Geneva, while newspapers and German radio facilities are used to persecute and slander individuals, including priests.

(The Saar will vote January 13 whether to keep the League as its governor, unite with France or rejoin Germany.)

Documents it has seized prove that the German front nd the secret police are using extreme measures to promote the German cause, the commission reported, and those opposing the nazis have been denounced to German authorities. Reprisals after the plebiscite have been threatened, it was stated.

An intricate, far-flung organization to advance the nazi cause in the Saar was outlined by the commission's report, which said "the Catholic clergy seemed to be under specir' observation."

It charged secret police with spying upon nazis and members of the commission itself, with trying to kidnap anti-nazis and with provoking frequent disturbances. The German government was directly accused of interfering with affairs in the Saar territory.

Asserting 1,500 women belonged to the secret police organization, the commission said the entire Saar valley was divided into small sectors which secret agents constantly patrolled. A sharp eye is kept on every resident of the Saar, the report said.

PAGE IS PLANNING TO 'CRACK DOWN' FOR BIG BEER TAX

Revenue Collector Waiting for Augusta Court To Dismiss Injunction Before Taking Action.

By GLENN RAMSEY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Dry Georgia's beer and liquor dealers will be put on the "spot" for that $1,000 federal tax.

W. E. Page, Columbus publisher, now the government's revenue collector in Georgia, said Friday he is just waiting until the federal court at Augusta unties his hands.

And, Mr. Page said, he looks for the dismissal of the suit for injunction pending before Judge W. H. Barrett within the week.

The collector said the United States district attorney for the southern district, in which Augusta is situated, had informed him he would ask Judge Barrett to throw out the suit on the same grounds as did Judge Barrett at Savannah.

The Savannah case went out of the court because, the judge said, there was nothing for a basis, since no actual collecting had been done or attempted.

Augusta, Savannah Action.

The suits were brought by dealers in Augusta and Savannah to prevent Collector Page from making them fork over a special $1,000 excise imposed by the internal revenue act of 1926 for the purpose of supplementing enforcement of state dry laws.

Mr. Page took the position that the injunctions halted him from going ahead with the collections, but the strong arm of his office is to be put into action just as soon as the injunctions are cleared from the court books.

While the collector had nothing to say about the possibility of more injunctions the moment he starts in to collect, it was the general belief among those about the federal building here that the dealers would seek restraining orders and the case then would be decided by the courts on its merit.

Constitutionality Hit.

The dealers in Augusta and Savannah, in their efforts to block the revenue collector from even attempting to collect the tax, contended the $1,000 was not a tax but a penalty. They attacked its constitutionality.

Many dispensers, generally those operating on a small scale, have stopped selling beer since the government's

C. M. COOPER JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

Body Locked Up for Night After Deliberating Case for Five Hours

Unable to agree on a verdict after five hours of deliberation, the jury which is to decide the fate of Charles M. Cooper, on trial the second time for the slaying of James T. Chappell, November 4, 1932, at 10:30 o'clock Friday night was locked up for the night. Cooper was sentenced to death last April, but was granted a new trial by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy.

After listening to an all-day argument, the jury received the case for deliberation at 5:28 o'clock Friday afternoon and there were no indications at the time the jury was locked up for the night how the case stood.

The long argument in defense of Cooper was begun at 9 o'clock in the morning by W. O. Cooper Jr., of Macon, state senator-elect from Bibb county, who spoke for four hours and was followed by Len B. Guillebeau, of Atlanta.

In a passionate plea for acquittal, Cooper stood before the jury box with

Doke Murder Jury Fails To Get Verdict

WOODLAND, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The jury trying Judson C. Doke on a charge of murdering Lamar Hollingshead, poet lover of pretty Mrs. Helen Louise Doke, was discharged tonight after it had deliberated for 30 hours in a vain attempt to reach a verdict.

Asked by Judge Chalmers if a verdict had been reached on the San Leandro milk inspector's fate, Foreman Rover Grady replied:

"No, your honor."

The foreman said he believed an agreement was "impossible." Judge Chalmers thanked the jurors and dismissed them.

The courtroom was almost filled. On one side of the room sat Doke, whose faced paled slightly as the decision of the court was announced. His head dropped. Then a sigh escaped his lips.

Borah Demands Inquiry Into Relief "Waste"

Millions of Federal Funds Never Reached Needy, Western Senator Charges in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Senator Borah, Idaho's republican independent, created a capital stir today with an election aftermath demand for an investigation by the president or congress of "shameful waste" in expenditures of relief funds.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, tonight promised Senator Borah "quick action" if the latter would furnish "particulars" to substantiate his charges.

"Everyone wants to see those who need relief get relief," said Borah, "but millions never reached those who need it. The amount expended before it gets to those in need is appalling."

Aside from his charge, the Idahoan's discussion of his relief ideas touched a subject occupying major administration attention. New Deal authorities have indicated that an estimate of the money needed for relief, along with that to be allotted the PWA, may be the key to whether new taxes will be needed.

Both Secretary Ickes and Hopkins have been endeavoring to draft a public works and relief program which would synchronize administration efforts to decimate the army of unemployed and at the same time enable those the government must support to do useful labor.

Housing, roads, power projects, reforestation, subsistence homesteads and almost every other project the administration has experimented with have been mentioned for inclusion in the potpourri that is being prepared.

Estimates of the program's cost have ranged from $1,000,000,000 to $12,000,000,000 but Mr. Roosevelt, more than once in the past, has said the futures were guesses because he did not know himself.

With a decision, tax experts will know what they must do. Before the election several administration officials said they saw no particular reason for increased levies but the latest word is that a tax prescription might be written during the next congress but that it would be a comparatively mild dose and one that could be swallowed without difficulty.

Borah today coupled his assertion of "waste" with an inference that relief money has gone for political purposes. Although he did not mention the PWA, aids of both Ickes and

BANKHEAD FAVORS 1935 COTTON LIMIT

Senator Lays Demand for Big Crop to Washington Interests.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Senator John H. Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, today charged exporters, theorists and professional economists in Washington with creating a demand for an increase in the 1935 cotton acreage.

In an address delivered at the dedication of an airport here, the co-author of the Bankhead cotton production control act, which limited the 1934 crop to approximately 10,000,000 bales, said next year's acreage should be kept within that figure.

Heard No Demand.

He said he had heard no demand for increased production from the farmers, and predicted that with several basic changes to the production control plan the farmers would ratify the act by the farmer referendum planned by the Agriculture Adjustment Administration.

"I have heard of no demand among cotton growers anywhere for an increase in the acreage planted to cotton last year," said the senator. "The demand seems to come from exporters whose interest is in the quantity more than in price, and from theorists and professional economists in Washington."

He declared that if Secretary Wallace, who has the power to fix the basis of allotments under the Bankhead act, "abandons the unfortunate five-year basis period (average production for 1928 to 1932 inclusive) and uses as a basis current conditions upon the farms, and makes a reasonable allotment for small farmers, it is my opinion that the farmers will cast an overwhelming vote to continue the Bankhead act next year."

Criticizing reports from Washington that the department of agriculture was contemplating allowing an increase of 15 to 20 per cent for next year, he said that if such action is taken "it can be for only one purpose and that is to increase the size of the crop and thereby reduce the price of cotton."

"With reduction in exports the size of next year's crop should be reduced correspondingly. After paying out more than $200,000,000 last year and this year to reduce an unprecedented carry-over, there does not seem to be any good reason to discard the gains that have been made. Consid-

IVY LEE SUCCUMBS IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

Public Relations Adviser to Rockefeller Was 57 Years Old.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Ivy Ledbetter Lee, public relations adviser to Great American Corporations, died this afternoon. He was 57.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church. Dr. George A. Butterick will preside. Burial service will be private.

Death was unexpected and came as a great shock to his associates. Doctors at St. Luke's hospital, where the publicist was taken this week, said death was due to a brain tumor.

Lee had been in semi-retirement for the last year and a half.

An expert in mass psychology Lee was best known for his relationship with the Rockefellers. To him went the credit for changing the reputation of the elder John D. Rockefeller from that of an arch prototype of marauding wealth to that of a kindly old gentleman who posed for newspaper photographers, gave new dimes to little children, and achieved world wide fame as one of the greatest philanthropists of all time.

Lee's death came, strangely enough, just as he had completed preparations for announcement of the passing of John D. Rockefeller—an event newspapers long have expected because of Rockefeller's great age.

Great Figure.

Lee was one of the great figures of the age of publicity in which he lived. Early in life, as a newspaper reporter, he conceived the idea that big business best could defend itself from bitter attacks of the press by an attitude of complete frankness.

With this formula Lee sold his services not only to the Rockefellers but to many other corporations and unquestionably played a great part in the change in the public's attitude towards corporations in the decades before the great stock market crash of 1929.

Lee was often in print himself and was dubbed by many critics as a "super press agent" whose activities were designed primarily to deceive rather than to enlighten.

One of the last of many attacks upon him as a propagandist came last July when he was summoned before a congressional committee to explain why he received $25,000 a year from

British Peace Efforts Vain, Ramsay MacDonald Declares

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A brilliant gathering of the annual lord mayor's banquet in London's historic Guildhall tonight heard Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald declare Great Britain's effort to promote world peace by setting an example in disarmament has proved fruitless.

The premier's address was the climax of colorful day-long ceremonies that marked the accession of the new lord mayor, Sir Stephen Killik.

MacDonald said Great Britain has proved to her own satisfaction that disaramament by example, "in the present state of mind of the world, is not an effective way to reduce arms or to increase international confidence and so strengthen peace."

"We have never overlooked what this example meant for us in diminished power of protection," the prime minister said.

"In some circles it might even tempt an aggressor to attack.

"I believe with all my heart that the best and the last word in security is an international agreement on the scales of national arms. And the lower the scales agreed upon are, the greater the security of nations will be.

"But if these agreements are refused, the requirements of defence must be met."

Mark on Peace Road.

Referring to the naval conversations now in progress here among Japan, Britain and the United States and mentioning France, Italy, and other naval powers, MacDonald said:

"A naval understanding among the naval powers protecting us from useless and extravagant building and enabling us to feel happy both as to our security and defense would be one of the most conspicuous marks on the road to peace that our generation, under the circumstances, can hope to erect."

Ministers, diplomats, civic dignitaries and brilliantly bejeweled women made up the prime minister's glittering audience, gathered for the final act in the annual pageant that was Sir Stephen's realization of his poorboy's dream.

The entire diplomatic corps, including United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham, the city's business and financial leaders and officials of the

ROOSEVELT PLANS HEARTHSIDE TALK FOR EARLY WINTER

President Expected To Reveal Unemployment Program in December Address to Nation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he probably would make another of his radio reports to the nation when he returns from his visit to Warm Springs, Ga., in December.

Meanwhile, the president declined to make any comments on Tuesday's overwhelming New Deal victory and went ahead with his budget and relief problems.

He said work was almost completed on the budget but there were no figures yet on totals and probably would be none until congress meets in January.

He added that studies were being pursued with various leaders on the relief question. There is every indication that the new program has taken shape.

Asked if he shared the views of some congressional leaders for a short session of the new congress, the president smiled and told newspapermen he always hoped for that.

The president said his radio address would be another report on the state of the Union. There is a belief by some that in this he may discuss in detail his ideas for future unemployment relief.

Next Sunday he will observe Armistice Day in a brief visit to Arlington National cemetery here, where America's Unknown Soldier is buried.

Inquiries at the regular press conference about continuance of Postmaster General Farley as democratic national chairman and General Douglas MacArthur as army chief of staff brought the response from the president that he had taken no action.

The president said he had informed members of the newspaper guild in a recent talk that as soon as hearings on the newspaper code were held in December he would consider questions involved.

He added that he hoped press associations would take a part in the hearings because he regarded them as news collecting agencies.

COL. BEAVER BUYS MAGID ORCHARDS

4,000 Acres in Habersham Acquired From Well-Known Developer.

Sale of the Magid Orchards in Habersham county, involving more than 4,000 acres of land, was announced Friday by Louis B. Magid, of Tallulah Park and Atlanta. Colonel Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, was the purchaser.

Although no statement as to the price paid was made, it is known that Mr. Magid has expended more than $500,000 on development of the property over a period of 20 years. The tract includes about 700 acres planted with nearly 50,000 apple trees.

Mr. Magid stated that he has retired from the apple orchard industry and, while he retains considerable land holdings and other interests in northeast Georgia, he will devote the greater part of his time to the interests of the Electric Daylight Corporation, with headquarters in Atlanta, of which he recently became president. However, he will still spend some time with his family at the country home at Tallulah Park.

Mr. Magid has been active for a quarter century in the development of northeast Georgia. He was instrumental in building the extension of the railroad from Tallulah Falls to Franklin, N. C., acting as financial agent. His chief achievement, however, was his pioneer work in the large water power developments in that section. He organized and was president of the Atlanta Hydro-Electric Power Company, which later became a part of the Georgia Power Company by consolidation.

He was the first to propose founding of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school and was influential in reorganization of the Habersham county highway committee, of which he later became chairman. It was chiefly due to his persistence that Habersham voted favorably on a $250,000 highway bond issue, resulting in the stretch of concrete highway through the county which completed the final link of the Atlanta-Asheville-New York highway.

He also was founder of, and is still president of, the Southern Appalachian National Park Association.

F. D. R. IS EXPECTED TO CURB SPENDING DESPITE CONGRESS

Outlay of as Much as 15 Billions Likely To Be Demanded by Advocates of Bonus, Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Demands for a stupendous outlay exceeding $15,000,000,000 in the next congress confront the administration but democratic leaders today predicted President Roosevelt would cut this in half.

Conservative party chieftains are frankly concerned over the mounting demands for cash payment of the bonus and huge relief and public works funds.

With revenues already running more than a billion dollars behind expenditures in the present fiscal year and prospects of balancing the budget by July 1, 1935, rapidly fading, they also worried about plans of inflationists, who increased their numbers in Tuesday's elections.

New social legislation scheduled to come up for consideration calling for old age pension and unemployment insurance are viewed by some members

Raided, Arrested, Indicted in An Hour

Within an hour after Solicitor-General John A. Boykin's special lottery squad Friday afternoon raided an alleged lottery headquarters at 794 Hill street and arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guthas, the Fulton county grand jury returned indictments against them charging operation of a lottery. They were released on bonds of $1,000 each.

Eleven other lottery indictments also were returned Friday by the grand jury in the solicitor-general's war against the operation of lotteries in the county.

The raiders, Captain Charles Stewart, of the solicitor's office, City Detective S. D. Vaughn and County Policeman Cal Cates, also arrested Eddie Wright, 24, of 395 Cherokee avenue, at the Hill street house and charged him, with violating the state prohibition law. They found a quart of whisky on him. His bond was $100.

Captain Stewart stated that the raiders seized an adding machine and the entire day's receipts of lottery tickets for Friday's business, but no money.

SPONSORS SEEKING ROOSEVELT FAVOR FOR DRASTIC STEP

Advocates of Novel Plan Feel That Greater Buying Power Would Absorb Increased Production for General Benefit

STRONG BACKING SEEN FOR PLANS

Subsidization of Industry Would Be Cheaper and Better Than Direct Relief, Is Argument.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON.
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A bold move to spur recovery, under which industry would be directed to expand production with the government bearing the risk of any losses thus entailed, is under consideration by high administration aides.

Some of those working on the proposal are confident a plan can be developed by which millions of unemployed will be returned to work in private industry. Proponents believe these new wages would provide the purchasing power to absorb the increased production.

While the plans are still nebulous, and subject to review higher up, there is a strong hope among the authors that the proposal will meet with President Roosevelt's approval.

Their hopes were based on the theory the nation is ready for a full industrial recovery; that if the government will absorb the risk of speeding up production, which many individual businesses are not, there will be ample demand for these extra goods.

May Buy Surplus.

Numerous proposals have been made, and are under study, for working out the scheme. One of the most seriously considered would have the government figure out the normal demand for staple commodities and guarantee to purchase any production within that amount for which there was no market.

Proponents of the idea contend that if the plan were properly administered there would be no substantial surpluses for the government to buy. But even if there were, they contend, it would be cheaper in the end to take care of the unemployed in this way than through direct relief.

In short, they point to the emergency expenditures of $1,277,000,000 already this year, and say it would be cheaper for the government to subsidize private industry, if necessary, to absorb the unemployed than to continue feeding the jobless direct.

Richberg Hint.

A hint that higher officials are giving such proposals serious study was contained in a recent speech by Donald R. Richberg, the recovery co-ordinator. He said:

"We face the issue which is clearly emerging: Will private enterprise undertake now the great and necessary task of re-employing at least 4,000,-

FIVE NATIONS SEEK PEACE FOR CHACO

League Negotiator Spurs Efforts To Halt South American Hostility.

GENEVA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—League of Nations negotiators made a supreme move today to induce Paraguay and Bolivia to lay down their arms and halt the hostilities in the Chaco.

Five nations of the Americas, Argentina, Peru, Chile, Venezuela and Mexico, under the presidency of Francisco Najera of Mexico, addressed cablegrams to the belligerent nations urging them to cease hostilities. The messages emphasized the two nations already are seemingly in agreement that the cessation of war must be accompanied by international guarantees that hostilities will not be renewed.

Identical messages sent to Ramon Caballero y Bedoya, of Paraguay, and Dr. A. Costa du Rels, of Bolivia, said an attempt to avoid resorting to recommendations by the assembly is founded on the belief a freely negotiated settlement is preferable to settlement imposed on the belligerents. The report prepared by Ruiz Guinazu, of Argentina, and Dr. Francisco Tudela, of Peru, upon which the cablegram was based, emphasized that the opposing nations give primary importance to cessation of hostilities, differing only on the conditions.

Bonus Action Called Aid to Inflationists

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Donald A. Hobart, vice commander of the American Veterans' Association, said tonight the American Legion, by voting for immediate payment of the veterans' bonus, has played into the hands of inflationists.

Speaking before the third annual convention of his association, he asserted:

"The action of the Legion at Miami was welcome news to those members of congress who saw in it the opening wedge in a program of inflation.

"The bonus is rapidly becoming an inflationary issue."

Hobart called on the American Veterans' Association to "fight to the last ditch the selfish demands of those whose chief claim to benefits is the mere fact of having worn the country's uniform in time of war."

New Proposals Seen In Naval Conference

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Japanese rejection of suggested methods of a compromise for a naval limitation treaty will definitely invite new proposals which may go further toward meeting Japanese demands for equality, it was authoritatively learned tonight.

The ambiguous manner in which the compromise was suggested makes the Japanese believe the British may propose a different method of limitation which will give Japan actual equality as well as equality in principle.

It was understood the Japanese received different views of the proposal from various members of the British delegation, with admiralty delegates making it plain that a compromise must be based upon the existing ratio. This is unacceptable to the Japanees.

Hapless Negro Picks Police Car To Crash

Of all the automobiles in the city to run into, Albert Wade, negro, of 190 Cain street, picked out the worst Friday night. He smashed into the rear of a police car parked at Piedmont and Avery drive.

Radio Patrolmen J. S. Melton and J. A. Etheridge were loading two men they had just arrested into the city car when Wade crashed into the back end, damaging both machines. The officers locked him up, charged with drunk and operating a car. No one was injured.

MURDER EVIDENCE BARED IN PROBE OF BERN'S DEATH

come suspicious of events at the Bern mansion the night before the tragedy when a "big car" with one man in it drove up.

He also testified he had seen the note supposedly written by Bern to his bride just before his death and ostensibly referring to suicide as "the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you."

Servant's Testimony.

The note contained a postscript saying "You understand last night was only a comedy." It never was publicly explained.

"It (the note) was written in a book and the book was open," Davis testified. "I was positive it was not Bern's handwriting."

Davis quoted John Carmichael, an employe at the Bern home, as having revealed the "fuss" between Bern and Miss Harlow the night before the tragedy.

"Carmichael," the record showed Davis testified, "said Miss Harlow wanted Bern to give her the deed to the house he had built for her, and to sell it so she could have the money to build the house she was planning to build.

"He said Mrs. Bern told him to drive her to her mother's and told him not to tell Bern where she had gone. That was around 9 o'clock Sunday night." Bern's body was found in his home about noon the next day, while Miss Harlow was still absent.

Davis, the record also showed, had accused Carmichael of "lying about the affair."

"Do you know in what respect Carmichael lied?" Davis was asked.

"Lies" Are Cited.

"Yes," said the record of his testimony, "he said they did not have a fuss the night before Bern's death. He said they got along fine. He also said he had never heard anything about turning the place over to Bern's mother, when he had.

"He said Bern and Miss Harlow were hugging and kissing all the time and Bern was talking of committing suicide, when really they didn't do much hugging and kissing, and Bern never did say anything about committing suicide."

Another part of the record disclosed Harold Garrison, Bern's negro chauffeur, had been asked:

"Did you ever see Miss Harlow out with anyone but Mr. Bern? Also did you hear about the time Mr. Bern found his wife in the hotel here?

"No, sir," Garrison was recorded as answering.

Still another record showed testimony by Miss Irene Harrison, Bern's private secretary, saying:

"Jean bombarded him with letters (before their marriage), most of them with reports of her success. The correspondence was mostly on her side. After Jean's return (this was not further explained), their friendship developed into something more intimate.

"By intimate I do not mean the use of the word as meant in Hollywood."

Moody at Reception.

When asked about the Harlow-Bern wedding and reception, the record showed Miss Harrison said:

"Mr. Bern didn't look particularly happy at the reception."

Last week the inquisitorial body delved into Fitts' activities in prosecuting the famous Hollywood "girl market" case several years ago.

Fitts dismissed a morals charge against John P. Mills, real estate operator caught in the official net during the girl case investigation. A previous grand jury investigated Fitts' handling of the matter but took no action against him.

The present grand jury last week went into the previous secret inquiry of the dismissal and then indicted Fitts on a perjury charge. The accusation was based upon Fitts' statements before the grand jury which originally investigated.

Suddenly the new grand jury, continuing its inquiry into the district attorney's activities, called for his records of the Bern case. Investigators indicated they wanted only to go into the expenditures of the district attorney relating to his inquiry into the death of the film producer.

Divorce Plans.

While the inquiry was getting under way, Miss Harlow announced she was about to divorce her third husband, Hal Rosson, "ace" cameraman who has worked on many of her pictures. Bern was her second husband. She had been married to Bern but a few months when he was found with a bullet in his head, September 5, 1932.

Shortly after Bern's death, Dorothy Millette, who was shown by legal records to have lived many years as Bern's common-law wife, committed suicide by jumping from a river boat near Sacramento.

In the investigation of the Bern tragedy, evidence was presented that the film executive was possessed of a physical peculiarity which prevented his consummating marriage.

Davis' Discoveries.

The newly-opened record showed Davis testified he was at Bern's home the day the body was found; that he was tidying up the swimming pool when he found broken glass and a small puddle of blood near the film producer's favorite chair.

"Did you see blood any other place?" he was asked.

"No, but my suspicion was aroused when I saw the door opened and windows up. I picked up the broken glass, washed the blood stains and then I closed the front door, which I found open."

"Have you any suspicions as to how the blood got there?"

"Yes; I think that if he was murdered, that is where the blood came from."

"Do you think Mr. Bern committed suicide?"

"No. I think it was murder. I thought so from the very beginning."

The landscape gardener then said Carmichael discovered the body.

A questioner then said:

"Mr. Mario Bello called you and told you to come right over. What did he say to you?"

At this point Davis told of Bello warning him to "keep your damned mouth shut."

Carmichael's Question.

"When I saw Mr. Bern dead in the bathroom and the pistol sticking from underneath him," Davis went on, "Carmichael asked me 'Do you suppose he killed himself?' I said I didn't think so. Then we found the note lying on the table."

The negro chauffeur was disclosed by the record as testifying Bern was worried the night before his death but had tried to be jovial.

"He looked like he might have been disappointed," Garrison testified. "He talked about going to a party at the home of Fredric March that night, but he didn't go. He said 'Darling wife has to work, poor child, so I will go home'."

"Was he ever afraid of robbers?" an investigator asked.

"Yes," the chauffeur answered. "He carried a pistol in a special case in the car. He said to me once that if anybody tried to harm anyone he loved he would kill them."

Garrison testified he knew Bern was alive at 9 o'clock the morning of the tragedy because he had heard the film producer snoring.

PEACE QUEST VAIN, SAYS MacDONALD

government heard the premier, in his ringing appeal for peace, declare: "No nation in the world challenges our position as the most consistent and dependable of peacemakers."

Defense Precautions.

A moment later, however, MacDonald, discussing the possibility of an agreement in the present naval conversations, significantly added in an emphatic voice:

"In the meantime we have to take steps to secure that if we were met by aggression, we should at least be in position to defend ourselves."

Asserting peace is "the supreme need of the time," and declaring Britain would continue her role as world referee, the prime minister extended an invitation to Germany to return to the councils of the League of Nations.

"The entry of the soviet into the League I welcome," he said, "and Germany's absence we shall continue to deplore. Our government will never cease to impress upon the German people that by remaining isolated they do not do themselves justice and that other peoples will continue to apply as the acid test to all their declarations of peace whether or not they are willing to join us in the deliberations of the League.

MacDonald plainly stated Great Britain's decision to do an about face on her policy of setting the world an example in disarmament, and expressed the opinion that the better method now appeared to be some system which would guarantee the spirit of all nations.

Japan, the United States and Great Britain, the speaker said in his reference to the naval conversations, all "desire an agreement which will not jeopardize the safety of any of us and will not deprive us of the power of defense we must maintain."

C. M. COOPER JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

a Bible in his hands and quoted numerous passages.

Charging the prosecutors with demanding "blood at any price," Cooper asserted that only negroes and poor white people are electrocuted in Georgia, and that many innocent men have been convicted.

"They almost did it to Jack Lance," he shouted, "but the supreme court stepped in and saved him."

Persecution Charged.

Comparing the Cooper prosecution to the persecution of Christ, and the action of Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in granting a new trial to that of Pontius Pilate in washing his hands before he delivered Jesus to the mob, the defense attorney took up the maxim so often brought into use by prosecutors, "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," and branded the author of the Mosaic law as a murderer never brought to punishment.

Ed A. Stephens, assistant solicitor-general, in his closing argument for the state, replied to what he termed "accusations of all kinds of rascality" by Cooper by saying that he was indifferent to what any murderer's counsel might say about him.

"That has been done by every murderer's lawyer in every case I have prosecuted," Stephens said, "and I am quite accustomed to hearing it, but it will not deter me from doing my duty in this or any other case."

Guillebeau devoted the closing argument for the defense to a detailed analysis of the testimony.

Father Shouts Denial.

At one point in Stephens' argument, when he charged that Cooper was not in Miami when Chappell was slain, as he has contended in his unsworn statement and sought to prove by his witnesses, C. C. Cooper, father of the defendant, rose to his feet.

"He was in Miami!" the elder Cooper shouted.

Judge G. H. Howard ordered the man to leave the courtroom, but he was permitted to return later after he had offered an apology to the court through a deputy sheriff.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Howard warned them that they were to consider evidence of other alleged crimes committed by Cooper only as it might show identity, motive or bent of mind. Wallace Hughes, serving a life sentence for the murder of two men in Hartman's cafe in 1932, had testified during the trial that Cooper was his accomplice.

Under the court's charge, a verdict of guilty, without recommendation for mercy, which would mean the death penalty, guilty with recommendation, which would carry a life sentence, or acquittal, are possible.

ROOSEVELT PLANS HEARTHSIDE TALK FOR EARLY WINTER

fore destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall."

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, seconded his Michigan colleague in reminding the democratic chairman that the G. O. P. popular vote reached 12,000,000 Tuesday, despite the New Deal wave.

Also contributing to the post-election flurry of political diagnosis, Raymond Moley—a presidential advisor—wrote in "Today:" "The democrat who talks glibly of the end of the republican party is simply ignoring the facts."

His views, penned apparently before the election, discounted the likelihood of strong left or right parties rising in this country. The democratic party, as he analyzed it, will retain power for some time while the republicans remain a formidable opposition.

An element of danger for the democrats was seen by Senator Lewis, of Illinois, in the size of its majorities in the new congress. He cautioned care against bloc conflicts to "avoid the bitter experience of past administrations."

His statement sounded like some of those coming now from republican liberals, in that it demanded a G. O. P. reorganization "upon new principles, guided by the leaders."

As it stands, he said, "a new political era" has rendered it obsolete.

Borah, interviewed by reporters in his office, indicated a readiness to cooperate for republican rebuilding along lines that would subordinate the "Old Guard." Senator McNary, the party floor leader who has been at odds with the national organization, and Senator Vandenberg are two whom Borah admires.

In his telegram to the Associated Press from Grand Rapids, Vandenberg called Farley's statement last night "blatant boasting."

While favoring party reorganization, both Borah and Vandenberg have indicated a disinclination to take the lead.

ering the reduction in consumption and the necessity for further reducing the surplus, the crop next year should not exceed 10,000,000 bales."

U. S. Has Surplus.

So long as the United States has millions of bales ready for sale abroad in excess of any quantity foreign countries are likely to buy from this country, Senator Bankhead said, there was "no business reason for increasing the size of the surplus at the expense of lower prices for the entire crop."

He declared that the present price is not the cause of the reduction in exports, adding that the United States was exporting more cotton a few months ago, with the price at 13 cents, than at present. He laid the cause of the reduction to "the inability of foreign customers to secure American dollars," and said foreign consumers "are expecting a larger American crop next year and lower prices."

"We cannot hope to secure a parity price (pre-war average) for cotton until the carry-over is reduced to 4,000,000 bales." He stated that unless consumption increases the carry-over next August will be more than 8,000,000 bales.

In closing Senator Bankhead said that in his judgment cotton growers "will never cast a more important business vote" than in the referendum on the production control plan.

"The result of that election may decide the price of cotton for years to come," he declared.

In his speech dedicating Clark field, Moultrie's new municipal airport, W. T. Anderson, editor and publisher of the Macon Telegraph, said the city had gone forward with the times in construction of the new port.

Recalling that his first airplane flight was made here he said "great progress has been made in building aircraft since that time" and paid high tribute to this city as "an inspiration to the state of Georgia."

Program Continues.

The three-day ceremony to be continued in observance of Armistice Day Sunday, was inaugurated by a 45-minute air show in which more than a score of planes participated.

Among prominent Georgians, some of whom spoke today were Senator Walter F. George, Congressman E. E. Cox, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state FERA administrator; Wiley R. Wright, head of the Atlanta branch bureau of air commerce; State Legion Commander DeLacey Allen, and others.

An address of welcome was made by David R. Cohn, general chairman of the dedication.

Atlanta's Prize-Winning Naval Reserve Unit Lauded After Inspection by Admiral Fenner

Rear Admiral Edward Blaine Fenner, U. S. N., commander of the sixth, seventh and eight naval districts, is shown in the first row with Lieutenant Harry F. Dobbs, battallion commander of the prize-winning Atlanta naval reserve unit, which Admiral Fenner inspected Friday night. Lieutenant M. R. Sanders, of the Atlanta unit, and Lieutenant E. P. Abernathy, Admiral Fenner's aide, are in the second row, and Lieutenants W. B. Tucker Jr., and W. C. Wroe are shown in the rear row. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Rear Admiral Edward Blaine Fenner, commander of the sixth, seventh and eighth naval districts, Friday night inspected the Atlanta naval reserve unit at its new armory at Georgia Tech.

The 1934 efficiency trophy, a plaque which the unit won in recent competition with other units, was presented officially Friday night by Admiral Fenner in behalf of the navy department. In presenting the trophy he declared that he was proud of the honor and added, "I would be proud to have this group under my command in battle."

He was accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant E. P. Abernathy, U. S. N. In addition, there were other visitors Friday night including Commander M. E. Bowman and Lieutenant Frank Walker, of Georgia Tech; Commander M. R. Britt, U. S. N., and Captain W. I. Mattox, adjutant of the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard.

Admiral Fenner expressed himself as being highly pleased with the showing the crack naval unit made at the inspection, and delighted with the equipment of the new armory.

The reserve organization is the No. 1 unit of all naval reserve outfits in the United States, despite its inland location. For four consecutive years, beginning with 1931, the first battalion Atlanta naval reserve, under the command of Lieutenant Harry F. Dobbs, has won the highest efficiency rating in America. The rating is based on competition with the reserve organizations of approximately 50 other cities.

The new armory includes in its equipment a four-inch gun with moving target, loading machines, navigation and fire control equipment, a destroyer bridge, signal searchlights, lifeboats, machine shop, classrooms, a mast and yardarm, radio room, and practically everything to be found on a destroyer except the roll of the sea.

Admiral Fenner, who is from Rochester, N. Y., is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy in the class of 1899. During the World War he was commander of the U. S. S. Denver. In addition, he has seen service in the Spanish-American War, the Philippine insurrection, the Boxer campaign in China, the establishment of the Panama canal, and other activities.

While in the city he is being entertained by naval officers and officers of the reserve at a number of private functions. Today he will be the guest of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, at the Tech-Auburn football game. It is expected that he will leave for his home station at Charleston, S. C., tonight or Sunday morning.

THREE CHILDREN SHARE IN MRS. GATELY ESTATE

The three living children of Mrs. Fannie Lamar Gately, who died recently, were bequeathed one-fourth interests in her estate in the will filed for probate in the ordinary's office.

Lamar Rankin, Mrs. Valeria Rankin Manley, and Mrs. Alberta Rankin Nash are each to receive the benefits of trust funds after certain bequests, including the gift of $5,000 to the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church, have been settled. Shorter Rankin Jr. and Margaret Rankin, her grandchildren, are to receive the benefits of the remaining one-fourth, the will decreed.

Trust funds for each share are to be established with the Trust Company of Georgia and Robert C. Alston as trustee and executors, and the proceeds of the funds are to go to the children of Mr. Rankin, Mrs. Nash and Mrs. Manley on their deaths. Only in the case of Mrs. Nash's children is the fund freed of any trust after her death.

VOTE SHOWS FARMERS FAVOR COTTON BILL

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—More than half the farmers of Dougherty county have voted 10-to-1 for the retention of the Bankhead cotton control act in 1935, A. E. Gibson, county agent, said.

Each applicant for tax exemption certificates was asked to indicate his attitude toward the act when his allotment was obtained.

Gibson estimated that the final vote would be 12 to 1 in favor of continuing the control measure.

OUR NAME ON A CEREAL

The name "Kellogg's" has been on every package of cereal we have ever manufactured. There is no such thing as a cereal "made by the Kellogg Company" and sold under another brand.

The name "Kellogg's" means a great deal to us. Because it has always stood for highest quality, we see to it that every cereal we make is worthy to be sold as Kellogg's.

If you have enjoyed Kellogg's Rice Krispies or Kellogg's ALL-BRAN or any of our other cereals, you know how good they are. And Kellogg's Corn Flakes are equally outstanding in their field.

We made the first Corn Flakes, and we have been making them constantly better for 28 years. If they weren't the crispest and most delicious Corn Flakes in the world, they would not outsell all others by millions of packages today.

For big value and matchless flavor, insist on Kellogg's. Look for the name on the red-and-green package.

COLUMBUS-TO-FLORIDA PAVED ROAD SOUGHT

Delegation Appears Before Road Board and Urges Need of Highway.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A delegation of citizens from the southwestern section of Georgia called on the state highway department today to urge the building of an all-paved highway from Columbus and Fort Benning to the Florida line.

The need for the highway was emphasized by the delegation for both military tourists and general traffic.

The highway board passed a resolution saying that it would accept the road as a part of the state-aid system if the road is constructed at the expense of the federal government out of funds specifically allocated to the war department and if the state law authorizes it to make the road a part of the state system. The board emphasized that the road be built out of government funds which would not in any way affect any regular or special appropriation made by congress to the bureau of public roads for the benefit of the several states of the United States.

Delegations appeared in behalf of the road from Columbus, Cuthbert and Bainbridge, Ga.

The Bainbridge delegation, which included State Senator J. M. Simmons, County Attorney H. G. Bell, Mayor J. E. Drake, of Bainbridge, and others, also urged the highway department to complete the paving of Route 1 from Bainbridge to the Florida line.

THOMASVILLE CITIZENS SEEK ROAD IMPROVEMENT

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Plans for improvement of the highway between Thomasville and the Florida line on the route leading to Tampa by way of Monticello, Fla., were discussed Friday with Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the highway board, by State Senator Fred Scott and W. E. Beverly, chairman of the Thomas county commission.

Of the strip of 12.8 miles of highway between Thomasville and the Florida line, 4.2 miles are paved and 4.2 miles are being graded. Scott said he expected the highway department to contract with the county on grading of the remainder of the stretch after which time he hoped to get the highway department to pave the road. The senator said the paving of the road would cut off 40 miles between Tampa and Thomasville.

Clear, Warmer Day Seen for Grid Game

That favorite weather forecast, "fair and warmer," Friday was given voice again by Forecaster George W. Mindling, in his predictions for today. "Fine for football—excellent for motoring," the weatherman described Atlanta's week-end weather.

Today's temperature extremes are expected to hit around 46 and 76 degrees, with prospects of an increase in the mercury reading. Friday gave a closely similar reading with 48 degrees low and 75 high.

"There is no rain in sight for Atlanta during the next two or three days," declared the forecaster. "Most of the rest of the country is keeping its skies clear, with the exception of the middle Canadian border and the New England sections.

POSTAL GAIN SEEN AT CALHOUN OFFICE

CALHOUN, Ga., Nov. 9.—An indication that business generally is decidedly on the upgrade is the report of Calhoun postoffice receipts, which show a 49 per cent gain for the third quarter of 1934 over the third quarter of 1933.

The gain for the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of last year is 22 per cent.

The report, as released by local postoffice officials, shows a total for the six months of this year of $5,514.76, as against last year's figures of $4,477.12, or an increase of $1,037.64.

For July, August and September of 1934 the receipts amounted to $3,221.08, as against $2,153.05 for the same months of 1933, or a gain of $1,068.03.

THREE MEN RELEASED IN LIQUOR THEFT CASE

T. W. (Pee Wee) Burns, 95 Merritts avenue; Fred Daniel, of the same address, and Fred Higginbottom, the three Atlanta men placed under arrest by police Thursday and held for Chattanooga authorities in connection with the "hi-jacking" of a liquor-laden truck near the Tennessee city, were released Friday afternoon.

The three were freed after receipt of a wire from Chattanooga saying that charges against the men would not be pressed and that the case would be dropped. In asking arrest of the trio, the Tennessee police informed Atlanta officers that a truck load of whisky had been "hi-jacked" just north of the Georgia state line Wednesday and that the Atlanta men were wanted in connection with the affair. In their subsequent wire the Chattanooga police gave no reason for the withdrawal of prosecution.

Otis Moffett, the driver of Mrs. Dudley's car, was slightly hurt. Mrs. Dudley received a fractured leg and the Misses Smith were bruised.

AUGUSTA POWER PLAN DISCUSSED IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—After conferring with parties interested in the project, Henry T. Hunt, public works general counsel, reported that progress had been made toward removing difficulties encountered by the proposed Augusta, Ga., canal hydro-electric plant.

The canal commission and Charles Collier, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, met in Hunt's office to discuss a proposal by the power company to furnish stand-by power for the hydro plant and to talk over the commission's amended application for a PWA loan.

The canal commission chairman, A. H. Merry, on emerging from the conference yesterday said he felt the subject matter should not be discussed at this time.

The commission was allotted $1,250,000 by the PWA for the hydro plant but declined to provide a similar amount for an auxiliary mechanical plant. The commission reported it was unable to negotiate satisfactorily with the company and pursued its efforts to obtain $1,250,000 more for its own standby.

EVICTION OF FAMILIES CAUSES 80 TO STRIKE

CHICKAMAUGA, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) Sheriff J. C. Cowan tonight said approximately 80 workers in the Crystal Springs bleachery here were "out on strike" following action of Walker superior court which resulted in the eviction of three families living in houses belonging to Crystal Springs cotton mills.

The bleachery normally employs about 450 workers and the sheriff said that no trouble was anticipated from picketing being done near the mill grounds.

The mill management has made no announcement regarding the walkout, which occurred with the night shift of last night.

The order evicting the families followed petitions presented the millmanagement, the sheriff said, after the close of the general textile strike. All, or part, of the families evicted, formerly had worked in the mills, Sheriff J. C. Keown said.

DR. SUTTON SPEAKS TO G.S.C.W. STUDENTS

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, has commissioned students at the Georgia State College for Women here to "redeem the state."

Speaking during the observance of national education week, Dr. Sutton stressed the importance of teaching the proper relationship of the individual to government and urged the students to teach their future pupils to appreciate and understand government.

Dr. Sutton advocated the teaching of economics, adding that the teaching of a solution of the social problems and an understanding of family life also should be objectives of school teachers.

J. E. CHAPMAN NAMED JUDGE AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Judge J. E. Chapman Sr., has been appointed judge of the Muscogee county juvenile court by Judge C. F. McLaughlin, of the superior court, it was announced today.

Judge Chapman is one of the oldest members of the Columbus bar in point of service, having practiced law at Cusseta from 1886 until 1890 and in Columbus since that time.

The appointment was made when Judge McLaughlin received a letter from Judge Solon M. Davis, Thursday, asking for relief. Judge Davis had served as acting judge of the juvenile court during the illness and since the recent death of Judge Roger D. Flynt.

BARTOW COUNTY CLUB HOLDS 52D BIRTHDAY

Pioneer Euharlee Farmers' Organization Observes Anniversary.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—For 52 years the Euharlee Farmers' Club has been a live organization in Bartow county in furthering modern and improved methods of agriculture and taking part in everything that pertains to the upbuilding of the county and state.

It is composed of 12 successful and leading farmers and meets once a month as the guests of a member. The club celebrated its 52nd anniversary today with M. L. Fleetwood, editor of the Tribune-News, and Mrs. Fleetwood as hosts.

They had as their guests their friends of Bartow and surrounding counties.

This club has in its membership real dirt farmers who make their living from the soil and who illustrate the fact that farming can be made successful and profitable.

Matters of mutual interest are discussed at the monthly meetoings and undertakings and experiences of interest not only to the membership but to farmers generally are backed by the organization.

Among the guests today was Currey Porter, who runs the Treat apple orchard at Esom Hill. He has 32,000 apple trees and his farm is located in northwest Georgia, partly in Alabama and partly in Georgia. He grows 22 varieties of apples and markets them largely in Birmingham, Montgomery, Chattanooga, Macon and Atlanta. Mr. Porter also has an equal number of peach trees.

Another guest was Troy Upshaw, who has made a success of growing sweet potato slips on his successful farm.

Fleetwood and W. R. Frier, editor of the Bartow Herald, are honorary members of the club. The other members are Henry Milam, president; Herbert Uren, vice president; R. M. Stiles, secretary and J. Hugh Gilreath, John K. Headden, R. W. Jackson, R. S. Munford, C. S. McCormick, Speer Nelson, C. H. Cox and William Felton.

TRUCK CROPS GROWN BY FARMERS IN UNION

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP) Truck crops valued at $16,905 were produced and sold co-operatively in Union county during the summer and early fall months, S. G. Chandler, county agent, has announced.

Products sold included 6,500 bushels of string beans, 650,000 pounds of Irish potatoes, 1,050,000 pounds of cabbage, 250 bushels of tomatoes, and 25,000 pounds of miscellaneous vegetables.

Chandler said the production of truck crops in Union county is increasing rapidly. Agricultural extension service specialists aided in marketing the crops.

MAYOR KEY STUDIES ALBANY GOVERNMENT

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, arrived in Albany last night to make an analytical study of this city's government.

The mayor, who came here from a meeting in Thomasville, plans to remain in Albany until Saturday.

Mayor Key has displayed a keen interest in Albany's government and on several occasions had expressed a desire to acquaint himself with its operation.

Albany has a tax rate of 14 mills, with no levy being made for general purposes. Eight mills are levied for school purposes and six for the sinking fund.

This morning Mayor Key inspected public utilities, which are owned by the city, and was given information concerning various departments.

Tonight he was honor guest at a banquet.

MORE PATRIOTIC TALKS TO REOPEN MONDAY

GOSLAR, Germany, Nov. 9.—(AP) Hard-pressed German farmers, whom the nazis often have asked to put patriotism above profits, today prepared to hear similar pleas during their second national convention beginning here Sunday.

Their problems resemble those of farmers the world over—increases in living costs, stagnation in granting them credit, high taxes, and small returns on their goods, although prices of agricultural products have risen—but the program of speeches gives no indication that these matters will be considered in language they can understand.

EPISCOPALIANS FAIL TO ELECT COADJUTOR

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Failing to elect a bishop coadjutor after 11 ballots were taken, Episcopalians of the Georgia diocese have adjourned their special convention until January 15, at which time the election will be reconsidered. The place of the January 15 meeting will be announced later.

Georgia News Told in Brief

Port News.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Arrived: Upshur, Philadelphia; Lexington, Jacksonville; Berkshire, Baltimore.

Sailed: Sundance, Brunswick; Upshur, Jacksonville; Lexington, Philadelphia; Berkshire, Jacksonville.

Baby Show Planned.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—A baby show will be held in Milledgeville during the American Legion district fair, to be held here during the week of November 12. Mrs. Ed Lawrence is superintendent of this department of the fair. Commander Ben E. Harrison, of the Morris-Little post of the Legion, is chairman of the committee in charge of the show.

Seek Boy Scout Funds.

ROME, Ga., Nov. 9.—A three-day drive to raise $3,800 for the northwest Georgia council of Boy Scouts will start here Tuesday. The northwest Georgia council includes 645 boys in 33 troops at Rome, Lindale, Rockmart, Shannon, Cedartown and the Tubize Chatillon mill village.

George P. Byrd will head the drive, with Eddie Reese and Leo Hackett as colonels of the two armies.

Trial Postponed.

WOODBINE, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The trial of Hopps Dowling, of Waycross, charged with the slaying of B. H. Crews, of Jacksonville, was postponed a second time today.

The illness of George B. Cowart, defense attorney, caused the continuance.

Held in Slaying.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Brought here from Jacksonville, Fla., Herman Satinover, indicted by a grand jury for the filling station slaying of Thomas L. Moss, of St. Paul, Minn., last February, was in the Richmond county jail today.

Satinover was returned late last night by Sheriff M. Gary Whittle. He was arrested in Jacksonville.

Wins Scholarship.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Elston Johnston, of Alma, has been awarded a year's voice scholarship offered by John Hoffman, instructor in voice at the University of Georgia.

Bobby Brooks, of Lexington, won a half-year scholarship in the general try-outs. Johnston and Brooks were both members of last year's University Glee Club.

Chemist to Speak.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Oliver Kamm, a leading American biological chemist, will address the University of Georgia Science Club November 23 on the place of the chemist in public health.

The Science Club plans to bring a leading scientist to the university each month during the school year. The first quarter is being devoted to the public health problem in Georgia.

Dr. Allen H. Bunce, of Atlanta, was the first speaker to address the club.

New Yorkers Injured.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sager, of New York city, were brought to Savannah for treatment of injuries received when the car in which they were riding left the road several miles north of Darien about noon today.

Sager suffered a fractured wrist and possibly internal injuries, while Mrs. Sager was thought to have a broken rib.

Mrs. Judd Speaks.

DALTON, Ga., Nov. 9.—Mrs. M. E. Judd was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Junior Woman's Club held Wednesday. Mrs. H. W. Nevin presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Westcott.

Mrs. Judd spoke on the Junior Red Cross work, which is carried on in every state in the United States. She described the kind of work that is done and the co-operation that is necessary to further the development of the work.

To Speak at Winder.

WINDER, Ga., Nov. 9.—Dr. Irvine S. Graham, president of the West Georgia Teachers' College at Carrollton, conference lay leader for the north Georgia district, will conduct a special layman's service at the Winder Methodist church at 10:30 Sunday morning. Dr. Graham is a nephew of Dr. W. E. Irvine, pastor of the Winder Methodist church.

Dalton Park Improved.

DALTON, Ga., Nov. 9.—The city park here is being the center of much planning as the Dalton Garden Club, with the aid of the FERA, is going over the park and old trees are being cut down and new ones planted in their place.

The project, which is the first large one ever undertaken by the club, is creating much interest. The park contains about an acre and is located in the heart of Dalton's residential district.

Candidates Announce.

DALTON, Ga., Nov. 9.—Interest is increasing in the coming city and justice of the peace elections to be held in December, with the announcement this week of three additional candidates.

Hugh Hamilton and Pleas Smith have announced for alderman. G. W. Keister, candidate for re-election as city clerk, has no opposition so far.

Luther T. Mann, attorney; Dr. Edgar Jackson and T. W. Johnson have announced as candidates to fill the unexpired term of the late T. J. Bryant as justice of the peace of the Dalton district.

POLK CROPS ARE FINE, SAYS COUNTY AGENT

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—County Agent W. H. Garner says farm conditions in Polk county are the best in many years.

"We are making plenty of corn and hay to feed the live stock and furnish food for the people of the county," Garner said. "The Irish and sweet potato crops are excellent, and the fall gardens will provide plenty of cabbage, collards and turnip greens."

Garner attributed the improved conditions to the cotton acreage reduction program, which he said had caused the production of more food and feed crops.

DR. SIMEON ROGERS DIES IN KEY WEST

TENNILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—Tennille relatives received a message yesterday announcing the sudden death of Dr. Simeon Rogers, well-known educator, which occurred at his home in Key West, Fla.

Dr. Rogers, a former Georgian, was the brother of Mrs. Herbert M. Franklin, of Tennille. He was the son of the late Mrs. Lula K. Rogers, of Tennille, and Captain James Henry Rogers, of Barnesville. He was reared in Barnesville, graduated from Emory University and received his Ph. D. degree from the Chicago University. For several years he had made his home in Florida, where he was engaged in teaching and in the ministry.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Minnie Cox, of Columbus; one sister, Mrs. Franklin; one brother, J. Henry Rogers, Washington, D. C.; two nieces, Mrs. Louiza McCrary Smith, Decatur, and Mrs. Conrad Roitsch, McAllen, Texas; two nephews, H. M. Franklin Jr; two sisters, Ore and Graham Franklin, Tennille; an uncle, Rev. T. R. Kendall, Atlanta.

GOVERNOR IS SPEAKER AT MONTICELLO FAIR

2,500 Hear Chief Executive at Jasper County School Rally.

MONTICELLO, Ga., Nov. 9.—Approximately 2,500 people from Jasper and adjoining counties greeted Governor Eugene Talmadge here today when he delivered an address from the steps of the Monticello district school building during a county-wide educational rally.

A parade by the school children, exhibits from each school, an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue dinner served on the school grounds and a football game between the Monticello and Gray teams were on the day's program.

Governor Talmadge was introduced by Senator Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray. Representative-elect Lurner O. Benton Jr., of Monticello, introduced Senator Jackson.

The governor recounted that his mother was a native of Jasper county and recalled a visit made when he was 10 years old to his grandparents in this county, coming here from his home at Forsyth, in the adjoining county of Monroe.

He discussed agricultural conditions and said the salvation of the farmer lies in his own hands. He quoted the passage from the Bible which says that the land should be allowed to rest every seven years.

He said the Bankhead cotton act should either be repealed or materially modified by congress.

Cardinal Takes Stand To Defend Character of Insull Defendant

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—George Cardinal Mundelein appeared in the Insull mail fraud trial today to take the stand as a character witness for Harold L. Stuart, Chicago investment banker indicted with Samuel Insull, utilities executive, and 15 others.

The cardinal walked to the stand in Judge James H. Wilkerson's federal court as the afternoon session opened.

"How long have you known Mr. Stuart?" the churchman was asked by Attorney Charles Lounsbury.

"Some 17 years," said the cardinal, "in both a business and social acquaintance."

"Has he been accorded any honors by your church?"

"On my petition," said the cardinal, "Mr. Stuart received one of the highest honors the Catholic church can offer. That is the Order of Pope Pius the Ninth."

"Only one other non-Catholic holds that," he added, naming the late Major General Leonard Wood.

"For what service was it conferred?" the defense attorney asked.

"Without his services," said the cardinal, "we would not have built the International College of the Propaganda Fide in Rome."

"What is Mr. Stuart's reputation?"

"Splendid," said the cardinal.

It was not the first court appearance of the Chicago archbishop, but it was his first visit to the federal courthouse.

He was followed by a second character witness for Stuart. Consul General Berthold Singer, acting in Chicago for Turkey, Nicaragua and Costa Rico.

Mobmen Not Named In Florida Lynching

MARIANNA, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Jackson county grand jury reported today that Claude Neal, a negro, was lynched by "persons unknown to us."

Neal, charged with attacking and killing a white woman, was removed by a mob from the Brewton (Ala.) jail on October 19, and the next morning his body, mutilated with knives and pierced by bullets, was strung from a tree on the Jackson county courthouse square here.

Governor Dave Sholtz, declaring "we do not condone lynching in Florida," ordered an investigation by the grand jury, and said "some of the ring leaders of the mob are supposed to be known." He did not announce the source of this information.

SAVANNAH BODY BUYS PLANT OF MATCH FIRM

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Savannah Port Authority has purchased the local plant of the Diamond Match Company for use in the city's efforts to obtain new industries.

A down payment of $10,000 was made on the plant and the port authority has agreed to make nine annual payments of $10,000 to complete the purchase price of $100,000.

The plant, situated on a tract of 19.34 acres, includes several large reinforced concrete buildings, a complete water system, refrigerating plant and other facilities.

FLANDIN FOLLOWS DOUMERGUE

The selection of Etienne Flandin for the task of forming a new French cabinet offers little assurance of an early solution of the internal problems from which France has been suffering during the last several years.

Flandin has served as minister of public works in the Doumergue cabinet and has been prominent in public life for many years, but he has never evidenced the strength nor determination necessary in the leader who will be able to put an end to the governmental turmoil, brought about by the intense political partisanship and the public unrest, from which France is now suffering.

Previous to the decision of President LeBrun to offer the premiership to Flandin upon the resignation of Doumergue, Pierre Laval and Eduard Herriot, both members of the present cabinet and former premiers, had declined to accept the appointment.

It is hoped that the new cabinet will be composed largely of the members of the Doumergue group, but the situation is complicated by the fact that these statesmen are at daggers' points with each other, as indicated by the announcement of Marshal Petain, minister of war, and General Denain, minister of air, that they would not serve under Herriot if he were chosen.

The French parliament is likewise torn with dissensions, with numerous blocs refusing to co-operate on any sound plan for the enactment of vitally necessary governmental reforms. The situation is made the worse because the government, under French law, is unable to dissolve the parliament and call for new elections without the consent of the upper chamber.

Thus so long as the parliament remains unruly and elects to stay on the job, it can continue to overthrow cabinets at will and the government can do nothing about it.

Doumergue's demand that the senate be deprived of the right to block the dissolution of parliament and the calling of new elections precipitated the downfall of his cabinet. It is clear that until this step is taken, French governmental conditions will remain muddled and the government handicapped in its efforts to maintain permanent policies.

Flandin may be able to find a solution to the political furore now going on, but the odds are against him. He is hardly the type to succeed where so able and generally beloved a figure as Doumergue could not.

THE CAMP GORDON AIRPORT

The decision reached at a meeting of leading Decatur citizens to authorize County Commissioner Matthews to seek FERA aid in the construction of an airport on a 300-acre site at Camp Gordon brings nearer the acquisition by the community of a much needed enlargement of its aviation facilities.

While such an airport will be of distinct service at this time, its greatest value will be in the future. As the air hub of the southeast, Atlanta will need at least two modern and commodious airports. Already many cities throughout the country, occupying a far less important position as aviation centers, have two or more fields.

The longer Atlanta postpones the acquisition of another airport, the more difficult and expensive it will be to secure satisfactory, near-in property to be used for this purpose. It is all the more important, therefore, that every effort be made at this time to secure the Camp Gordon site at the reasonable terms offered by its owner.

The new field will be ideally located, as it is in close proximity to Decatur and on the opposite side of Atlanta from Candler field, serving the section of the city where most of those who own private planes reside. The straight route via Peachtree road to the center of the city can be traversed more quickly and easily than the more roundabout way to Candler field.

The DeKalb county government already holds a five-year lease on the tract and it is to be hoped that the officials of the county will be able to come to an agreement with the FERA that will permit the immediate start toward the construction of the new airport.

RIVER GROUP FORMED

Encouraging progress toward the proposed development of the Chattahoochee into a navigable stream from Columbus to Atlanta marked the meeting of interested groups held in the former city Thursday.

In electing John M. Cooper, of Atlanta, as head of a new organization to forward the project, the delegates made an ideal choice. No man in Georgia is more familiar with the need for such a development, nor the benefits that will accrue not only to Atlanta and Columbus but to the entire northern section of the state. He has been one of the most earnest proponents of the plan to turn the Chattahoochee into a navigable stream and thus secure for the section affected the water rates so vitally necessary to the continued development of the area as an industrial center.

Both Congressmen Ramspeck and Castellow gave hearty approval to the project, and each expressed confidence in its feasibility. Further commendation is given in the speech delivered by Brigadier General Estes, commandant of Fort Benning, who points out the advantage to the government in being able to ship at freight rates the approximately 100,000 pounds of supplies now being annually used by the post.

The improvements proposed to be carried out by the government include, in addition to the work on the Chattahoochee, the development of the entire river basin and its tributaries. In importance it would compare with the Tennessee valley development now being conducted with federal funds.

The keynote of the Columbus meeting was sounded by Mr. Cooper in his statement that "if we get together and pull together and convince our congressmen that we have a real businesslike proposition that will fit into the program of the present administration, we will obtain the development we seek."

That the project is such a proposition is clearly evident. It will revolutionize conditions in a large area—one of the most productive in the south—and will undoubtedly prove self-liquidating. The estimated cost of $65,000,000 is comparatively small, in view of the much larger sums being spent by the government for projects of less importance and affecting fewer people and smaller areas.

Atlanta's existence as an industrial center—and the prosperity of the fine industrial communities that have been built up in the territory affected—is at stake in the movement to make the Chattahoochee navigable. Rival industrial cities and areas have within the past few years secured the benefit of water rates and thus now have an advantage that will make successful competition by manufacturers in this territory impossible, if they are forced to continue to pay the present high freight rates.

Every element of Atlanta business will be benefited by the successful consummation of the project, and it should be given the earnest and universal support of financial, commercial and industrial leaders alike. Every civic organization and individual citizen should get behind the movement in the determination that this vitally needed improvement be secured.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The True Prophets.

So many books have been taken away from me at different frontier stations by censorious custom officials that I carry none at all these days. Yet as chance would have it, sitting in the train one day from Barcelona to Madrid recently, my travel companion happened to be an Anglican missionary, who presented me with a Bible. He soon left me alone and since there was no other passenger on the whole train, not a single one, I fell to reading the book at that part dealing with the sayings attributed to Isaiah. And when I had perused five or six chapters, I thought: What a tremendous thing it is when a man can say—in the face of the mighty of the world, contrary to his own interest and advantage—here I stand, in the might of God, in the name of God. You may denounce me as a fool,' you may laugh at me with your pity, you may lock me up as a dangerous revolutionary, you may even take my life, but nevertheless, here I stand in the name of God.

What a tremendous thing! But thus spoke those prophets. I have not willed this, they said. I have wanted to evade the task as an insane pride that I, little and insignificant man should have to speak of the grandeur of the Eternal, of His justice on earth. I have turned my face away when the Voice called me, for I felt myself weak and helpless and unworthy. And yet here I stand today, I speak to you in the name of God.

All things carry His token; the flower in the field is the work of His fingers; the stars in the deep nocturnal sky turn around Him; man is His creature who can praise Him with his life. Do you not feel that He works eternally at the perfection of His creation? Thus spoke the prophets.

In us burns His fire. His spirit drives us on to serve His righteousness on earth, to preach His peace among the peoples, to found a brotherly community among the children of man, in order that the Eternal shall have a house, a temple in which His spirit may sojourn. Are not the millions of poor and destitute and disconsolate and those who experience injustice, are they not your brothres? How can you take the name of God on your lips and not fight for justice which is the reflection of God among men?

Thus spoke the prophets!

Here I stand in the name of God. You, who feed yourself with the suffering of the miserable, you who grow rich out of the oppression of the poor, you who forge yourselves arms for battle against your brothers, you who call your might sacred, to you I preach the sacred revolution of love. I will not rest till you are awakened in the name of freedom, in the name of love. And even if my life is taken, even then I shall call out: Peoples battle for your freedom. The fire of God burns and His flames are the flames of freedom!

Thus spake the prophets!

What a tremendous thing it is when a man can honestly say: Here I stand in the name of God. So stood the true prophets, and so they stand to this day.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

AUTUMN CAUTIONS FOR WINTER COUGHERS

For more than 20 years the venerable, no, I mean inveterate conductor of this gentle, innocent column has ground out the miserable stuff daily and never missed firing. That's a terrible total of at least 7,500 articles, counting week-days, Sundays and special or extra items. The daily batch of bla-bla contains, say, 600 words, including the questions answered in print. That makes a heinous total of less than 5,000,000 words, which is taciturnity itself compared with the letters I have written to readers. If I had it to do over again I'd palm off carbon copies of the whole works, save 1-10th of 1 per cent, which I do wish I had never written.

October 1, 1914, I issued a first annual warning to elderly folk against coddling. Tried to make it as gentle as I could without taking all the force out of it. Titled the talk "The Bugs in Grandfather's Chest"—and opened with a pertinent question: "Why do so many elderly people have chronic 'winter cough'—chronic bronchitis?" They dealt concisely with the etiologic factors—excessive clothing, insufficient outdoor life, overeating, habitual dependence on alcoholic beverages, and finally the habit of wearing additional clothing on the chest or about the throat in the delusive belief that it will "protect" these "sensitive" or "weak" places against "cold."

Elderly folk, like young folk, here in Yankeeland, take an extensive course in physiology, hygiene, pathology, therapeutics, bacteriology, etc., disabuse in the back pages of magazines and elsewhere and after many years of such study they think they know more than the ordinary family doctor does about scuh things. It is difficult to disbuse a young wiseacre of his cut-and-dried notions acquired in that way. It is virtually impossible to change the mind of an old one about a fundamental question.

The hardened old wiseacre has a slow metabolism, a lowered rate of oxidation, a less active circulation than he had when young. Of course he feels the cold. Of course he enjoys the temporary flushing of his skin with warm blood from within—while the brief spurt lasts: but how he pays for the dissipation when the after-depression comes, as the ephemeral effects of the bracer, cocktail, highball or eye-opener fade and consciousness of the hard, cold reality of existence returns.

Of course the elderly individual finds excessive warmth agreeable. Can't keep the place overheated enough to please him. He likes to bundle himself with all sorts of excessive clothing, on any possible pretext he can trump up, and he does not hesitate to use fashion, custom or convention to favor his own desires in this.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

NO COMMENT WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt was conspicuously silent immediately after election. Newsmen near him considered it strange that he warded off all their election inquiries with a laconic: "No comment." Instead of talking, he hastened back to his White House desk and called in his relief advisers.

The explanation privately offered was that it would be presumptuous for him to say anything. He could not even thank the voters without assuming that the victory was his own. That would get him in bad with incoming congressmen who think they won the election. Far worse, it would be in conflict with the pose he has assumed all along that he took no part in the election.

That explanation is authentic, as far as it goes, but it does not explain all.

Just between you and the gate post, the president was a little perturbed by the extent of the sweep and the added rsponsibility it put on him. Apparently, he thought he could respond better in actions than in words.

ACTION Feelers and hints have been dropped from time to time lately as to what one phase of the "action would be." For some weeks now government experts have been at work secretly on plans for getting out of last winter's dole system into work relief.

One government official met only last week in private with a group of bankers and industrialists in New York. He told them the administration was determined to put all the unemployed to work this winter and cost would not be permitted to stand in the way. They offered no strong objections.

The president himself has hinted as much to recent callers. They have an impression that he will go easy on the money end of the program, probably mentioning no specific amount. That is because the immediate cost of work relief is greater than the dole. The waste seepage is greater. But the work is constructive and has a value for the future, even if it goes no further than giving each hungry man an acre, a mule and a plow.

Also, by some such bold stroke, Mr. Roosevelt can seize the leadership, instead of permitting the incoming congressional crowd to seize him.

PROMOTION The president's forthcoming trip through the TVA project is in line with the new trend. In fact, it is really promotion ballyhoo for the new trend.

Government officials are trying to get as many newsmen as possible to go along on the inspection tour. Extensive arrangements are being made for them to inform the public concerning TVA accomplishments. Up to now, the TVA has been operating very quietly, but apparently it is in shape now for the publicity floodlights to be turned on.

What the New Dealers have back in their heads, of course, is the establishment of projects similar to TVA in other sections (St. Lawrence, Columbia river, etc.).

BONUS COMPROMISE A very influential democrat is at work confidentially on a bonus compromise. He is Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate appropriations committee. Harrison has made several secret trips to Administrator Hines, of veterans' affairs, and even to the White House. The New Dealers plan on working something out before congress forces action.

From all these steps, you can see very clearly that what Mr. Roosevelt is trying to do is to beat congress to the jump on everything.

PUBLICITY The treasury has been mum about publishing income tax returns, but preparations for their publication are being made on the inside. The internal revenue bureau is quietly preparing forms which taxpayers will be required to fill out with their March 15 returns. The forms would require a taxpayer to list the key figures of income and tax paid without any of the details of the return.

However, the bureau is not having these forms printed, as yet. Apparently it believes some one (Mr. Roosevelt or congress) may order the arrangements canceled before March 15.

NOTES The NRA occupies 10 buildings in the downtown area. Its headquarters is in the commerce department building, but it has bureaus scattered in nine other spots.

There is a room in the commerce department which is always kept locked. It is the New Deal hall of fame, where Sculptor Reuben Nakian has finished busts of Richberg, Tugwell, Johnson, Hull and McGrady. He will do Roosevelt and Howe before anyone gets in.

That wasn't an election we had; it was a popularity contest.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

At the risk of seeming hopelessly old-fashioned, I hereby register a formal protest against your invasion of man's ancient monopoly.

I can understand how you and all of your generation feel about it. Raised in the faith that you are man's equal, save in those particulars wherein you are superior to him, you regard it as your right and privilege to compete with him for a job.

I can't blame you for that. Being down town in the midst of things and performing some rather pleasant task to earn your own spending money is much more satisfying than sitting, at home and ask some grouchy male for a dime.

I understand that. And I admire and honor the spunky woman who does a man's work in the world because she must.

But the whole thing is contrary to nature and economically wrong, and eventually it will cost our civilization much more than anybody now realizes.

Women doing man's work, or work that might be done by men, are largely responsible for the problem of unemployment.

They are paid less than men, simply because they are willing to work for less, and thus they reduce the nation's ability to consume its products.

Holding jobs prevents having babies, and thus the present arrangement is at least partly responsible for the nation's falling birth rate.

But there is another and far more important reason why women should leave public work to men.

Peasant women of Europe and Asia can do heavy manual labor without destroying themselves, but American girls aren't built for it.

The hosts of working girls that spend long hours on their feet, month in and month out, may seem to suffer no ill effect now. But nine in every ten will be "chronic grunters" by the time they reach middle-age, and their husbands, if any, will spend their lives paying for patent medicine and doctoring and operations.

Ask any practicing physician if you think I exaggerate.

Woman's unfitness for labor isn't a matter of opinion. It is a simple biological fact. Nature didn't equip you to do a man's work, and you are asking for trouble when you do it.

Love,
DAD.

announcement about the heavy dry state tax.

This has been particularly true of Atlanta, one of the first cities in the state to license the sale of 3.2 in the face of the bone-dry law.

Savannah is considered the most wide-open city in the state, where both beer and liquor may be purchased with ease. Augusta, likewise, has had a reputation of the location of liquor spots as well as beer places.

Many cities and towns, which licensed 3.2 have reported a steady falling off in license revenue since Mr. Page's first announcement about the special tax, which many did not know existed.

JUDGES WILL CONSIDER SOUTH CAROLINA PETITIONS

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Petitions for an injunction to prevent collection in South Carolina of the $1,000 excise tax prescribed by federal law for dealers in alcoholic beverages in dry states were taken under consideration by two federal judges after a hearing here today.

The petitioners, 24 in number, contended the levy was unconstitutional.

Judges J. Lyles Glenn and Frank K. Myers heard the argument.

BORAH DEMANDS 'WASTE' INQUIRY

Hopkins recalled recent statements by them on that subject.

Hopkins made the following reply: "If Senator Borah will be good enough to furnish me a bill of particulars regarding what he characterizes as 'the shameless waste in doling out funds,' I promise him quick action."

Busy with new plans to transfer some of the millions now dependent on federal and state doles onto work relief projects, Hopkins first heard the Idaho senator's criticism without comment.

FERA aids came forward with figures on the cost of dispensing the huge outlays. They estimated 11 1-2 cents out of every dollar as the cost of distributing the funds to the needy.

President Roosevelt had no comment on Senator Borah's investigation demand today, but he said studies wer being pursued with various officials on the relief problem. His hearers gained the impression that the program is taking shape rapidly and may soon become known.

The chief executive also said work on the forthcoming budget, another key to new taxes, had virtually been completed but no total of the amounts to be asked for the various departments and emergency agencies would be available before congress meets.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Many Share Models' Woes NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It is easy to sympathize with the 3,000 New York dress models who complain that the competition of the debutantes is driving them to dinner with gentlemen with whom they would not consent to dine if they had any choice in the matter. However, workmen or artists in so many other lines are beset with similar competition that the dress model can hardly be said to constitute a special case.

Speaking for his own profession or trade or whatever they finally decided to call journalism, if they ever did make up their minds, your correspondent will say that the intrusion of the non-professional is an old story. In this connection it will be understood, of course, that the term non-professional does not mean amateur. The amateur is one who does something for the fun of ft. The professinal is one who does it as a vocation. The non-professional is one who does it for what there is in it but doesn't know how.

In journalism the non-professionals are drawn largely from the baseball and intercollegiate football industries in their respective seasons. At various times of the year pugilism contributes some conspicuous mock-journalists and there is always a threat of non-professional competition from the courts where lady defendants in murder cases or inveterate divorcees of the type of Miss Peggy Hopkins Joyce are induced to write their messages, sometimes with a note of waring, to the young girls of America.

Awful Example On West Coast In a current example, a young California lady is authorizing literature of the type known as the stark human document apropos her husband's trial on a charge of murder. It appears that the young lady and a male poet were being swept away on a tide of emotion, when the husband happened along and eradicated the poet. Up to that time, the lady had never had any experience in journalism, but with the beginning of the trial she turned to more or less belles lettres and has been authoring an exclusive piece every day dealing with the state of her private feelings.

The managers, or attorneys, for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the prisoner in the Lindbergh kidnaping, have been strangely bashful up to this writing, but it is hardly likely that Mr. Hauptmann will actually go through his trial without composing his memoirs. He need not author them by hand. The Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, and many prominent football coaches, or wizard mentors, as the trade calls them, could advise Mr. Hauptmann regarding the painlessness of non-professional or vicarious journalism. They could tell him something of interest regarding the profits, too.

Acting Folk Also Suffer The theatrical profession has suffered equally, if not more so. It was the late Oscar Hammerstein who hit upon the correct notion that the citizens were not quite bright and more morbid than artistic in their tastes. Accordingly, Mr. Hammerstein once imported from the south a young woman who had been publicized the country over as The Cause of It All in an uncommonly ripe murder case. The lady packed his house with customers. Hard upon this artistic triumph, Mr. Hammerstein hired two young ladies who had shot the late W. E. D. Stokes, but, with deplorably trivial results, due to their own poor marksmanship and Mr. Stokes' refusal to hold still and co-operate. Mr. Hammerstein billed his discoveries as The Shooting Stars.

Since then, not only prominent fair denfendants but a large class of other non-professional, but by no means amateur, talent has maintained a punishing competition with the professional actors, acrobats and jugglers in the show business. Long before the 3,000 dress models of New York began to find themselves compelled to dine out with strange gentlemen through no choice of their own, hundreds of professional show people had found themselves standing along the curbs of Broadway with no gentlemen to ask them out, while their rightful places on the stage were occupied by artists who had never taken a lesson in their lives.

One lady spokesman for the 3,000 dress models sounded a tragic note when she said that crowded-out models, accepting invitations to dine for the dinner's own sake, might have to pay for their $1.75 table d'hotes, complete with choice of red or white wine, with that which is more priceless than pearls. This is deplorable, if only because there again you would have a case of unfair competition with the members of an old established profession.

GOVERNMENT AID SEEN FOR BUSINESS

000 or 5,000,000 willing workers, or must the federal government undertake to bring this about, either indirectly through underwriting private activities or directly through the expansion of self-liquidating public projects?"

Richberg suggested that if private enterprise did not undertake the work, it would be sounder to use "public credit and direction" than to continue "public expenditures principally in direct relief or unproductive work relief."

Many economists are convinced of the soundness from an economic standpoint of the proposal. Their fears have centered rather on the practical working out of such a scheme, such as the details of advising each industry or each unit what its production should be.

Simple Process.

It would be comparatively simple, for instance, economists say, to estimate roughly what demand for washing machines, or radios would be with a purchasing power back to normal levels.

The more complex problem would be to decide the quota for each company making these products.

Those studying the proposals contend, however, that while there might be minor inequalities at first, they would not continue. Once the government had gotten industry near normal it could withdraw and permit natural economic forces to work with a minimum of supervision.

Many in Washington believe President Roosevelt will propose some gigantic new move, before congress convenes, for speeding up economic recovery. At least some administration officials and advisers believe it will be something along the lines of the project now under study.

LEGION COMMANDER CALLS ON ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—F. N. Belgrano, of San Francisco, newly elected national commander of the American Legion, called on President Roosevelt today to pay his respects.

The visit was purely social, Belgrano said, adding there was no mention of cash payment of the bonus.

NRA SECRECY POLICY MAY BE ABANDONED

Governors Advised To Return to "Gold Fish Bowl" Methods.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Return, in part at least, to the "gold fish bowl" transparency of early Blue Eagle days has been recommended to NRA's governors after six secretive weeks of board control.

The advice came from S. Emory Thomason, Chicago publisher, who was brought to Washington as a special advisor on public relations and was asked how the board could create a contact with the nation's press beneficial to NRA.

Thomason studied the situation, which had changed NRA from what Chairman Clay Williams termed the "ballyhoo" era to a "work-a-day" standard of almost complete silence. He talked with officials and discussed with newsmen the difficulties of learning what went on behind the daily closed-door meetings of a seven-man board whose activities are vitally important to all coded business and the consuming public.

He found that NRA lacked public relations director and that even its press section had been without an executive head for months. He learned that at least two of the board members flatly refused to talk to the press, that in six weeks Williams had held just one press conference in contrast with Hugh S. Johnson's frequent assemblies.

Vote Fraud Cases Thrown Out of Court

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Election fraud charges against four of Huey Long's New Orleans ward leaders were tossed out of court today when Criminal District Judge Frank T. Echezabal denounced vote-buying testimony of the state's witnesses as modern fairy tales.

The witnesses, members of the federal transient bureau here, had testified that the Long men paid them money to vote the Long ticket in the September 11 congressional primary.

One said that Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, arch political foe of Huey Long, promised him a city job to testify in the alleged vote-bribery case.

The defendants were Edward Burke, Long leader of the second ward; Jake Cuccia, William Farrell and Rudolph Heausler.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

By MOLLIE MERRICK

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 9.—Hollywood is a town where quick fortunes are made and millionaires may become paupers overnight. The financially secure of cinemaland have often been accused of rating their friends according to their pay checks and being too busy to bother with "old friends."

On the eve of Armistice Day, the little groups who meet to talk things over 15 years afterwards don't give much credence to these doubtless exaggerated tales. Saturday night is the time appointed this year in the film colony for old "buddies" to get together and talk things over. And in these meetings present-day standards will be forgotten. Everyone goes back to the place they occupied in 1918, and likes it.

One of the most interesting of these groups is the photographic section of the signal corps, who took a solemn vow, when the armistice was signed, to meet each year thereafter in Hollywood no matter what they were doing at the time.

Al Kaufman, studio executive, was captain and commanding officer of this unit during the war. Wesley Ruggles, director, was in the group, as were Otho Lovering, film cutter; Farciot Edouart, cameraman, and J. Wooster Lambert, now a millionaire sportsman-aviator, who will fly to Hollywood to be with his friends again.

The only comrade missing from the unit this year is George Hill, the director who recently ended his own life, and who served as a lieutenant under Kaufman during the war.

Kaufman and his men will drink a silent toast to the memory of George Hill—as a requiem to the memory of a departed comrade.

Warner Brothers' studio is adither with preparations for "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which Max Reinhardt will direct for them. From the moment the picture was actually decided upon, work was begun in the various studio departments, until now, with not a foot of film shot, it is estimated that some 500 people are already at work in various branches of research, costuming or make-up.

Yet, so far, the cast, with the exception of Mickey Rooney as Puck, hasn't been named; the script isn't complete; nor has Reinhardt arrived to begin work.

When he does arrive, they plan to start things going at once. Perhaps they remember how this genius of the theater trifled with the cinema some six or seven years ago and are afraid he might try it again!

Claudette Colbert says she would love to try her hand at a stage play, but she just doesn't dare.

Not that she hasn't had stage experience and gained great acclaim for her work. But she feels that a return to the stage is nearly as hard as starting all over again, because most fans consider it a venture into a new field.

"Audiences think of an actress as a motion picture star only," says Miss Colbert, "and go prepared to criticize her work accordingly.

"More than this, the technique of the screen is so different from that of the stage, that it is virtually learning all over again.

"So I don't think I'd dare try a play!"

And have you heard that Director W. S. Van Dyke, assigned to make the re-takes on Garbo's new picture, "The Painted Veil," greeted his star with a cheery, "Good morning, Miss Crawford," on the first day they met?

Some say it was pure kidding, and others think it was sheer nervousness on Van Dyke's part.

F. D. R. IS EXPECTED TO CURB SPENDING DESPITE CONGRESS

as entailing additional federal outlays of unknown amounts for initial funds.

More for TVA.

The latest demand for increased outlays was made today by Senators McKeller and Bachman, Tennessee democrats, announced they would seek an additional $250,000,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Reviewing demands already made or contemplated by members of congress for ordinary and extraordinary expenditures and authorizations, democratic leaders today found:

1. Regular appropriations for maintenance of government departments in the next fiscal year, more than $3,000,000,000.
2. Cash payment of the bonus, $2,200,000,000.
3. Relief funds, $1,500,000,000.
4. Public works and related activities as proposed by Senator La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin, $5,000,000,000.
5. Increase in home loan bonds to finance home owners, $1,000,000,000.
6. Increase in farm loan bonds to finance farm owners, $1,000,000,000.
7. Restoration of veterans' benefits, $100,000,000.
8. Expansion of TVA funds by $250,000,000.
9. Land and waterway program, rivers and harbors, $500,000,000.
10. Public debt retirement and interest requirements, $1,500,000,000.
11. A deficiency appropriation bill to cover other demands, $100,000,000.
12. St. Lawrence waterway, $185,000,000.

RFC Angle.

In addition, they considered the possibility of further authorizations for the RFC, and numerous other agencies under the New Deal.

On the other side of the ledger, they looked at the condition of the treasury, where the revenue collected to date in the present fiscal year amounts to $1,319,000,000, including $201,000,000 in processing taxes and $50,000,000 in silver seignorage; a deficit of $1,177,000,000, and a public debt of $27,209,000,000 compared with $23,544,000,000 this time last year.

Total appropriations for the current year amounted to $7,527,559,327, not including the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund. This does not include the authorizations for guaranteeing $2,000,000,000 in farm and home loan bonds and numerous others, such as the $250,000,000 cattle relief and similar measures.

Conservative party chieftains are looking to the administration for recommendation of a new tax measure, a subject purposely avoided during the election campaign. Studies have been conducted by treasury and house experts on the question but no information as to conclusions has been forthcoming.

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, is awaiting treasury recommendations before calling his group together for a study of the revenue problem before congress convenes.

Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, of the house appropriations committee, who conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt on supply bills and relief funds, plans to start hearings on budget estimates within the next two weeks.

PAGE DEPUTIES TO AID GINNERS FILE RETURNS

Reports for August, September and October Will Be Made.

Cotton ginners of Georgia will be assisted in preparation of their monthly returns by 11 deputy collectors, W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue, said Friday.

The deputies will be on duty from 8 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the evening in the following cities on the dates specified:

November 12—Donalsonville, Thomasville, Quitman, Adel, Waycross, Reidsville, Ft. Gaines, Dawson, Ashburn, Abbeville and Alamo.

November 13—Colquitt, Cairo, Moultrie, Nashville, Blackshear, Claxton, Cuthbert, Americus, Ashburn, Eastman and Mt. Vernon.

November 14—Blakely, Bainbridge, Moultrie, Pearson, Nahunta, Pembroke, Georgetown, Ameriucs, Cordele, Eastman and Lyons.

November 15—Morgan, Camilla, Tifton, Douglas, Jesup, Springfield, Lumpkin, Ellaville, Vienna, Hawkinsville and Soperton.

November 16—Albany, Camilla, Ocilla, Hazlehurst, Baxley, Statesboro, Preston, Butler, Vienna, Cochran and Dublin.

November 17—Leesburg, Sylvester, Fitzgerald, McRae, Alma, Statesboro, Cusseta, Butler, Perry, Jeffersonville and Dublin.

Returns for August, September and October are to be made out at this time, as lack of exemption certificates have prevented returns for these months. The certificates now have been supplied to the farmers, Page said, and full returns may be filed. He urgently requested all ginners to take advantage of the assistance of his representatives, and to bring with them all their records, including bale tags and certificates of tagging.

Ginners in counties not included in the above list will receive notice on the time their county seats will be visited the following week.

Judge Refuses Ban On TVA Power Deal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP) Judge W. I. Grubb, in United States district court, late today denied an application of 14 preferred stockholders for a temporary injunction to restrain the Alabama Power Company, the Tennessee Valley Authority and 14 municipalities from entering into a contract for the sale or purchase of distributing systems in the towns and cities involved.

In declining a temporary injunction, Judge Grubb did not rule on the merits of the case, and said he would render a final ruling, after a hearing on a permanent injunction which probably will be set for hearing.

Attorneys for the Tennessee Valley Authority then moved that the case be dismissed, and Judge Grubb said he would hold a hearing on the motion within five days.

Negro Driver Indicted In Two Traffic Deaths

Indictments charging murder and a misdemeanor were returned by the Fulton county grand jury Friday afternoon against Arthur Woods, negro, of 143 1-2 Auburn avenue, whose automobile allegedly struck down and killed Mrs. Frances Hubbard, 21, of 970 Austin avenue, and her two-year-old son, James Pierce Hubbard Jr., on October 29 on Austin avenue near Euclid avenue.

Reuben Garland, Atlanta attorney employed to assist in the prosecution of Woods, stated Friday night that he expects to ask for the death penalty for Woods.

Indictment charging murder also was returned against Joe Fred Lassiter, south Fulton farmer, who on October 28 was alleged to have stabbed Reuben L. Smith, a neighboring farmer, in the stomach and then shot him in the head with a charge from a shotgun during an alleged fight over the division of a crop. Smith died at Grady hospital two days after the fight.

BURGLARS ROUTED BY WOMAN'S GLARE LEAVE AUTO, LOOT

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Miss Helen Swanson, 26, has found that a good way to acquire an automobile is to glare at burglars.

When she and her two sisters, Anna and Hazel, both school teachers, returned home from a grocery last night they noticed lights burning in their residence.

Two men leaped from a rear window and ran to an automobile parked in the street. Helen, however, moved too quickly for them. She placed herself in front of the machine and stood her ground. One of the burglars fired a pistol several times, but Helen didn't budge.

Finally the men, hearing a police siren, fled. They left part of their loot and the car. Helen said the car would more than make up for the stolen property—if the police let her keep it.

SO. CAROLINA SHOWS TEXTILE OUTPUT GAIN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An official state survey today placed the value of textile manufactures in South Carolina at $36,000,000 more for the 12 months ending August 31 than for the previous period preceding.

The survey, made by the labor division of the state department of agriculture, commerce and industry, also cited a $1,132,657 increase in the annual output of cotton seed oil mills.

The report attributed the gain in value of textile products to better business stimulated by the NRA codes. It said the total value of textile manufactures for the 12 months was $203,905,794.

Mill wages increased by $11,755,436 to a total of $54,333,067 for the year, and pay rolls were expanded by 6,512 to a total of 86,660 employes.

Capital invested in the textile industry grew by $4,822,003 during the period to a total of $186,573,437.

GUGGENHEIM REFUSES LIBERTY LEAGUE POST

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Harry F. Guggenheim, of the copper mining family, said tonight he had been invited to join the executive committee of the American Liberty League but has declined to serve. It had been reported that he accepted the invitation.

Peer Would Prosecute Lloyd George for Book

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A suggestion that Lloyd George and H. G. Wells might be prosecuted for inciting to sedition was made today by Lord Marley.

During debate on a bill intended to strengthen provisions of a law against inciting members of armed forces to sedition, he said:

"I hope very much if somebody is going to be prosecuted at an early stage, the government will try its hand on Lloyd George and see what success it has. Similarly, there might be action against Wells." He had reference to books by the two men discussing the conduct of the World War.

Gov. Laffoon Defends Clemency for Slayer

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Summoned to tell a grand jury why he had granted executive clemency to a woman convicted of manslaughter, Governor Ruby Laffoon brought the records here today and told the jurors he liked to temper justice with mercy.

The Bell county grand jury has been investigating the clemency extended Mrs. Frankie Miller, sentenced to serve 15 years for killing Mrs. Amanda Longworth. Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert ordered the inqury after Governor Laffoon had commuted the sentence to 13 months and the woman was released.

"I simply read them the record in the case which showed 25 or 30 good citizens of Middlesboro had recommended a pardon for this woman, and that she had never been a bad woman and had eight children dependent on her care," the governor said as he left the grand jury room.

"I would pardon anybody under these circumstances," he added.

SCOUT HEADS TO MEET WITH THOMAS J. KEANE

Thomas J. Keane, director of sea scouting, will be in Atlanta this weekend to direct a course of training for representatives from Boy Scout councils in Rome, Augusta and many other cities in Georgia.

He will be met at the Union station at 8:30 o'clock this morning by a group of Scout leaders, and a company of picked sea Scouts will escort him to his hotel. The meetings will be held at the Daffodil tea room, beginning at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon and continuing through Sunday night.

COMMISSION TO FIGHT HIKE IN FREIGHT RATES

Increase in commodity freight rates will be fought by the Georgia public service commission, Jud P. Wilhoit, chairman, said Friday.

The chairman has just returned from Birmingham, where he attended the hearing on the petition of the railroads for a general 10 per cent increase on commodity freight rates, and he announced that the Georgia commission will object to any hike. Hearings are being held in San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore., and Chicago, also. Assistant Attorney-General John T. Goree and J. C. Manning, rate expert on the commission's staff, attended the Birmingham hearing with Chairman Wilhoit. Exhibits objecting to the rate increase will be filed with the interstate commerce commission by the Georgia commission, it was said.

TWO HELD AS "REDS" RELEASED ON BOND

With the release Friday afternoon on bonds of $1,000 each of two negroes, Fannie Aderhold and Joseph Moreland, who have been held in Fulton tower charged with inciting to insurrection, only two alleged communists, Mrs. Leah Young and Miss Annie Mae Leathers, of 10 recently arrested, remain in the tower.

Bonds for those held under the charges of inciting to insurrection were reduced several days ago from $5,000 in each case to $1,000.

SENTENCE OF 21 YEARS GIVEN NEGRO BURGLAR

Confessing to burglarizing two Atlanta homes, James C. Jones, 21, negro, was sentenced Friday afternoon by Judge A. J. McDonald, in the emergency division of Fulton superior court, to 21 years.

Jones confessed to burglarizing the homes of Mrs. Mell Tuggle, 920 Cascade avenue, and the home of J. B. G. Roberts, at 1537 Sophie place. He also confessed to attempting to enter the home of J. W. Foster, at 1696 Esmerald street.

ATLANTAN AWARDED $11,233 BY U. S. COURT

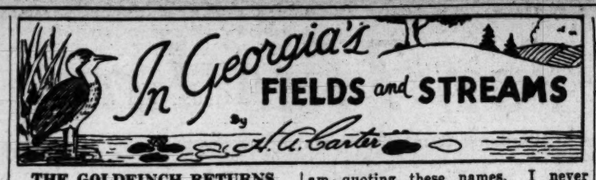

The United States circuit court of appeals has affirmed a judgment of $11,233.60 returned in favor of Henry Edwin Sanford Jr., of Atlanta, a disabled soldier who sued the government to collect on a war risk insurance policy.

In upholding the judgment, the circuit court affirmed a directed verdict in favor of Sanford ordered by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

Sanford contracted an illness after he entered war service in 1917. Payments in his insurance policy lapsed in 1919 but were reinstated in 1927.

RICHETTE RETURNED FOR TRIAL IN MISSOURI

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 9.—(AP)—William H. Sapp, prosecuting attorney of Boone county, late today announced Adam Richetti, aide of the late Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, had been returned to Missouri to await charges of murdering two peace officers here in June, 1933. He declined to reveal where the prisoner will be held pending arraignment.

THE GOLDFINCH RETURNS.

Last spring, when the streets and parkways and fields were filled with flocks of goldfinches on the way north, I wrote one or two items about them, calling attention to their yellow and black uniforms and the more retiring dress of the female bird. Now they are coming southward again, but not as many people will recognize them as did last spring.

The male has put on a really dull coat. He is definitely brown over the back and about the back of the head. His underside is ashy gray with a flush of gold. His wings are still the prominent black appendages of the spring, with tracings and bars of white. It is on the shoulder patch that the male goldfinch retains his one flash of yellow; just a hint to let you know that he is looking forward to the yellow cloak again come March.

I was reading the other day a list of the local names of the goldfinch. Some of them are utterly incomprehensible. Take salad-bird, for instance. Or catnip bird, yellowbird, wild canary, thistle bird, and even shiner I can understand. But lettuce-bird or beet-bird? No. Understand, I am quoting these names. I never heard of the bird called anything but goldfinch or wild canary.

Louis Agassiz Fuertes, whose accidental death halted the career of a great animal artist, has painted a picture showing the American goldfinch and the European goldfinch side by side. It must be admitted that the American bird has more flash and brilliance, while the European species has more varied colors. The face of the European goldfinch, for example, is red, bordered toward the back with a white blaze, which in turn is edged by a black line. The wing of the European bird bears a broad stripe of yellow. His body color is approximately that of the back of the male American goldfinch in winter. Somewhat darker, withal.

The female of the American bird in winter takes on a bit warmer color than that of her summer gown. A suffusion of red appears from somewhere to make the bird appear to be wrapped in heather-colored tweeds. Or isn't it heather?

To go to a museum cabinet and examine the goldfinches in their cycle of plumage is a joy, but I am inclined to believe that pleasure comes second to looking for them outdoors, as they come and go. I have often wished they might nest here. One never knows. Fifteen years ago a robin had never been known to nest around Atlanta. Now they are double-brooded here.

WAR ON SCREW WORM TO BE MAPPED TODAY

All state and federal agencies which are engaged in the fight against the screw worm will meet in Atlanta today to unify a program of attack on the pest, Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist, announced Friday.

In addition to a heavy toll on live stock, amounting to nearly 100,000 cases, there have been at least 75 cases reported where the screw worm has attacked human beings. The area of the state south of Augusta and Atlanta seems to be the hardest hit by this pest, Yeomans said.

STORE IS ADDED TO WARREN GROUP

Modern in every way is the eighth and latest addition to the group of stores established by the Warren Produce Co.

This new store is located at 1165 McLendon avenue, Little Five points. It was opened, said R. L. Warren, proprietor, in response to a demand for Warren service in that community.

Charles Davis is manager of the poultry department and Mrs. Settle and Mrs. Travis are in charge of the produce department.

During the morning from 10 until 12 and in the afternoon until 5, the house will be in charge of the Council of Jewish Women, with Mrs. I. F. Sterne, president, and Mrs. B. B. Fox, chairman. In the evening from 5 until 9 p. m., the house will be in charge of the Ansley Park Civic League, W. D. Hoffman, president; J. Hope Tigner, secretary, and Mrs. W. P. Dunn, chairman.

Kirkwood Civic League, Mrs. C. A. Virgin, president, Monday, November 19.

CHARGES TO BE HEARD BY FULTON COMMITTEE

George L. Bell Jr., chairman of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, Friday called a meeting of that body for 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 4, to consider complaints of Judge A. J. Hartley, of Peachtree district, that the committee is not functioning properly.

Hartley asserted that a group of committee members feel that committees should be kept with complete personnel at all times and that all members should function. He said under the present arrangement, the chairman, vice chairman and secretary run the committee.

DRIVER IS KILLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

J. C. Jailette, 25, of College Park, Crushed Under Heavy Machine.

Fatally crushed when the cabless truck he was driving veered from the highway, ran up a steep embankment and fell back on him, J. C. Jailette, 25, of 300 West Oglethorpe avenue, College Park, died early Friday morning while being taken to Grady hospital in an ambulance.

Jailette was making a trip in the College Park sanitary truck to get a load of dirt at an FERA project on West Harvard avenue, College Park, when, according to D. L. Weaver, of 451 Crew street, S. W., FERA worker, the accident happened.

Weaver, who was fixing a tire on his automobile near the scene of the accident, said that Jailette passed him on the street, driving at a moderate rate. A short distance after he had passed the Weaver automobile the truck veered off the road and up the embankment. Jailette was thrown from the seat and the truck toppled over on to him, Weaver said.

Jailette suffered a crushed skull and severe internal injuries and died en route to Grady hospital in an A. C. Hemperley ambulance.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Carol; his mother, Mrs. Carrie Jailette; a brother, Ralph Jailette, all of College Park, and a sister, Mrs. H. L. Brown, of East Point.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Welcome All Baptist church, with the Rev. Chester Adams officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard, with A. C. Hemperley in charge.

Scalded by Coffee, Woman Dies at Grady

Mrs. Otis Langley, 23, of 22 North avenue, N. E., died at Grady hospital Friday afternoon of burns received Wednesday when a percolator of hot coffee was spilled on her shoulders and back.

She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Daniel; three brothers, Alvin, Wesley and James Daniel, all of Atlanta; two sisters, Misses Eunice and Sarah Daniel, also of Atlanta, and two grandmothers, Mrs. M. S. Perry and Mrs. L. Daniel, of Atlanta.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

ST. PAUL CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE CLOSING OF YEAR

Pageant week will be presented as a special feature of the closing of the conference year at St. Paul M. E. church, it was announced Friday. The program will begin Sunday morning, November 18, and close the following Friday night.

The Rev. Henry Jones will use a text with which he began his ministry as a 17-year-old boy preacher Sunday morning. A pageant will be presented Sunday night. The Rev. Dr. Louie D. Newton and the Seth Parker Club of the Druid Hills Baptist church, will present a program Monday night. The Rev. Dr. B. F. Fraser will speak Tuesday night and negro spirituals will be sung by the St. Paul choir.

"An Evening With John Wesley and His Family," will be presented as a play Wednesday night, and Professor Ralph L. Ramsey, superintendent of the Fulton County High school and representative-elect from Fulton county, will speak.

Bishop Warren A. Candler will speak Thursday night and an old fashioned country singing with several choruses competing will feature the Friday night closing program.

The program, one of the most unique in recent months, is sponsored by the board of stewards, which is divided into five teams to sponsor each of the night's offerings. The public has been invited to attend.

DRUID HILLS BAPTIST TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE

A special Armistice Day service has been planned at the Druid Hills Baptist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Dr. Louie D. Newton will preach from the text, "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." A musical program has been arranged for the service featuring patriotism.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, Congressman Robert Ramspeck and Mayor James L. Key will make short talks before Dr. Newton speaks. Other distinguished honor guests will include Major General George Van Horn Moseley, of the fourth corps area; Adjutant General Lindley Camp; Quimby Melton, past state commander of the American Legion and vice commander of the national Legion; John M. Slaton Jr., A. L. Henson, W. A. Sirmon and others.

KRAMER TO CONDUCT 4 SUNDAY SERVICES

Dr. James W. (Big Jim) Kramer, noted speaker and former Atlanta boy, who has been preaching each night at the Central Baptist church, will conduct four services there on Sunday.

He will speak at the meeting of the Bible school at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, and at 11 o'clock he will deliver an address entitled "How Much Are You Worth?" At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon he will speak on "What's the Matter With the American Home," and at the 7:30 o'clock meeting his subject will be "Don't Die on Third."

Dr. Kramer is accompanied by Grant Sinclair, who is directing the large chorus choir. Mr. Sinclair sings at each of the meetings.

SERVICE COMMISSION FIGHTS RATE INCREASE

The Georgia public service commission has intervened as an objector to the proposal of railroads for a general increase of 10 per cent in commodity freight rates, Commission Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, announced Friday.

Hearings are now being held in San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Portland, Chicago and Birmingham on petitions of the railroads to the interstate commerce commission for increases in the commodity freight rates. Chairman Wilhoit returned from Birmingham Friday morning after sitting with Hugh Tate, of the interstate commerce commission, in the Birmingham hearing for two days, and expects to go back if the hearing continues there.

Assistant Attorney-General John Goree and J. C. Manning, rate expert on the commission's staff, also attended the hearing in Birmingham to get ideas for exhibits the Georgia commission plans to file combatting the rate increase proposal.

Threat of Castor Oil Puts Man on "Wagon"

Threatening to adopt punishment measures prescribed by a New Jersey magistrate in the treatment of prisoners charged with drunkenness, Recorder John L. Cone Friday said the next time J. E. Cross takes a drink and faces him on charges of intoxication he will administer a dose of castor oil to Cross. Shuddering, Cross told Recorder Cone that he "was on the wagon from now on."

NEW OFFICERS NAMED BY TRINITY METHODIST

MORMON TEMPLE HEAD SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Elder George F. Richards, one of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and president of the Mormon temple in Salt Lake City, will address three meetings in Atlanta Sunday. They will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7:30 o'clock at night, at 485 North avenue, N. E.

Elder Richards and his son, Elder LeGrand Richards, Georgia president of the Southern States Mission of the church, have just completed a tour of the southern states, on which they visited every important city in Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, conducting gospel meetings and missionary services.

STATE BANKERS PLAN SERIES OF MEETINGS

A series of group meetings of the Georgia Bankers' Association will be inaugurated Monday at Moultrie, when a rally will be held in honor of J. Truman Holland, of Thomasville, president of the association.

Other meetings are scheduled for Atlanta November 20, Augusta November 21, Macon November 22, and Savannah November 23. Self-protection of banks against burglaries and holdups will be discussed at each meeting.

Removal of Prisoners to New Jail Set for Today After False Starts

Prisoners will be transferred from the old, chilly and dark cells of the police barracks on Decatur street to the clean, modern and well-lighted cells in the new five-story annex of the police station at 8 o'clock this morning, according to a special order issued Friday afternoon by Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant.

Police have made several false starts to transfer the prisoners. The first attempt was curbed when it was discovered there were no keys available for the new locks in the annex and therefore no means of either incarcerating or releasing the prisoners. Again the transfer was balked when it was discovered that the telephone in the new annex had not been connected.

The keys were located and Friday telephone workmen completed the task of connecting the telephones.

Four turnkeys will be supplied by each watch to admit prisoners to the new jail. One of the turnkeys on each watch will be designated the chief turnkey and the other three on that watch will report to him. The chief turnkey will be stationed on the ground floor and a second will operate the elevator which will take the prisoners to their floors. A third turnkey will be stationed on the third floor and the other turnkey will be on duty on the fourth floor. The turnkeys will be assisted by able-bodied negro prisoners, who, according to the special order, will assist the turnkeys in the lodging of prisoners.

Armed White Bandit Gets $100 at Grocery

A white bandit, aided by a lookout, Friday noon calmly held up and robbed a grocery store at 811 Gordon street, S. W., obtaining between $90 and $100. The two bandits were identified by police as the pair who at the same hour Thursday held up a grocery store on Highland avenue, getting about $75.

The man who entered the store, according to R. R. Ramage, manager, was about 45 years of age. He took a basket, selected some groceries from the stock on the shelves and in the bins and with the full basket, stopped at the cashier's desk as though to pay the bill. He reached into his pocket, according to Ramage, but instead of bringing out money, pulled out a .38 caliber revolver which he level at Ramage and ordered him to open the cash register.

G. F. Hill, a clerk, and Henry Arnold, a customer, were in the store at the time.

The bandit, after rifling the cash register of its contents, walked out of the store where he was joined by a younger man who had acted as lookout. The two got in a new automobile parked at the curb and drove away.

No Dry Referendum Needed, Key Insists

Mayor James L. Key in telephone conversations from Albany Friday reiterated a previous statement that no referendum is necessary on repeal of the state bone dry law.

He has held consistently that the law was passed without a referendum and that drys have no right to demand that the matter be sent to the people in order that it might be repealed.

His latest announcement followed a request by W. W. Gaines, prominent church layman and head of prohibition enforcement committees, that Governor Eugene Talmadge seek a referendum based on the county unit vote system.

The Gaines suggestion also drew the fire of Bond Almand, one of Fulton county's legislative members, who contended that the county unit plan would not be fair. Almand pointed out that three small counties with a few hundred votes could outweigh the thousands who live in Fulton county.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

By ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Rhoda Cornboise becomes engaged to Major Ralph Stornack, nearly twice her age, due to the management of her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Major Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his prison warder. Rhoda met Major Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Rhoda writes Colin of her engagement. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV.

"Rhoda is not here. She has not slept in her bed. She has not slept with any of the girls . . . Do you understand? She has disappeared. On her wedding day."

"O!" said Mr. Cornboise, and: "A remarkable coincidence!"

Mrs. Cornboise flung out of the room leaving the door open. She was a portly woman but she almost ran back to Rhoda's room. She shut the door and locked it. Then she began a careful examination of the room.

"I must keep cool and not jump to conclusions. There was only one other man—and he is in prison."

There was Rhoda's nightdress in its case. Then she began a careful examination of the drawers and wardrobes, noticing first that the girl's dressing cases were all in their proper places.

"There's nothing missing at all except a dinner frock and a cloak and the shoes that went with the frock. . . . Then she hasn't gone to that man—I knew she couldn't have—how could she if he's in prison!"

She went back to her husband's room. He was wandering about in his pajamas and, to her surprise, he met her with a practical suggestion.

"A young woman is likely to be disturbed and over-imaginative on her wedding eve. It is possible that Rhoda was restless and went out for a walk. In the last few months she often took long walks by herself—she used to tell me about them."

"That might have happened. William," she said, as gently as she could for, being an efficient woman, she never blustered. "But as a matter of fact she didn't. I have checked her shoes. If she had gone out walking in the shoes I know she was wearing they would have dropped from her feet in less than an hour."

Mr. Cornboise was at a loss. He was not at his best in a purely practical situation.

"I might ring up the police and ask them if they've seen her wandering."

"I'd thought of that and it's quite useless. If they had they would have let us known already. The whole countryside for miles around knows she is being married today. And if they had seen her they would have told us already."

"Then, my dear, if she is not in the house and she has not gone out of the house—" Even Mr. Cornboise's severely logical mind was apt to betray him in practical emergencies.

To the little man's profound alarm, his wife covered her eyes with her hand and for the first time in his life he saw her overcome with emotion.

"William, I've struggled, I've plotted, I've planned . . . After that awful false step she made with that young Briarley. And I succeeded. One couldn't possibly have hoped for a better marriage. And now I am at the end of my tether, William. I'm beaten. It will be all over the house in 10 minutes. Even if Rhoda turns up within an hour there'll be nasty whispers that may reach Stornack's ears. And if she isn't back within an hour—there'll be no wedding. Instead there'll be scandal. It won't affect you with your science. But it will be the end of me—as well as of Rhoda."

She moved towards the door.

"What are you about to do, my dear?"

"Talk—bluff—lie," said Mrs. Cornboise desperately. "And I'm going to keep it up for an hour."

Mrs. Cornboise was better than her word. She talked and bluffed and lied until the guests began to arrive. As the majority were coming from a long distance they were to proceeed from the house to the church.

She waited until 50 or more had assembled and then tried the boldest bluff of all.

"Isn't it absurd!" she drawled. "Rhoda has gone off on a jaunt somewhere—no one seems to know where. She's cutting it awfully fine—she'll have to scramble into her wedding dress. One simply doesn't know what these young people will do next nowadays."

It did not go down very well because it was not in the least her style. People looked embarrassed so she rushed to the telephone, rang up Stornack and told him.

"I don't know what to suggest, Ralph," she said desperately. "I almost think you had better come here. It's getting rather awkward with people arriving every minute.

It was quite a long time before he answered.

"If I turn up, Mrs. Cornboise, and —er—Rhoda doesn't, I shall—er—look rather a fool, shan't I?"

"You're quite right, Major Stornack," Mrs. Cornboise spoke now with the dignity of an abdicating queen. "I am extremely sorry, but I am afraid the wedding cannot take place. I will tell our guests."

With almost those words she turned and faced them.

"I am sorry to have to tell you that the wedding will not take place. The presents you have so kindly sent will be returned as soon as they can be packed. . . . Daphne, run to the lodge, there's a dear, and tell them to turn the cars back. And we shall have to let the rector know."

She turned to her husband.

"William, telephone the police. It is possible that Rhoda may have been murdered."

"Yes, my dear!" He spoke breathlessly, for Mr. Cornboise had seen in his wife's eyes that she positively hoped that her daughter had been murdered. It would save her face.

Rhoda Cornboise was married at 12:30 to Colin Briarley at St. Seiriol's church, Manchester, with a pew opener as witness.

It was a perfectly legal ceremony down to the most minute detail. Caermaen had seen to that.

"As to your address. I have worked it out that if this prison had a number it would be 147 High road, Manchester, so I have given you that."

The address meant as little to the vicar as Briarley's name. It was over six months since his name had appeared in the papers and in that time the busy vicar had married quite literally hundreds of people.

"And now may I be the first to address you as 'Mrs. Briarley.'" said the vicar, as he shook hands. He had made that little joke at all the hundreds of weddings at which he had officiated and he had never known it to fall flat.

They left the church in silence, got into the car and drove away.

"Well, Mrs. Briarley," said Colin, like all the other newly made husbands, "as we have been married quite five minutes it is high time I laid down the law. Listen to the voice of your lord and master. . . . No newspapers on the honeymoon, darling. Don't even look at the posters."

"I'd thought of that," she said quietly. "I meant to suggest it to you. We mustn't talk or think about anything but—just ourselves.

He nodded and threaded his way through the traffic of Manchester.

"Where are we going for our honeymoon?" she asked.

"I don't know. Does it matter?"

"Not in the least. Let's just drive on and see what happens."

Eventually the coast of North Wales "happened." In the early evening they stopped without premeditation in a seaside village nestling amongst the hills, with wooded slopes running to the sands—and knew they need go no farther. Everything in the village was right for a honeymoon—even to the proprietor of the old world inn, who successfully pretended he did not know they were honeymooners. The inn itself was just right.

There were strenuous mornings in the mountains, lazy afternoons bathing and sun basking.

A generation ago, in the days of the great war, young people loved each other and went on strange honeymoons of feverish joy just like these two. In those days, for tens of thousands, doom waited at the end of the honeymoon—a few days would be all that either would ever know of happiness.

Now and again their laughter would be a little unnatural as the shadow of realization would fall upon them. But, strangely, these moments were rare. Some deep hidden, merciful instinct came to the rescue and they were able to live in the present.

By not letting themselves think of time they enjoyed the illusion of timelessness. To an outsider they might have seemed an unenterprising couple. They did not want to tour the country—they seemed to like going for the same walks again and again. The truth was that they had no time to waste with maps. They did not want to drive to the nearest town for entertainment. They were content to watch the sun sink and the stars come out. They just wanted to be—together.

Not that either of them really forgot the time. Each kept a notch of the days—secretly—thinking the other had forgotten. Time was a forbidden topic.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday. Cruelly the notches mounted. Their brief tale of happiness was very nearly told.

On the Monday evening they strolled out after dinner and sat on the beach. Their last night together.

He felt that he must break the rule then and speak to her about their plans for the morrow. He was groping for words when she suddenly burst into tears and clung to him.

"We can't pretend any longer, Colin."

"No, dear, we can't. We—" His voice quavered away into nothing. Presently he tried again. "It's been worth it?"

"Yes, Colin." She braced herself with sudden strength. "It's been so much worth it that now I can think about paying for it. Can't you?"

"Yes, I believe I can." He was surprised, for he had just discovered a truth. "I believe now that I can keep sane—keep myself—for—twenty years."

"Why twenty years?" she demanded. "You didn't do it, Colin. And don't you think that sooner or later the truth always comes out?"

"Sooner—or later." A mirthless laugh broke from him. "Of course, the truth might come out—in the end. But there's nothing to work on. It was all so desperately simple. There must have been two men in it. One must have turned off the light just when Simpson and I were talking to each other. And the other one must have dashed forward and committed the murder. And then he must have slipped away and mixed with the others. The way the furniture was fixed he must have jumped over a table. And very close to me, mind you. And he must have done it all so silently that I didn't hear him. . . . We can't talk about it. Tomorrow will you let me drive you to Oldham? I get on dear old Jack's bike there. You can go on by train."

"Yes. And we must start in good time. We mustn't take any risk at Jack's expense . . .Think what he has done for us, Colin."

"Yes—there are very few things I wouldn't do for Jack Caermaen. Let's go in, dearest."

The magic of the honeymoon had gone and they had become two married lovers in the shadow of separation. She got up and they walked back to the inn.

"Colin, I'm wondering what I shall say when I get back. I can't tell them that I've married—you. Because of Jack."

"Yes. I hadn't thought of that."

"Do you think I need go home? Have you enough money for me to go to London and train for some job?"

He thought it over.

"I have about 400. I'll write you a check for the lot and I'll date it before my trial. And I'm afraid you must pay a hundred back to Jack—we've been living on his money."

"I won't forget," she said. "I shall always think of Jack. Like you, I feel I'd do anything in the world for him."

"I don't think the London idea is up to much, darling," he added. "And I don't think your people would stand for it. You couldn't really cover your traces—and your mother would turn up and make things rather hot wherever you happened to be staying. It isn't only a matter of training, I'm afraid. You've got to get the job after that."

They had reached the inn. It was no longer a fairy castle. Instead, it had become just—an inn.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Once more we come near Armistice Day. This year it falls on Sunday, but in many places it will be celebrated on Monday.

Sixteen years ago, the people of the earth learned that a halt had been called to what was probably the greatest madness in all history. Four years of the horror of the World War came to an end—or at least it seemed that the end had come.

It is hard for anyone who did not take part in the first Armistice celebration to gain an idea of that mighty throb in the heart of humanity. Soldiers in the trenches, who had feared that they or their friends might be the next to die, were filled with a great relief—now they could go back home and see their loved ones again.

The people "back home"—the parents, wives, children and friends of the soldiers—were no less joyful. They gathered in crowds, they shouted, they laughed and they cheered. It is not likely that there will ever be, during the lifetime of any of us, such another outpouring of human emotion.

I hope there will never again be such a reason for that kind of joy. We who live in the twentieth century, we who have done such fine things in science and invention, should not allow another World War to blast away so much of what we hold dear.

The Armistice spelled the end of the flying of bullets and cannon balls, the use of poison gas, and the blowing up of factories, homes and other buildings with bombs dropped from airplanes and zeppelins; but it could not end all of the sorrow and suffering.

There were millions of homes to which the father could never return. There were millions of mothers who could never hope to speak to their sons again. There were millions of wounded soldiers who would never be completely well—they were crippled, blinded, or otherwise injured for life.

Then there was the hunger, which was worst in Germany, Austria, Russia and the "Near East." When I visited Germany in 1923, the hunger had not altogether left the land. A little girl in Munich, about 12 years of age, gave me a picture of herself. She explained that it had been taken several years before, when she had not become thin through hunger.

Let us who are living now, strong in the strength of knowledge, highly resolve to do our best to save the world from another horror of this kind.

FLANDIN PLEDGES POLITICAL PEACE

New French Premier Will Continue War on Depression Forces.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Pierre-Etienne Flandin, newest "truce" premier, promised the nation tonight to fight the depression as aged Gaston Doumergue went back into the retirement from which he was called to rescue France from civil war.

Flandin's program, with which he hoped to win the backing of France's watching millions, included these important points:

1. Continuation of the policy of political truce inaugurated when February's bloody Stavisky riots scared politicians into agreement.
2. A fight against poverty and unemployment.
3. Economy in government.
4. Rapid adoption of the 1935 budget.
5. Strengthening of the authority of the state.

His program, in general, resembled Doumergue's. There was, however, one important difference.

Doumergue gave constitutional revision prominent place. He insisted that his plan, which would have stripped the senate of power to dissolve the chamber and given it to the president and premier, should be voted before the budget. On this rock his ship of state wrecked, for the powerful radical socialists, headed by Vice Premier Edouard Herriot, refused to support him.

Flandin's program relegates constitutional revision to secondary place, with the result that his government is assured of an adequate majority when it faces the chamber of deputies Tuesday.

Flocking to his support were the radical socialists, who got eight portfolio's in the government as against six they held under Doumergue; the republican federation; the popular democrats; the social republicans; the republicans of the left and the radical left.

In the senate, as well, the majority of political factions have adopted resolutions favorable to the new government.

Bandits Use Tear Gas For Covering Retreat

CEDAR GROVE, N. J., Nov. 9. (AP)—A smooth-working gang of seven or eight men, heavily armed, today raided the First National bank, looted it of between $9,000 and $10,000 in cash, and filled the place with tear gas to cover their escape.

Soon after the bank opened in the little suburban community the gang struck. At gunpoint, Frank Delsosse, a teller, was forced to open the vault, while Gustave Meier, the cashier, another employe and three depositors were herded into a wash room and locked up.

Meanwhile the robbers working in the vault hastily scooped up all the available currency and silver. As they retreated, they threw tear gas bombs which filled the place with choking fumes.

No shots were fired in the hold-up.

Studebaker Company To Be Reorganized

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A reorganization plan for the 82-year-old Studebaker enterprise was projected today to terminate the receivership under which the company has been operating since March, 1933.

The plan will be presented to the United States district court for northern Indiana under section 77-B of the new federal corporate reorganization act, it was announced by Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta, chairman of the reorganization committee.

Under the plan, provision is made for about $5,500,000 in new cash and elimination, as such, of the corporation's present funded and other debt of more than $23,000,000. Through an exchange into the new corporation's common stock, showing a book value of more than $9 a share, it is planned to retire $5,808,200 in existing preferred stock.

On completion of the reorganization, the securities senior to the 2,138,299 shares of common stock of the new company will amount to $6,867,698 in 10-year 6 per cent debentures. This compares with a total debt and preferred stock of more than $28,000,000 of the present company.

Underwriters of the new cash requirements of the plan will be Lehman Brothers, Field, Glore & Company, Hayden, Stone & Company Goldman, Sachs & Company and associates.

Under the plan the principal executive officers are to be Paul G. Hoffman and Harold S. Vance, two of the receivers now operating the business.

ROBLES PROBERS WAIT FOR ROBSON TO "TALK"

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A hint that federal operators were waiting for Oscar H. (Buster) Robson, suspect in the June Robles kidnaping, to "talk" was dropped today as his wife and an attorney battled at court for the right to assist him with counsel.

"Maybe if Oscar ever decides to talk he will learn more about the case," said Joseph E. P. Dunn, department of justice agent.

Shortly thereafter Mrs. Margaret Robson, who has resolutely asserted her husband had nothing to do with the long-unsolved desert mystery, was allowed to see the prisoner in the presence of a federal agent.

"I don't feel much better since I talked with my husband," she sobbed as she came from the meeting.

NEW MINERS' STRIKE SETTLED IN HUNGARY

PECS, Hungary, Nov. 9.—(AP)—After brief negotiations, a fresh strike by coal miners here was settled late today. The miners agreed to go back to work.

The first strike attracted world-wide attention because the desperate miners refused to eat while deep in the earth in the gloomy mines.

"New Deal" for Legal Field Urged by U. S. Attorney Here

R. H. Jackson Calls on Bar Groups To Quit Aiding Clients Seeking To Hamper Administration

ROBERT H. JACKSON.

The time has come for the financially hard-pressed legal profession to call upon its bar associations to stop lending themselves to clients who want to embarrass or prevent the "New Deal" in government and to seek a "'new deal' for lawyers themselves," Robert H. Jackson, assistant general counsel of the United States treasury department, told the Atlanta Lawyers' Club Friday night.

Mr. Jackson spoke before the Lawyers' Club in its rooms in the Citizens & Southern building at 5:30 o'clock. He spent Friday in the city as the guest of E. Smythe Gambrell, Atlanta attorney, and planned to leave this morning for the Tennessee valley to "take a look," as he expressed it, at the work being done by the TVA.

Former chairman of the national conference of bar association delegates, Mr. Jackson is one of the most distinguished of the younger branch of the American bar. His present duties are to supervise administration of the legal department of the bureau of internal revenue, his work dealing with questions of tax collection.

Economic demoralization, he told the Lawyers' Club, has crept upon the legal profession as a whole since the close of the World War. "While prosperity has smiled upon a limited number of lawyers with fortunate business connections," he said, "the rank and file have had a losing struggle between rising overheads and declining business."

Two Causes Blamed.

He blamed the economic woes of the profession on two main causes, the concentration or control of the nation's business in relatively few hands, decreasing the number of clients for lawyers, and the concentration of income in relatively few hands, with low incomes for the great number with the result they have neither property interests to protect nor ability to hire legal service.

The concentration of business in few and fewer hands, the mergers of banks, the creation of vast holding companies to operate utilities, the gradual elimination of the small businessman by the chain stores, has further reduced the number of available clients for the lawyer, he said.

"Perhaps the bar as a whole has some punishment coming to it," he remarked. "Of all kinds of overproduction from which the country suffered the overproduction of stock certificates was most disastrous. The overproduction of stock certificates was the work of lawyers. The trail of no small part of the misery and deprivation which people have suffered during this depression leads back into the law offices of some of the men who are now shocked and horrified that the 'New Deal' should be 'interfering with business'."

Promotion of Welfare.

"I urge that the bar associations recognize that the interests of the many lawyers in general practice are closely identified with the general welfare of their neighbors and that efforts to promote the general welfare are far more advantageous to the bar as a whole than efforts to protect special interests. Such an attitude would be the best answer to the underworld's scornful estimate of the lawyer as only a 'mouthpiece'."

In 1929, Mr. Jackson said, practically 60 per cent of families in the United States had annual incomes of less than $2,000, although, in 1929, an income of $2,000 was sufficient only to supply basic necessities.

"We all know," he said, "that clients with money are more desirable than clients without it. The census of 1930 shows 139,059 lawyers in the United States. Yet only 600,000 families had $10,000 incomes, only about four to each lawyer. The number of desirable clients had become scarce. Plainly, we need some kind of game laws to preserve our clients."

"We hear from eminent lawyers with the Liberty League complex," he declared, "that the government is about to 'regiment industry.' No leagues were ever formed to prevent our small businessmen who were our clients, from being 'regimented' into mergers and goosestepped into consolidations. Men who find nothing wrong with being governed by a 'bureaucracy' of holding company executives scream at the thought of business being governed by a 'bureaucracy' created in the public interest."

Masses Regimented.

He declared it vain to offer "limping legal formulas" and "muddled maxims" to solve the problem of the great mass of disadvantaged people. The 72 per cent of the families with incomes below $2,500 a year are already regimented by poverty, he said. "They are regimented into certain kinds of dwellings, in certain quality of neighborhood. They are automatically regimented out of certain amusements, recreations and cultural privileges that mankind values. The portion of our population that in 1929 had incomes sufficient to escape the relentless regimentation of poverty was very small but very vocal."

Declaring that conditions of today demand thinking fitted to conditions of today, Mr. Jackson said "the bar, if it is to offer an acceptable leadership, must regard its legal principles as aids to right plans, not as prohibition of plans. From the bar the people expect leadership and too often find only advocacy."

P. O. TO RENT TRUCKS FOR HOLIDAY PERIOD

Proposals will be received at the postoffice garage until 10 a. m. November 19 for hire of vehicles without drivers on an hourly basis for use in collecting, delivering and relaying mail during the period ending December 31, 1934, Acting Postmaster Lon Livingston said Friday.

The postoffice requires 10 trucks of from three-quarters to 1 1-2 tons capacity. They will be in service approximately 10 hours a day, each truck totaling 40 hours during the remainder of the quarter. Bids must contain certificates of compliance under executive order 6646.

NEW FRAUD BARED BY FRENCH POLICE

One Arrest Made in Probe of Network of Concerns Involved in "Swindle."

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Revelations of an alleged financial swindle of vast proportions, involving the juggling of millions of francs through a complex network of companies, were made today by police after the arrest of Joseph Levy.

Police struck at the activities of Levy and his cousin, Charles Levy, last night, and today made a search of their offices.

The case broke the day Gaston Doumergue stepped out as premier of France, and Pierre Etienne Flandin became head of the government.

The Levys, charged with abuse of confidence, floated several hundreds of millions of francs worth of bonds for a network of companies. Several men high in the government were on the directorates of some of the firms.

It was charged by the police that the government paid 1,900,000 francs to one of the Levy companies to be passed on by it to manufacturers whose plants were damaged in the war. The manufacturers, the charges continued, did not receive the money.

The new premier, who realizes that the Stavisky scandal almost brought on a revolution, has urged the press to watch the new case.

Broadway's 'Lady for a Day' Dead, Pauper's Grave Waits Hunt for Kin

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Apple Annie, Broadway's Cinderella for a day, lay in the morgue tonight with her husband, the victims of accidental asphyxiation, while police searched for relatives or friends who might save them from burial in potter's field.

Her real name was Helen McCarthy and her husband was Thomas McCarthy, a shoe salesman before times got bad.

But she was "Apple Annie" to thousands of Broadwayites who saw her each night selling apples from a small green cart beside the Hotel Astor a few steps from Times Square. The people who live well and enjoy fine food were wont to pause at the little cart, on the way from a rich dinner at the Astor to some near-by theater, and buy an apple from Annie "just to keep the doctor away."

Annie's great moment came a year ago when a Broadway press agent conceived a stunt for a motion picture called "Lady for a Day." The apple woman was plopped down in a fine car and driven off, with benefit of a motorcycle escort, to a suite in the Waldorf-Astoria. She still had her basket of apples in her hand and reluctantly checked them with a surprised doorman.

At the hotel Annie was shown a selection of fine clothes from which to choose a costume for a luncheon that day at Sherry's. To the surprise of everyone, she refused advice on her choice of wardrobe and herself chose an outfit with excellent and expensive taste—from lingerie to gloves. Later it was learned that she had years before been a lady's maid for wealthy families and had traveled extensively.

So Annie, lady for a day, looked like a blue-blooded matron in her new finery and at the luncheon was quite the most poised lady there, among a group of motion picture stars and other guests.

She enjoyed it hugely and talked a great deal about herself—of the sights she had seen abroad, how she had met the pope, and how she had danced with the purser on the ship.

When the day was over, Apple Annie, like Cinderella at the stroke of 12, went back to her dingy flat, her aging husband and her daily round of selling apples in all weathers.

Almost a week ago her body and that of her husband were found, dead of gas fumes in their one-room place, and today the police announced Annie's identity.

G. M. C. To Stagger Car Introductions

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation announced today a new policy to stagger 1935 model introductions to spread labor employment over the year.

The announcement was contained in the quarterly report to stockholders of Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president.

Mr. Sloan said that in the future certain new models would be introduced in the late summer or early fall, as distinguished from the introduction of all new models at the end of the year, or the beginning of the following year, the current practice of the industry in general.

"The change is being made," the president's report stated, "directly in the interest of the wage earner, with the hope that a possible contribution can be made toward improving the continuity of his employment. The problem is to be attacked by an attempt to level the curve of consumer sales."

One Killed, 11 Burned In Explosion on Ship

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An explosion beneath the bridge of the coastwise tanker, Caliche, today set fire to the vessel and caused the probable death of one seaman and injuries to 11 others.

The Caliche had cleared port here only an hour before and was steaming down Mobile bay en route to Texas City, Texas, with a cargo of 30,000 barrels of oil and gasoline, when suddenly she exploded amidships, throwing the bridge high into the air and scattering blazing liquid in all directions.

So rapidly did the flames spread, that one member of the crew said no time was had to launch boats, forcing the crew to dive overboard into water covered with blazing gasoline.

U. S. Seeks Revision Of St. Lawrence Pact

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Conversations have been started with Canada over a slight revision of the St. Lawrence waterway pact which the administration, in all likelihood, intends to resubmit to the senate.

Williams Phillips, the undersecretary of state, on his recent visit to Ottawa, suggested to the prime minister of Canada that the United States would like to consider one or two minor modifications in the treaty which was rejected by the senate last session.

President Roosevelt disclosed this today in response to inquiries at his regular press conference.

DR. OGDEN CONCLUDES SERVICES HERE SUNDAY

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, who has been conducting a series of special services this week at the Central Presbyterian church, will bring the series to a close with a sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday morning on "The Final Test of the Truth" and one at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night on "Four Fools."

Special music for the closing services has been arranged by Lawrence G. Wilson, director of the Atlanta Philharmonic orchestra. Dr. Ogden is pastor of the Napoleon Avenue Presbyterian church in New Orleans.

Jobless Set to Fishing To Feed County's Needy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—State emergency relief headquarters put out a new bulletin today. In part it read:

"An unusual and profitable work project was set up . . . today when 15 fishermen were employed to catch fish for the relief clients of Smith county.

"The fishermen will provide their own licenses, boats and other equipment and the fish will be distributed to the relief clients holding orders for food. . . . They will be paid on a piece work basis."

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

"Different" Air Picture Is Presented at Fox

At the Fox is a different sort of air picture. That much we can report without fear of reasonable contradiction. Whether "Hell in the Heavens" is an improvement or otherwise in relation to its predecessors in the same field must remain largely a matter of personal reaction.

This story is not concerned so much with the birdmen's battles with the enemy in the air as with their perhaps more terrible struggle with blue funk between flights. An effort is made to show how really brave men, as well as imaginative weaklings, crack under the constant strain. This is a slant that hasn't been extensively dwelt upon in previous air films and is a sound theme.

List then, this good central idea as one of the picture's chief assets. Another is a passable performance by Warner Baxter as the harassed ace, together with good support by the rest of the cast. Perhaps the bright spot is the one wherein the hero finds—after both have fallen in combat—that the dreaded German baron was beset by mad fears, even as he.

Against these virtues, must be recorded some notable weaknesses, largely on the technical side. We submit that it is a bit too much to ask us to swallow the spectacle of two fighting planes crashing head-on in mid-air and hurtling to earth with neither pilot receiving anything more than scratches! And all this, of course, without benefit of parachutes. Another fault is a bit too thickly sentimental an attitude which seemed to place aerial combat on a plane just a little above knighthood's lofty level in regard to honor and regard for the enemy and so forth. Of course the planes, as usual, were like nothing seen in the war but that seems to be an accepted anachronism too well entrenched to be questioned.

A newsreel, Paramount Pictorial and special college short complete the program. —LEWIS HAWKINS.

Miriam Hopkins Stars In Paramount Feature

"The Richest Girl in the World," which opened Friday at the Paramount, should find high appeal with every cinema fan.

The production provides Miriam Hopkins with a role in which she gives one of her outstanding performances with her endearing eccentricities. The action never is too slow, and the type of entertainment is of the first order.

The story presents a novel interpretation of the age-old maxim that money can't buy everything. Dorothy Hunter (Miriam Hopkins) couldn't gain her a taste of true love. So she "gives" her wealth to her secretary-companion, Sylvia (Fay Wray), and by exchanging identities tries to find out if Tony Travis, played by Joel McCrea, modest broker's clerk, is attracted to her as much as she is to him.

Dorothy's charm fascinates Tony, but Sylvia's supposed millions dazzle him. Accordingly, he proposes and is accepted by Sylvia. A jealous husband, a "sleep walker," and strange activity at an Adirondack lodge during one night ignite the fireworks which all but expose the whole plot to Tony. The action then moves at staccato stage to a surprising and pleasant finish.

The glamour, dash, and sophistication which one would expect in the richest girl in the world are admirably suggested by the lovely Miss Hopkins. She makes Dorothy Hunter a convincing character. Likewise, Joel McCrea is splendid in his role, and Reginald Denny and Henry Stephenson are equally fine in the supporting cast.

A Merrie Melody cartoon musical comedy, an interesting feature depicting the "Nerve of Some Women," such as parachute jumping, etc., and a newsreel complete the program.

Faith Healing Father Held in Child's Death

CRISFIELD, Md., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The congregation of the local Church of God this afternoon assembled to "pray out of jail" Preston Thomas, member of the sect arrested for failing to obtain medical aid for his three-month-old baby, who recently died from colitis.

Thomas told Magistrate Fred Holland that he believed in the power of prayer rather than medicine in combating illness. When the magistrate ordered him held under $500 bond for action by the grand jury, he refused to make any effort to put up the bail.

"If you put him in jail, we'll pray him out," declared Mrs. Thomas. The shouting and praying began immediately after they left the courtroom and, according to members of the church, continued tonight.

Thomas was arrested on a writ secured by his brother-in-law, Reynolds McCurdy, after Mrs. Thomas' mother had reported to him that no doctor had been called when her grandchild sickened and died.

Cutting Still Holds Lead Over Chavez

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Senator Bronson Cutting, progressive republican who has apparently retained his seat in the United States senate in the face of a democratic landslide in Tuesday's election, tonight still maintained his lead over his liberal democrat opponent, Dennis Chavez.

Returns from 759 precincts out of New Mexico's 772 gave: Cutting 73,531; Chavez, 72,381.

SAVANNAH MAN DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Henry Franklin Jackson, 43, Savannah automobile mechanic, was instantly killed when the automobile he was driving left the highway four miles south of Yemassee, S. C., this afternoon and crashed into a tree.

Mr. Jackson is survived by his widow, three sons, James, Reggie and H. F. Franklin Jr., of Savannah; one daughter, Jean.

CONTROL PLANNED FOR CIVIL AVIATION

Four Leading Organizations Notify Air Policy Body of Formation of Co-ordinating Committee

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Uniting in a new recommendation for the establishment of a permanent federal commission to control all phases of civil aeronautics, the four leading aeronautical organizations of the country today notified the Howell aviation board of the formation of a joint aviation co-ordinating committee for the purpose of promoting the interests of civil flying in the United States.

Composed of eight members, the new co-ordinating committee will be made up of representatives of the four sponsoring groups, including the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, the Independent Aviation Operators of the United States, the National Aeronautic Association and the National Association of State Aviation Officials.

In a communication to Chairman Clark Howell, of the president's aviation investigating and policy commission, officials of the four national aeronautical organizations stressed the desirability of setting up a permanent agency to supervise and direct civil aeronautics. Callidg attention to previous testimony before the commission of individual representatives of the four organizations in favor of a permanent federal air commission, the letter to Chairman Howell said in part:

". . . Testimony of the representatives of these four organizations before the federal aviation commission was practically unanimous in favor of the proposal to recommend the formation of a permanent federal aviation commission, which would have complete control of all phases of civil aeronautics. Consequently we should like at this time to invite the attention of your honorable body to this unanimity of opinion on this matter and particularly to urge the careful consideration of the federal aviation commission of the merits of this proposal."

Continuing its executive hearing on war department policy the commission today received further testimony from Assistant Secretary of War Woodring and army air corps officers on the subject of procurement.

The following summary of testimony of war department officials as prepared by Brigadier General Charles E. Kilbourne, assistant chief of staff, war plans division, was released by the commission:

"This morning (November 9), the federal aviation commission continued the hearings of Assistant Secretary of War Woodring and General Pratt, of the air corps, on the subject of procurement. This was a subject of congressional investigation during the last session and of many wide differences of opinion. It was brought out in the hearings that the purchase by negotiated contract, so much discussed last winter and which is the method utilized by all foreign nations, has been practically abandoned in favor of competitive bidding, a method more in keeping with American precedent and desire by the small and new manufacturer.

"The main objections to the systems of competitive bidding appear to be in the character of the product produced, in the fact that it increases the difficulty of maintaining secrecy for advanced designs and in the delay inherent in the method. The system does not lend itself as well to making changes during the process of manufacture.

"The wide differences of opinion existing between the office of the assistant secretary of war, who is, by law, charged with all army procurement, and the material division of the air corps, which is the operating agency, have nearly all been adjusted and both are working together towards the common end of overcoming the disadvantages referred to above. Testimony showed that much progress has been made along this line, but it remains evident that unless broad discretion is left in the hands of the secretary of war to determine the method of purchase and, under the negotiated contract system, to determine the number of planes of any type necessary not only for engineering experimental test but also for tactical experimental test, it will never be practicable to insure the most prompt development and delivery of purely combat planes.

"The Honorable Ross Collins, of Mississippi, was the first witness before the commission this afternoon. He also discussed the problems of aircraft procurement.

"Following his hearing the war department hearings were resumed and the subjects of protection of design rights and patents were considered."

3 ROBBERIES REPORTED; NEGRO SUSPECT JAILED

Police arrested a negro on "suspicion" in connection with the burglary of a Peters street store and were investigating the burglaries of two residences Friday night.

Officers locked up a negro giving the name of Ernest Miller, of a Humphries street address, and said he was implicated in the burglary of the grocery store of Mrs. J. M. Bailey, at 401 Peters street, where $25 worth of groceries were stolen. The residences of A. Walbe, of 852 Mentell drive, N. E., and A. G. Pratt, of 1105 St, Charles avenue, were ransacked Friday night but no estimate of the loot was given in reports to police.

ARMY FLYER IS KILLED IN PANAMA ACCIDENT

COLON, Panama, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Lieutenant Morris Goldberg, of the army air corps stationed at France field, died today of injuries suffered when his plane struck an artillery spoting tower. Goldberg was 30 years old yesterday.

He suffered burns and internal injuries, and Private Edward J. Lutman, of the Seventh aero squadron, sustained burns and other injuries not considered serious. Both men were thrown clear of the plane after the accident and were spattered by burning gasoline. The craft was destroyed.

DR. S. J. PHELPS HEADS WINTHROP COLLEGE

ROCK HILL, S. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Shelton Josephs Phelps was inaugurated as the third president of Winthrop College today before a distinguished audience of educators and state officials.

The 50-year-old former dean of the graduate school of George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., received the oath of office from Chief Justice J. G. Stabler, of the state supreme court, and formally became the college's chief executive, succeeding Dr. James P. Kinard, who was made president emeritus. Dr. Phelps has been acting head of the college since last July.

In his inaugural address, Dr. Phelps expressed the belief that the State College for Women offers a most favorable field for the development of progress in education.

Negro Helped by Roosevelt Proves Warwick in Election

Here's Sylvester Harris, Mississippi cornfield negro, shown as a modern Warwick and being thanked by Arthur W. Mitchell, first negro democratic congressman, for the speeches which were largely responsible for Mitchell's defeat of the veteran republican negro congressman, Oscar Depriest. About a year ago Sylvester, full of trouble over impending foreclosure of his home and farm, left his mule in the furrow and called up President Roosevelt on the phone. The president reassured him, set alphabetical wheels in motion and saved Sylvester's home. When election time rolled around, Sylvester, full of gratitude, went to Chicago and told the people in the colored section there what President Roosevelt had done for him, with the result that Mitchell, a negro originally from Alabama, was elected. Rayon Made From Georgia Pine At Experiment Station at Tech

Rayon from Georgia slash pine is the latest product of the state engineering experiment station at Georgia Tech, under the direction of Professor W. Harry Vaughn. Motion pictures of the new process were shown for the first time Friday night at a meeting of the alumni association in the administration building of the school.

"We cannot say that we have a rayon yarn ready to be put on the market," Professor Vaughn declared, "but we are optimistic over such a possibility. We have actually developed a rayon yarn from slash pine pulp."

The pine pulp used in the experiments at Georgia Tech is the same as that used by Dr. Herty in his experiments in perfecting a usable newsprint from slash pine, according to Professor Vaughn.

"When the process is perfected it should be of great value to the state, and particularly to the farmers who have land with suitable pine growing on it," said the director.

Following the pictures on rayon experiments, the audience was shown a number of reels on other projects of the experiment station, including tests for increasing the uniformity and tensile strength of cotton yarns, utilization of rayon waste and tests for developing more perfect fire bricks from Georgia kaolin.

Professor Vaughn said that fire bricks made from Georgia kaolin are much superior to any other fire brick now on the market in withstanding intense heat and sudden changes of temperature. He also pointed out the great value of this project to the state.

"The clay deposits of the Pennsylvania region are fast becoming exhausted," said the director, "while Georgia retains almost unlimited resources in a superior clay."

Pictures also were shown of Professor T. Edward Moodie, of the aeronautic department, flying the Tech autogiro.

Talks were made at the meeting by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech; Al Loeb, vice president of the alumni association, and Professor Vaughn.

Great Audience Is Swept Off Feet Under Spell of Tibbett's Artistry

By MOZELLE HORTON.

Lawrence Tibbett literally swept Atlanta off its feet Friday night when he greeted an audience 5,000 strong in the city auditorium, singing his way anew into their hearts, swaying their emotions at his will, making them laugh with him, making them sigh with him, making them almost weep with him, making them adore his art with him.

For a full two hours and a half Tibbett was the commander, the audience his worshipers. He received the greatest ovation a singer has received in Atlanta since this writer has been reviewing concerts, and when the hour required my leaving in order to get this to you, he was still singing, graciously complying with the crying demands for "More! More!" from the throng that all but sieged the stage after the printed program was over.

To say that Tibbett is a great singer and a great artist expresses it mildly. To realize the full measure of his power it is necessary to be present at one of his concerts. Each song is a masterpiece under his spell. In every interpretation he offers something new, something different, something of Tibbett, and yet always that deep respect for the composer, whether he be Handel or Jacques Wolfe.

He is an iconoclast who steps out of the chains of tradition in concert presentation, and yet his concerts are diffused with artistic finish of incomparable style. He departs from the usual, and projects his magnetic personality into a voice that is marvelously wonderful, and the result is—well, it is Tibbett.

Loves Layman Public.

Tibbett is a disciple of the truest and finest art, yet with it he is the people's artist. He loves his layman public, as well as his musicianly public, and his response is to the heart's desire of all. Tibbett never fails to please.

Tibbett's voice possesses a wealth unsearchable, a richness that defies comparison, a power that thrills, a technique that leaves one marvelling. And, above all, Tibbett is the master of his voice. He knows how to use it to the best advantage. And his musical common sense serves him in co-operation with his fine sensitiveness and artistic taste to make him stand out as one of the greatest living artists.

Tibbett opened his program with Handel's "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," abounding in classic beauty; "Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded," an Irish melody arranged by Vincent O'Brien; concluding the group with the rousing "Good Ale," by Peter Warlock. The audience appreciation at the offset demanded an encore, which was granted in Handel's "Where'er You Walk."

The second group could hardly be surpassed in sheer loveliness. The first two were Brahms' songs, "No Longer to Entreat You," and "Love Song." Schubert's "The Omnipotence" combined religious fervor with majestic vocal tone. A fitting encore to such a group was Richard Strauss' "Tomorrow."

"Emperor Jones" Number.

The highlight of the program, a number that sent cold shivers down your spine in its dramatic presentation, was an excerpt from "Emperor Jones," by Gruenberg, that American opera which Tibbett has sung at the Metropolitan with such tremendous success during his past two seasons. The encore was an extremely clever interpretation of the aria "Largo al factotum" from "The Barber of Seville."

Two songs of Jacques Wolfe, "God's World" and "The Hand-Organ Man," followed by "Traffic," by Charles Ridgeway, contrasted moods and thoughts in the most fascinating manner, calling for three encores of popular appeal, a very humorous "American Lullaby," by Gladys Rich; "Shortin' Bread," by Wolfe; and "Sylvia," by Oley Speaks.

The last group on the printed program was Moussorgsky's "Death's Lullaby" and Coleridge-Taylor's "Eleanore," but encores had to be given to the hungry crowd, and they were "The Flea," Moussorgsky; "Glory Road," "Wolfe; "Long Ago in Alcala," Messenger, and I left him singing "On the Road to Mandalay."

Stewart Wille furnished Mr. Tibbett impeccable accompaniments throughout the program, and he stepped out of the role of accompanist long enough to reap a share of the honors in a group of beautifully executed piano solos which included "La terrasse des audiences du claire de lune," by Debussy, and "Gardens in Spring," by Walter Niemann.

U. S. Scores Persia For Fliers' Detention

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mincing no words, the United States formally protested to Persia today against the reported discourtesy shown there recently to two American entrants in the England-to-Australia Air Derby.

In a note that made no pretense of friendliness, detailing the treatment accorded John H. Wright and John Polando when they made a forced landing October 23 between Mohammerah and Abadan because of minor engine trouble, the United States said it was "at a loss to understand" the action of the Persian authorities.

Although granted Persian permission to fly across that country and land there if necessary, Wright and Polando were detained 24 hours and subsequently withdrew from the race at Karachi, India, because they felt the delay precluded any chance of their winning in the handicap division of the great air derby.

10,000 Attend Funerals Of Political Victims

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—On an autumn-browned mountain top, 10,000 men and women, among them leaders of the state democratic party, stood silently by today as five miners, slain in the ambush of an election-eve parade, were buried in a mass ceremony.

Five hearses, moving abreast, led the long, slow procession up the hill while church bells tolled. Behind them walked the thousands, including Joseph F. Guffey, United States senator-elect, and George H. Earle, the next governor.

The services over, those who filled the churches joined crowds in the street in the procession that followed the cortege to three adjoining burial grounds above Kelayres, the mining settlement where the tragedy occurred.

STATE'S WITNESS SEEKS LEA PARDON

Accountant Says Evidence Shows Publisher Put $800,000 Cash in Bank.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Full pardon for Colonel Luke Lea, former United States senator and Nashville publisher, now serving a term in the North Carolina penitentiary, is being sought by W. S. Coursey, prominent accountant who appeared as chief witness for the state in the Asheville bank fraud case, Major Phil B. Whitaker, Chattanooga attorney, divulged here tonight.

Major Whitaker said Mr. Coursey was basing his request for a pardon for the former senator on "new evidence discovered since he appeared as chief prosecution witness."

The new evidence, according to Major Whitaker, who conferred with Mrs. Lea a few days ago, is that prior to Lea's series of loans from the Central Bank & Trust Company, of Asheville, the former senator put about $800,000 in cash in the bank which he has not been able to recover.

Major Whitaker released a letter from Mr. Coursey to Governor Ehringhaus, of North Carolina, setting out the "new evidence" and stating, "I firmly believe that if these facts had been developed before the jury, conviction would not have resulted, and I also believe that the grand jury would not have found a bill of indictment for conspiracy."

The letter further set out, "I am so very interested in seeing that the injustice done Colonel Lea be righted I hold myself in readiness to come to Raleigh and go into further details with you or your pardon attorneys."

Reached by long-distance telephone tonight, Governor Ehringhaus told a Chattanooga Times representative, "You are giving me my first information about it." He explained, however, that all communications dealing with pardons went directly to the commissioner of pardons. He said Edwin Gill, commissioner of pardons, makes investigations for all pardon requests before laying the matter before him.

IVY LEE SUCCUMBS IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

the German dye trust within three months after Adolf Hitler came in power as German chancellor.

The inference in the investigation was that Lee was acting as a propagandist for the German nazi interests.

Lee's Defense.

Lee's defense was that he was employed merely as a public relations expert for a German corporation and that any advice he had given the Germans regarding their relation with the United States was as much in the interest of Americans as Germans.

Lee himself preferred to be known as a "family physician to big business." He conceived the relationship between business interests and the public as one which could be smoothed by explanation and advice and even his strongest critics admitted he did much to induce business to drop the "public be damned" attitude which had been characteristic of an era of American history.

Lee did yeoman service not only for the Rockefellers, Standard Oil, Pennsylvania Railway, Bethlehem Steel and other concerns but frequently advised other corporations both domestic and foreign. In recent years he was particularly interested in soviet Russia and did much to explain the soviet system in this country.

"The assumption is that I'm the champion free publicity hound in the country," he said in an interview last June, "but if you take the newspapers and count up the publicity that comes from me you'd laugh. Nothing is more ridiculous than the idea that I can get the newspapers to print anything I want them to print."

Native Georgian.

Lee came to New York from Cedartown, Ga., the son of a Methodist preacher. He had attended Emory College (now university) and then went to Princeton where he was graduated in 1898. He began post-graduate work at Harvard but his funds gave out and he obtained a job as a reporter on a New York newspaper. From that he branched into publicity, working for the press bureau of the democratic national committee.

His real start came when he was engaged "to interpret the Pennsylvania railroad to the public and interpret the public to the Pennsylvania railroad."

Railways at that time were under continuous attack and Lee saw they must adopt new tactics if they were to win any favor in the public eye. He induced many reforms in the road's dealings with the public and with newspapers and finally became virtual spokesman for the business interests he represented.

In an interim job Lee was European manager for a Wall Street banking concern but returned to the United States when the Rockefeller interests became involved in the Colorado Fuel & Iron war. He took over the public relations of the whole Rockefeller family and continued as their spokesman throughout the remainder of his life.

Lee liked to quote from the Bible. One of his favorite verses was that beginning "Let your light so shine." For his employers he changed it to read: "Make your light to shine," and because he could make many lights to shine with a benevolent radiance he died a rich man, one of the first to make a great fortune from an ability to make his fellow men think well of each other.

Lee is survived by his mother, Mrs. Emma Eugala Ledbetter Lee; his widow, who was Miss Cornelia Bartlett Bigelow, of St. Paul; two sons, James and Ivy Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Chandler Cudlipp, and a brother, all of whom were at his bedside when he expired.

Mr. Lee had a number of close relatives in Atlanta and Decatur, including his aunt, Mrs. Carrie Hughes, who was at his bedside when he died.

Others are Mrs. Mary Waddy, his aunt; Earnest Ledbetter, his uncle; Mrs. S. B. Ledbetter, of Decatur, who was his aunt by marriage, and the following first cousins: Miss Frances Ledbetter, of 1307 West Peachtree street; Mrs. Madge Ledbetter Lee, of Decatur; Miss Lillian Ledbetter, who is connected with the Georgia Power Company here; John H. Ledbetter and L. W. Waddey, of Atlanta. The Rev. C. M. Ledbetter, of Lyons, was his uncle.

Mr. Lee had many associations in Atlanta, and at one time was connected with the Georgia Power Company as public relations counsel. He attended Emory University when that school was located at Oxford, later going to Princeton.

Oglethorpe University conferred an honorary degree on him here in 1931.

Relief Roll "Drunks" Facing 30 Days in Jails

Atlantans on relief rolls who appear before Recorder John L. Cone to answer charges of drunk or disorderly may prepare to spend 30 days as guests of the city, Recorder Cone threatened Friday in dealing with G. C. Covington, of 152 1-2 Edgewood avenue, arraigned on charges of drunk and disorderly.

"If you beneficiaries of the New Deal cannot show more appreciation for what the government is doing for you than to get drunk, you cannot expect any mercy when arraigned in this court. I'll have a straight 30-day jail sentence awaiting those who abuse the privileges of the New Deal and spend all or part of their relief benefit tickets for whisky," Recorder Cone stated.

1 DEAD, 4 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Negro Killed Here in Year's 54th Fatality; Others Hurt on Highway

A negro was killed and four persons in a party returning to Macon following the Gordon Institute-Boys' High football game were injured in two automobile accidents in or near Atlanta Friday night.

The negro was Eugene Cato, 62, of 501 Humphries street. He was fatally injured when he walked into the side of a car driven by W. G. Price, of Campbellton road, at Whitehall and Humphries streets. He died at Grady hospital.

His death brought the total killed inside the city limits of Atlanta this year to 54 and was the third fatality this month.

Mrs. E. M. Angier, of 216 Buford place, Macon; her daughter, Miss Adelaide Angier, and Alfonso Menendez and C. A. Bush, students at Gordon Institute, were severely injured when their car, driven by Bush, crashed into a unlighted parked truck in the middle of the road four miles below Hapeville.

Deputy Sheriff J. A. Chapman, of Clayton county, said the truck was driven by a man named Bruce, who was arrested by the officer but made his escape before he could be taken to the jail at Jonesboro. Chapman said the man walked away in the excitement.

The four from Macon were treated by a private physician in College Park for cuts and bruises. Menendez, who lives in South America, was the most seriously hurt, receiving a deep scalp wound.

BRANN NOT TO SIGN MAINE LIQUOR BILL

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Governor Louis J. Brann tonight said he would not sign a liquor bill which failed to provide for hotel and restaurant sales.

"I want the people of Maine to have what they voted for," said Governor Brann, "or else submit it to the next legislature."

The passage in the house and senate for engrossment of the Tupper bill, which did not make provision for such sales, occasioned the governor's statement.

CHAMBER TO POLL OPINIONS ON NIRA

Committee Favors New Act To Give Industry Self-Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Three quarters of a million representative business men today were given opportunity to express their views on whether NRA, even as reorganized, should be continued.

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recommended that the recovery act not be renewed on its expiration in June, and that a new act should give industry self-government.

Copies of its recommendations were mailed to chambers throughout the United States for expression of opinion before congress convenes.

Outstanding among the recommendations was one that all existing codes be scrapped.

Without naming them, it contended many codes had objectionable features.

Under the plan outlined, industry would write its own codes. Upon it would rest primary responsibility for enforcing them. A board of three to five members, appointed by the president, would have authority to reject proposed agreements.

NRA opponents have charged the recovery administration with avoiding a constitutional test of authority to regulate intrastate business. The committee insisted that for lack of jurisdiction only industries in interstate commerce should be placed under agreements.

Nothing was said of a revival of the anti-trust laws with the expiration of NIRA, but the committee recommended that parts of an industry be permitted by the government commission to make separate agreements "if not harmful to others engaged in the industry."

As for the varying interpretations of the act's 7-A collective bargaining clause, the chamber was told that congress should make it clear that membership in any type of labor organization was not requisite to employment, and that "neither the right of a minority group to deal collectively nor the direct right of individual bargaining is precluded."

As the minimum price and production regulations, it insisted that these should be the exception, although open price-filing should be kept. It advocated retention, too, of the provisions for minimum wages and maximum hours and a ban on child labor.

REORGANIZATION PLEAS HEARD IN U. S. COURT

Hearing of petitions of the Hurt Building Corporation and the Atlanta Realty Corporation for corporate reorganization started Friday in the federal district court with Judge E. Marvin Underwood presiding.

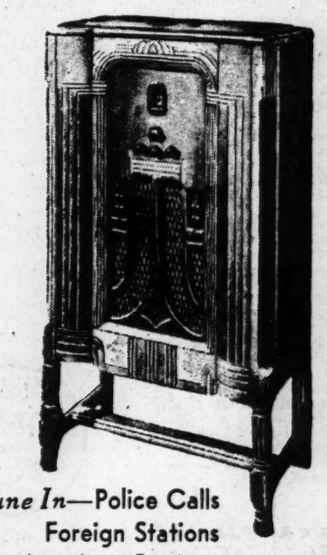

Appearing as counsel for bondholders of the Hurt Building Corporation are W. E. Moise, Robert T. Jones Sr., Bob Crenshaw and Arthur Douglas.

James A. Branch, Henry L. Greene and B. P. Gambrel are representatives for the Hurt Building Corporation. Petitions for the corporate reorganization are being presented under section 77B of the bankruptcy act.

Shorter College Alumnae Luncheon To Be Held in Atlanta on Nov. 17

The General Alumnae Association of Shorter College will hold the annual luncheon in Atlanta on November 17 at the Biltmore hotel, at 12 o'clock. The luncheon is one of the most delightful events of the alumnae year and is enjoyed by a large and representative group of graduates and former students of Shorter.

Mrs. J. J. Clyatt, of Tifton, president of the General Alumnae Association, will preside at the luncheon, and honor guests will include President and Mrs. Paul Cousins, Dr. C. R. Wilcox, Dean Mildred Mell, several trustees of the college and a number of distinguished alumnae. The feature program of the luncheon will present "A Thousand Years of Alumnae Loyalty" and will introduce the "Pop Up Plan."

The Atlanta Shorter Club is hostess for the affair, and the chairman of arrangements is Mrs. J. C. Dixon. Mrs. Arthur Pew Jr. is president of the Atlanta chapter. Reservations are being made in advance with Mrs. Dixon.

Hugh Trotti Jr. Wins First Award.

Hugh H. Trotti Jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Trotti, of 230 Wilton drive, in Decatur, was the first child to receive an award in the Decatur Woman's Club child popularity contest which the club is conducting preliminary to the kiddie kabaret at which the club will entertain December 12, 13 and 14. A bonus of 10,000 votes was given little Hugh by the contest committee, friends having cast 16,200 votes in his favor during Thursday, the openig day of the contest.

Mesdames Leon McNeal and Clyde Z. Walker will count each morning ballots cast the preceding day, adding a bonus of 10,000 votes to the child having made the greatest gain on the preceding day. The ballot box is in Threadwill pharmacy, Decatur.

Little Marguerite Hall, granddaughter of Sheriff Jake Hall, of DeKalb county, was entered by her grandfather on Friday as a contestant. Other new entrants include Bane Stewart Bradley, of Lithonia; Jacqueline Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Knight, 202 Nelson's Ferry road; Reba Joyce Lumsden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. E. Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyist.

A Successful Gamble.

The advanced player is justified in making gambling bids and gambling plays which the beginner should not attempt. The fact that an expert successfully creates a swing in his favor by an unusual and daring bid does not mean that a less experienced player should attempt the same trick. On today's hand, for instance, the South player first bid a singleton suit and then jumped to two notrump on a very weak hand. He did this originally in an attempt to shut out the opponents from reaching a game which he thought they had; however, when the subsequent bidding showed South that it was more probable that the game was North-South's than East-West's, he stood by a very dangerous redoubled contract. He knew the temperaments of his partner and his adversaries and was able to make certain inferences that definitely seemed to favor his hazardous course.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♣	Dbl.	1♠(1)	Dbl.(2)
Pass	Pass	2NT(3)	Pass
3NT(4)	Dbl.(5)	Pass(6)	Pass
Redbl.	Pass	Pass(7)	Pass

1—On East's takeout double South, because of his great length in his partner's suit, fears that the opponents have a game in one of the majors. In an attempt to bluff the opponents, South decides to make a bid over the double in what appears to be the most dangerous suit.

2—West's double is atrocious. However, the West player realizes that South's spade bid must have been made on a singleton or doubleton spade because his partner's takeout double almost certainly guaranteed something in that suit. West doubles accordingly to expose the psychic spade bid, completely disregarding the fact that he himself has a trickless hand.

3—South decides to throw a further barrier in the way of the enemy. Naturally, South has no way of telling that his partner has much more than a minimum opening bid and accordingly South still fears that the opponents may have a game. He knows almost certainly that his side will be able to take seven club tricks without even considering the red suits and therefore that he can always run to clubs in perfect safety if he feels so inclined.

4—North knows that there must be something unnatural about his partner's bidding. South could not have a hand which would justify a spade bid followed by a jump to two no-trump but which would not justify a redouble on the first round. However, North himself has considerably more than a minimum and decides to bid his hand naturally, leaving it to South to extricate himself if he chooses.

5—East's double is of course sound. He has no way of telling that his partner's double of one spade was made on nothing but length in that suit.

6—South, perhaps a little bit surprised by his own audacity, decides to stand by the contract of three notrump doubled. On his partner's raise to three notrump he hopes for some partial spade stopper which, combined with his own jack, will prevent the opponents from running the suit. If the spade suit can be stopped, there must be a good play to make three notrump with, as mentioned above, seven club tricks almost certain.

7—Since South decided not to run out of the double he certainly does not wish to run out after his partner has shown the strength to redouble. South previously felt that he was gambling in not returning the four clubs. He now feels he must have a good chance to fulfill his contract, and at the worst should not be down more than one trick.

West, of course, originally intended to open a spade but when South stood by both the double and the redouble, he decided the spade suit must be well stopped. He accordingly opened the heart jack. As a result South was able to make four notrump. In addition to seven club tricks and two heart tricks, South set up a diamond, as the opponents could run but two spade tricks.

North and South scored 400 points below the line and 200 for the overtrick plus the value of a game. Admittedly, the opponents could not have made more than a part-score in spades, but at the very worst North and South picked up 500 points by the double and redouble. I dare say that the South player aged considerably, however, between the time that bidding was completed and the time the dummy containing the priceless spade stopper was put down.

FIVE SOUTHERN RAILS WANT PRESENT RATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Five railroads operating in southern states asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to maintain their present parlor and sleeping car rates until September 30, 1935.

Unless the commission grants a new order, extendig the order for reduced rates which was granted May 31, 1935, higher rates will go into effect December 31.

The railroads, operating in North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana, were the Southern Railway, Carolina & Northwestern, Carolina & Tennessee Southern, State University Railroad Company, and the High Point, Randleman, Ashboro & Southern.

The railroads said in effect they wished to continue the reduced rates as a means of increasing passenger revenue.

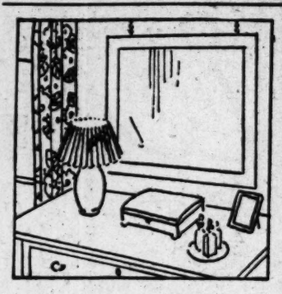

Trial Date Set.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Trial of the Rev. R. H. Askew, 28-year-old four-square gospel evangelist, on the government's charge he left Goldsboro last August and sought to collect $25,000 ransom for his own return will be called in federal court here Tuesday.

NANCY PAGE

What To Put on Top of Bureau or Chest of Drawers?

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

"Georgia's dresser was about as cluttered an affair as ever I hope to see. I was surely glad when she called me in and wanted to know what I could suggest for her bedroom. I told her that I believed she would like that whole room better if we started doing over the dresser. After I had her permission we made these changes." The speaker was an interior decorator who was addressing a club to which Nancy and Lois belonged.

"We removed the attached mirror and its curved supports. We took off the finish of the dresser with paint remover and then enameled the dresser and mirror frame in cream color. "The mirror was hung from the ceiling by means of two parallel vertical cords. All the photographs, score cards, dance programs that had been stuck into the frame were carefully collected and then as carefully disposed of. Georgia decided she did not care for any of them after all.

"We took off the dresser cover of linen which had been embroidered in lazy daisy stitch. We found a small mirror bottomed tray on which we set the perfume bottles. The comb, brush and mirror went into a plain box covered with ivory and rose brocade.

"The question of a cover for the dresser was a moot one. We considered the rather loose meshed, soft finish cotton Chinese filet lace but felt hair pins were too apt to catch in the meshes.

"We finally chose a cover of plain cream colored round thread linen with Italian hemstitching. Just as soon as we felt we could afford it we planned to get a piece of plate glass cut to size for the top of the dresser and lay it over the cover. It was amazing what the simplicity of that dresser did in transforming that room. It immediately gave it some style and character."

PATTERN 5145

THESE CROSS-STITCHED MOTIFS HAVE MANY USES

Pattern 5145.

If you like color and want to do some embroidery that gets done fast, try this graceful cross-stitch design. It's lovely for teacloths, in-between-cloths, scarfs and pillows. You can make a lovely wreath as shown or use the sprays, that form it, separately. Do them all in one color, in two shades of one color, or in a variety of colors.

In Pattern 5145 you will find a transfer pattern of a 15-inch wreath motif that can be cut into separate sprays, four 6-inch motifs and four 3-inch napkin motifs; suggestions for their use, color suggestions and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern, send 10 cents to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Houseworth Class Is Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Blankinship entertained Friday evening in honor of the last year circle chairmen of the Houseworth Class.

Contests were enjoyed Miss Josephine Smith and Hugh Timms winning prizes. Mrs. Blankinship presented her co-chairmen with unique gifts in appreciation of their work done during the past year.

Those present were Miss Josephine Smith, new president; Misses Myrtice Timms, Kate Binns, Mary Binns, Mrs. Nola Waldrop, past president; Mrs. Georgia Walton, Mrs. Eva Felder, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Logan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Blankinship, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McGriff and Hugh Timms.

Mrs. Blankinship was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. N. S. Walkley.

The Houseworth Class was entertained at its meeting at the home of Mrs. Ben T. Huiett. Mrs. Houseworth gave a splendid devotional, emphasizing the duties of the new officers. Nineteen members were present. The meeting next month will be held at the home of Miss Myrtice Timms.

Children of Confederacy.

The Anna S. Fulton chapter, Children of the Confederacy, met Thursday with the director, Mrs. W. Guy Hudson, in Decatur, Miss Betty Boyle, the president, presiding.

Much enthusiasm is manifest in the membership drive, three of the younger girls, Berely and Jean Howard and Bessie Hudson competing for the $2.50 prize offered to this chapter by Mrs. Moreland Spear, of Atlanta.

The December meeting will be a Christmas party. Names were drawn by those present and each member kept secret the name she drew.

MODERN SCHOOLGIRLS LIKE CLOTHES WITH SOPHISTICATION.

A little dress like this for classroom will find much appreciation with girls of 8 to 14 years.

It is so delightfully smart and different, besides being quite simple to make it.

In a gray and red checked woolen was the original with plain red woolen trim. Red buttons trip down the back of the "butcher boy" blouse.

Daughter will love this too in navy blue wool crepe with bright red trim.

Plain woolen skirt with plaided blouse with the plain woolen used for trim is still another suggestion.

Tweedy cottons, linen, cotton challis prints, etc., are nice tubbable fabrics for this cute dress.

Style No. 592 is designed in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 5-8 yards of 35-inch material with 1-2 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Miss Torrance Feted At Party Series

Miss Virginia Torrance, whose marriage to Emile Zimmer, of Charlotte, N. C., will be solemnized late in November, was honor guest on Friday at a tea given by Miss Mary Wellborn, Mrs. William Wellborn and Mrs. Walter Wellborn at the home of the latter on Palisades road. The color motif of white and lavender was reflected in the effective decorations. Mrs. Henry Grady and Mrs. Linton Hopkins presided at the tea table. The guests included 50 members of the married and younger social contingents.

Mrs. William Ogden and Mrs. Ross Hunter will entertain at a tea on Tuesday at their home on Huntington road honoring Miss Torrance. Mrs. Howell Cobb Erwin entertains at a small tea on Wednesday for Miss Torrance at her home on Park lane.

Mrs. Robert Griffith and Mrs. Elliott Heath will entertain at a tea at their home on Palisades road on Friday afternoon, November 16, for the feted bride-elect. The guests will include a number of the social set.

Cascade O. E. S. Makes Winter Plans.

At the meeting of Cascade Chapter No. 274, O. E. S., Tuesday evening it was decided to co-operate with Gate City chapter and other chapters of the city in giving a "country fair" at the city auditorium on the evening of December 1. Committee appointed for the fair included Mesdames Irene Spurlin, Carrie Bostwick, Bertha Hood and Bessie Greenoe.

The chapter will sponsor an oyster supper on the evening of December 14, Mrs. Irene Spurlin, chairman. Members of the chapter will donate towels for the Masonic home shower, and the chapter will give a tablecloth.

Miss Irene Arden, worthy grand matron of Georgia O. E. S., was elected an honorary member of the chapter. Mrs. Geneva Andrews, chairman of relief, made a splendid report. Mrs. Bessie Greenoe, chairman Scottish Rite hospital, requests members to sent donations for Thanksgiving shower.

Regret was expressed over the departure of Miss Margaret Giles, past worthy matron of Cascade chapter, for Macon, where she will reside for the present. Miss Giles is connected with the department of Georgia American Legion, with offices in Macon. The members of the chapter gave her a surprise "treasure hunt" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Andrews, on Lucile avenue, Wednesday evening. Many lovely gifts were presented Miss Giles, among a gift from the chapter.

St. Charles Garden Club Plans Prize.

The November meeting of the St. Charles Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. P. A. Aicklen, with Mrs. S. C. Hornbuckle as assistant hostess.

Splendid reports were read and a committee appointed by the president, Mrs. Hornbuckle, to nominate officers for the coming year.

The individual exhibits of flowers were unusually fine for the time of year, the silver vase for the best going to Mrs. R. A. Williams for the month. The attendance trophy was won by Mrs. A. B. Castellaw. The club won second prize in the contest recently put on by the King Hardware Company.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Reader, is there a snarler in your neighborhood? If so, stick a pin in him. It will be good for your soul. You will never succumb to the temptation to snarl at anything or anybody after you have analyzed him. He is first of all oppressed with the sense of his own inferiority. He is envious of others who have traits of character that he admires, envious of others who have attained success that he has coveted and missed. He is of all men most wretched and he tries to dissipate his gloom, to vent his spleen, by holding others up to ridicule and by abusing his betters.

He snarls at the church, at the state, at society, at organizations and individuals. He never takes any steps to correct the abuses he resents and excoriates. This is not his responsibility. His sole duty is to establish his superiority in the minds of others by recognizing and branding mistakes. The church is full of hypocrites, therefore he stays out. In this he does the church a favor. His city is graft-ridden, so he doesn't bother to vote. Society is ruled by the new-rich and he, being poor, despises them. National politics is corrupt, and the men who run the affairs of state are branded as a conscienceless lot. All are seared with the hot iron of his criticism.

His neighbors are too lenient with their children and although they turn out better than his it is no tribute to their rearing but rather due to accident. He doesn't understand how a friend can afford the new car when he is having a hard time making ends meet on a larger salary. The man who gets on faster than he does in the world is crooked and takes unfair advantage of his business associates. If someone remarks on the popularity of a certain man he replies: "Anybody can be popular who is willing to pay the price, to pull the wires and put up with being bored by Tom, Dick and Harry."

On first acquaintance one may be taken in by his apparent cleverness and ability to penetrate to the heart of a matter, but after hearing his stinging rebukes, his repeated jabs, his uncompromising criticisms of everything and everybody one comes to conclude that he is not half as good as those he criticizes.

There is just one thing that keeps the snarler from being a menace to his community. As soon as he is found out (and he always is) he loses any influence he once had. Nobody asks his opinion because it is a foregone conclusion that it will be an adverse one. When he gives it nobody values it because it is always ungenerous and destructive.

But there is one field in which he exercises influence—that place is his home. To his children he is an oracle. They grow up in an atmosphere that warps their viewpoint and unfits them for life. They grow up with prejudices against individuals and institutions which they may never overcome. They grow up with the idea that it is right and proper for them to lash out at anything or anybody that doesn't suit them. They haven't the power to discern that the snarling parent snarls because of his own faults, not because of the faults of others. They haven't the good sense to know that the snarling is evidence of weakness rather than of strength. They adopt their father's attitude as they took their mother's milk because it is offered regularly and consistently by the one to whom they look.

Perhaps you have seen and heard sound pictures taken in the African jungles, pictures of young lions and tigers growling and snarling at the clicking cameras. Title writers make witty titles about the vicious sounds that escape from soft throats, about the menacing attitudes of soft paws. Papa lions and tigers have taught their young to growl and snarl at what they do not like. Later when they have toughened those paws and strengthened those mouths with the experience of the jungle their throats will no longer be a laughing matter nor a subject for wit and jest. They are then out for blood.

Mrs. Dunn Gives Tea For Miss Ellen Rhodes

Mrs. William M. Dunn entertained at a beautifully appointed tea Friday at her home on Andrews drive, in compliment to Miss Ellen Rhodes, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Rhodes.

Deep yellow roses and bronze snapdragons formed the decorations throughout the rooms where the guests were received.

The tea table, overlaid with handsome lace, was centered with a graceful arrangement of yellow roses and snapdragons.

Miss Rhodes wore gray velvet, made on simple close-fitting lines, and a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Dunn was attired in black crepe, fashioned with a floor-length skirt.

Assisting were Mesdames C. A. Rhodes, E. L. Bishop, F. L. Morrison, J. W. Steed, J. S. Guy, Calhoun, MacDougall, Frampton Ellis, Stephen Mitchell, Jack Thomas, Misses Phoebe Rhett, Florrie Margaret Guy, Josephine McDougall, Frances Norman, Martha Lee Bowman, Marie Askew, Marian Yundt and Dorothy Ewing.

Miss Elizabeth Dunn received the cards at the door, and the guests included a group of the married and younger contingents of society.

Mrs. Hock Weds John DeMolet.

The marriage of Mrs. Aurora Bearden Hock to John DeMolet, each of Cincinnati, Ohio, which took place Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Wood, on Emory drive, is of interest to many friends throughout the state. Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length crepe dinner gown offset by a corsage of talisman roses and valley lilies carrying out a color scheme in keeping with home decorations.

Besides brother and sisters of the bride, guests included Mrs. W. A. Candler, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Mauldin, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lane Stokes and Mrs. W. M. Gertman.

Mr. and Mrs. DeMolet are spending several days at the Ansley hotel and are being entertained at bridge by friends. Upon leaving Atlanta they will visit the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bearden, of Waleska, Ga., for a few days. After November 12 Mr. and Mrs. DeMolet will reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hadassah Tea Takes Place Sunday.

Through Miss Frances Hellman, it is announced that the Business and Professional Women's Group of Hadassah will hold a membership tea on Sunday, November 11, at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. J. J. Hellman, 505 Eighth street, N. E.

This group which is an auxiliary of Senior Hadassah organized a year ago, and meet evenings or Sunday. At present the members are winding up their work for the annual Hadassah ball which will be held at the Shrine mosque on Tuesday, November 13. They also assist in the Jewish national fund collections.

After the membership tea and election of new officers, they will launch a cultural activitiy, the details of which will be announced later. Members and friends are invited.

Regents To File Suit Against Football Tax

Suit will be opened by the board of regents of the University of Georgia against W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue, next Wednesday to prevent Page from collecting tax on admission to the university's athletic contests.

Counsel for the school is seeking exemption from taxation as a government institution under the act of congress of June 14, 1934, and is charging the attempted collection as a violation of the tenth amendment to the constitution.

Judge M. J. Yeomans, Georgia attorney-general, and Harold Hirsch and Marion Smith, chairman of the board of regents, will act as counsel for the university.

The congressional act under which the regents are suing was enacted during the last session of congress after appearing on the floor repeatedly for the last 12 years.

The act provides that "in cases of actual controversy, the courts of the United States shall have power upon petition, declaration, complaint or other appropriate pleadings, to declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party petitioning for such declaration."

England gave such power to her courts in 1883, and the law has been in effect in Scotland since the sixteenth century. Thirty-four states in the United States have given their state courts this power.

FLEETWOOD MAKES PLEA FOR SUPPORT OF RED CROSS DRIVE

Sanctioned by President Roosevelt and Governor Talmadge, the first appeal for public support of the 1934 Red Cross roll call was made here Friday by M. L. Fleetwood, publisher of the Cartersville Tribune-News and president of the Georgia Press Association.

Fleetwood, who is serving as assistant to Mrs. M. L. Judd, of Dalton, state roll call director, was asked by Governor Talmadge to make the appeal.

The newspaperman said that the drive would continue from November 11 to November 29 and that Georgia's membership quota was 76,000.

"The Red Cross is not for the moment," Mr. Fleetwood said, "but it is prepared to meet any emergency or disaster of any proportion at any time. President Roosevelt and Governor Talmadge both urge that this year's roll call be the most successful in history."

Miss Elizabeth Garner Weds Mr. Falls in Greenwood, Miss.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Nov. 9.—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Garner, niece of Mrs. A. T. Akers, of Atlanta, and Jerry Falls, was impressively solemnized on Thursday at twilight at the Minter City church, the ceremony having been performed by Rev. A. R. Beasley, Methodist minister, before an assembly of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated in yellow and white against a background of southern smilax. Baskets filled with yellow chrysanthemums, interspersed with white floor standards holding burning cathedral candles adorned the altar, and smilax was used throughout the church.

Preceding the wedding Mrs. William A. Deal rendered an appropriate organ program of music, accompanied on the violin by Mrs. Marguerite Juchheim, the numbers including "Serenade," by Tosseli, and "L'amour Toujour L'Amour," by Friml. Mrs. Deal and Mrs. Juchheim also accompanied Mrs. Rogers Pleasants, who sang "At Dawning," by D'Hardelot, and "Because," by D'Hardelot, and they played both Mendelssohn's wedding march and the "Lohengrin" bridal chorus for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional.

The ushers were Ben Sturdivant, James Townes, Albert Cable and Ed Jones. The matron of honor was Mrs. Benton Abbey, of Webb, who wore a model of dusty rose corded taffeta trimmed in amethyst velvet, with an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses.

The flower girl was Julia Arras, who wore a white satin evening dress, and carried a white satin muff with miniature corsage of orchids, roses and valley lilies and wore a silver wreath on her hair. She was dressed as a miniature replica of the bride.

The bride entered with her father and they were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Joe Flautt, of Glendora, at the altar. The lovely bride wore a handsome princess gown of white satin, with long sleeves and a train falling from the waistline. Her veil of illusion was held with a halo of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids, bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony members of the bridal party and a few close friends were entertained informally with a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Garner, and later Mrs. Falls changed to a becoming traveling ensemble of gray wool, and the young couple left for a wedding trip. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Falls will go to their home in Webb.

Mrs. Falls is the charming and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Garner, of Minter City. She attended Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga., where she was a member of Phi Mu sorority. She is a popular member of the Junior Welfare League of Greenwood. She was born in Atlanta and has many friends in that city. Her grandmother, Mrs. E. C. Garner, and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Akers, motored from Atlanta to Greenwood to attend the wedding.

Mr. Falls, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Falls, of Webb, is a graduate of Washington and Lee, Lexington, Va., and a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

William T. Healey Honored On His Birthday Anniversary

Mrs. William T. Healey entertained 50 guests at a buffet supper on Friday evening at her home on Andrews drive in honor of her son, William T. Healey, the occasion celebrating the birthday anniversary of the honor guest, who was born and reared in Atlanta, and is numbered among the foremost and outstanding young men in the city.

The house was beautified with yellow and white chrysanthemums and red and yellow autumn leaves. In the dining room, the table was overlaid with an imported point de Venice lace cloth, and a graceful arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece. Yellow tapers in silver candelabra encircled the central decoration, and the birthday cake was exquisitely embossed in yellow roses, and miniature yellow tapers denoted the age of the honor guest.

After the dance, the guests participated in old-fashioned square dances, to the music of Graham Jackson, the remarkable colored piano player, and colored dancers gave their interpretation of the "boogy boogy," and the "Lindbergh Hop," to the amusement of the guests.

Mrs. Healey was gowned in pink lace, and wore a shoulder spray of orchids. Mrs. William T. Healey Jr. and Mrs. Oliver Healey assisted the hostess in receiving.

Auburn Is Favored Over Tech Today---Georgia Meets Yale

STAR PLAYERS OF BOTH TEAMS WILL MISS GAME

Tough Battle Expected When Old Rivals Clash Today.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech's limping legions will answer the whistle this afternoon at 2 o'clock with Auburn's Tigers favored Plainsmen as foes at Grant field in what should be one of the most spectacular games of the season from the competitive viewpoint.

After spending an hour listening to rival coaches Friday afternoon, the impression is that some of the boys may be using crutches when the whistle blows and that the tackles may be in wheel chairs.

Mr. William Alexander, of Georgia Tech, has been deep in the doldrums all week because of his injured. But what should happen yesterday but that Jack Meagher, of Auburn, should appear with tears in his voice saying that he had lost Joe Bob Mitchell, his best halfback, who had chipped an ankle bone and would not play.

ALEXANDER WINS.

They went to it and Mr. Alexander won the battle of the crutches by submitting Jimmy Moore, sub quarter, out with an injured ankle; John Wilcox, limping badly on a bad ankle; Dave Wilcox, pale and weak after being reelased late Friday from the hospital where the doctors had managed to subdue some influenza germs; Lawrence Hays, with a bad ankle; Kitty Katz with an injured knee and other injured men.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Alexander has not a quarterback substitute. Oh, yes. Bug Boyd is out with a broken jaw and Jimmy Moore is out with that ankle. That leaves Shorty Roberts, the short-measured quarterback, all by himself.

Know who his sub will be? McKinley, a fullback.

The two Wilcox boys, as good guards as there are in Dixie, will not start. In their places will be Bob Warner and Fulton Brittain.

At center will be the injured but grand player, Charlie Preston. The two regular tackles, Williams and Dean, will start. Ends will be Gibson and Boulware.

ONLY ONE QUARTER.

Shorty Roberts starts at quarter with Billy Street and Perkerson at halfbacks and Jack Phillips at full.

Auburn will send in Jimmy Karam or Bobbie Blake in Mitchell's place. The Auburn line, with Fenton, a great end, is intact.

Tech cannot hope to run the ends, according to Tech coaches. Too many halfbacks are out of there. Tech is playing a backfield of fullbacks.

The battle of the crutches really includes some great players and the game is to pit two teams very nearly evenly matched with Auburn favored.

The Auburn people threw a fit on finding themselves favorites to win. They haven't won but one game, that from Oglethorpe. Tech has won from Clemson.

McCallie To Meet Darlington Today

ROME, Ga., Nov. 9.—The entire cadet corps and faculty of McCallie school, of Chattanooga, will attend the game here Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at Barron park between McCallie and Darlington School for Boys. The game is the feature event of Darlington's homecoming day program.

McCallie has won victories this season over Notre Dame prep, Wallace school, of Nashville, and Asheville School for Boys and the Darlington Tigers are expecting a difficult grid contest. Both Darlington and McCallie have suffered two defeats.

It is 1892 and the town is all agog because a special train of two cars has come from Montgomery and Auburn to see Georgia Tech and Auburn's football teams meet.

(I am sorry to report that the barroom at the Kimball house did such a flourishing business the guests at the hotel complained at the cheering in the lobby. They should hear a hotel chorus of today when there are relatively few barrooms.)

When the fans started out to the football field they were in no danger of being run over by automobiles. The first one which ran was built in 1892 but it was 1893 before a mechanic named Hank Ford built one to run. In 1896 there were just four cars in the United States.

There were no movies for the crowds to go to after the game. They were just fooling around with the movie idea. It hadn't gone over as yet. But there were grand theaters with great actors who could act.

There was no radio and no loudspeaker to tell the plays. And had a player broken a bone there would have been no X-ray to take the picture. It was 1895 before William Roentgen in Germany produced the X-ray.

There were no airplanes flying overhead because in 1892 there was talk of putting the Wright brothers in the house for the daffy because they claimed it was possible to fly a machine in the air.

The fans stormed up and down the sideline and waved pennants. The players wore quilted pants and their hair was very, very long.

All of which gives one an idea of just how long ago this football rivalry between Georgia Tech and Auburn got started.

Auburn won that football game by more than 20 points. It was quite a day, back in 1892.

Today's game is the 39th between the two teams. A lot of water has skidded under the bridges since 1892 and goodness knows how many pigs have sacrificed their skin for the game.

Tech and Auburn—1892-1934.

THAT 1892 GAME.

I regret to report the facts of that 1892 game. The reporter declares that one Dorsey, an Atlanta boy, was the scourge of the gridiron that day. He ran the Techs to desperation. The star of that day is now Dr. R. T. Dorsey, of Atlanta.

As a matter of fact, the Techs gave up with three minutes left to play. I have just read the account of that game and The Constitution reporter says, in conclusion, "The last half lasted only 27 minutes as the Techs gave up the game. The score was 26 to 0."

There will be no giving up this afternoon. In fact, it will be an old-fashioned contest from start to finish.

I found at Tech yesterday afternoon a strangely confident spirit about the training room where the maimed and injured were being treated.

"We'll beat Auburn by two touchdowns," said one wounded sub.

Up in the coaches' office, however, where the cold statistics are reviewed, there was no such enthusiasm.

"With so many men hurt I don't see how we have much chance to win," said Coach W. A. Alexander.

A GREAT GAME ASSURED.

Spectators who wish to see a hard-fought football game would do well to be sitting on their section of concrete and planking at Grant field today.

The game has no bearing on the title, but the boys on the teams haven't heard of it. They are going to be in there banging away. They will give everything they have in there, and the result will be a game which should show more thrills than a title affair.

Tech won last season, administering the first defeat to the co-champions of the year before. Tech's battered battalions haven't much chance to win, but they may. There never was a losing Tech team which did not upset the dope at least once.

UP AT NEW HAVEN.

Georgia will be playing near the classic elms of New Haven.

And Georgia is doped to lose this one, although it is quite possible the dope is incorrect. Yale is looking ahead to the Princeton game. And the contest with the Harvards.

The Georgia game is important to Yale, but Yale would lose a dozen contests to the cousins from Athens could they smear Princeton.

It is a bit amusing, however, to read the reports from the east.

"Yale," said one daily in New York, "is looking ahead to

TIGERS, WAVE, BULLDOGS PLAY EASTERN FOES

Rice-Arkansas, Stanford-Washington Games Settle Titles.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Intersectional gridiron rivalries, including a number now showing signs of mellowing in a modern age, dominate tomorrow's intercollegiate football whirl on the coast-to-coast hook-up.

Except for a few such outstanding contests of championship sectional importance as Rice-Arkansas in the southwest and Stanford-Washington on the Pacific coast, much of the day's most interesting activity serves to emphasize the new slogan: "Join the College Football Parade and See America First."

No longer do the one-time "Rockne Ramblers" of Notre Dame set the touring pace. Whereas the fighting Irish, who have had some of the "fight" taken out of them in recent seasons, travel no farther than Cleveland this week to meet Navy's undefeated eleven on neutral ground, southern teams have combined to set the dizziest intersectional pace of the 1934 season.

Two of Dixie's colorful and unbeaten arrays, Tulane and Louisiana State, have moved into the northeastern seaboard sector, together with Georgia's Bulldogs and South Carolina's Gamecocks, to tackle formidable opposition. The east flings the Pittsburgh Powerhouse against Nebraska in addition to pinning hopes on the Navy against Notre Dame and entertaining unbeaten Michigan State with the equally unbeaten Orange forces of Syracuse.

FEW BIG GAMES.

Tomorrow's slate, for all its entertaining prospects, is conspicuously devoid of severe tests for some of the nation's most powerful football squads, including Minnesota, Alabama and Princeton, all unbeaten and untied. The Minnesota Maulers, unless they suffer a severe letdown, should flatten Indiana as promptly as they have all other Big Ten opposition. Alabama goes out of its own conference fold to entertain Clemson with a demonstration of the power of Dixie Howell & Company.

Princeton, with eyes on the Yale game next week, expects to give all three of its varsity lineups a workout against Lehigh.

Stanford and Rice figure to strengthen their national as well as conference claims to leadership tomorrow. The unbeaten Washington Huskies challenge Stanford's march, in a battle for Pacific coast honors at Palo Alto, but the Indians should emerge victorious from their most severe conference test. Similarly Rice has a distinct edge over Arkansas, last year's claimant to the Southwest conference title.

On the basis of comparative scores, Louisiana State's Tigers do not need the Huey Long cheering section to take the measure of the strong George Washington team at the nation's capital, but Tulane's Green Wave may be turned back by Colgate's baffling barrier. This match figures to be one of the closest and most exciting of the day, with Tulane's heavier array and the skill of Monk Simons pitted against one of the trickiest attacks in the east, but Colgate looks to have a thin edge. Upwards of 40,000 should view this gridiron show at the Yankee Stadium.

YALE FAVORED.

Yale appears much better fortified to turn back Georgia in the latest renewal of a colorful rivalry begun in 1923. The Elis should win and avoid the embarrassment of losing five successive games to any one rival for the first time in Yale history, but the southern Bulldogs have a faculty for rising to the occasion in the big bowl at New Haven.

Navy should make it two in a row over Notre Dame and seven straight for the current season by whipping Notre Dame, but this happens to be another of those games where a triumph for the underdog would be no great shock to the gambling fraternity.

Even with a two weeks' rest, Nebraska doesn't seem to be strongly enough entrenched at home to keep Pittsburgh in check. The Panthers will be eager to beat the Huskers by a bigger margin than Minnesota, 20-0, just to show that the Gophers can't claim everything. However, Pitt may find that the astute D. X. Bible, Nebraska coach, has another of his famous surprise parties all ready to spring.

Continuing along the intersectional front, Syracuse will have no time to think about its objective game with Colgate next week while encountering Michigan State's fast-traveling outfit. State put the Orange to rout last year but will be lucky to win at all tomorrow, although enjoying a slight edge over the partially crippled Syracuse outfit.

ARMY FACES HARVARD.

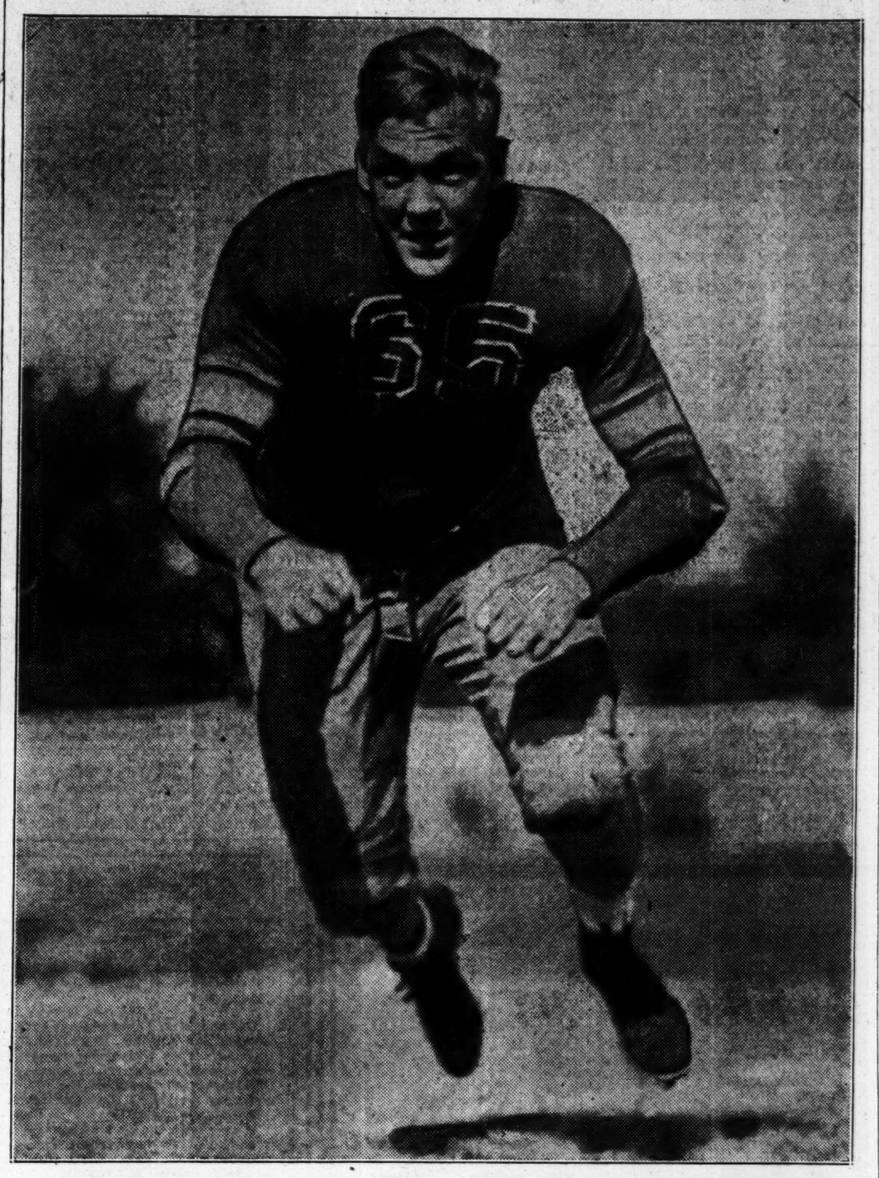

Some of the east's best known rivalries will add flavor, if not much else, to tomorrow's hostilities. While Army has too many guns for Harvard, Penn State should make it interesting for Pennsylvania and Fordham figures to be pressed to beat West Virginia, featuring one of the country's best ends in Todd Goodwin. Brown hopes to stage a come-back against Columbia.

In the Big Ten, Illinois and Purdue should keep pace with Minnesota in the three-cornered title tussle by trimming Northwestern and Iowa, respectively. Chicago, minus the great Jay Berwanger, a backfield all by himself, is likely to be beaten by Ohio State. Michigan hopes to score its first conference victory at Wisconsin's expense.

Conference activity elsewhere experiences a comparative lull. Washington & Lee is the only leader in either of the two big Dixie loops to engage in competition bearing on the championship race and the Generals should boost their standing by beating Virginia's Cavaliers. Kansas State, to the music of 20 assembled bands, figures to wallop Missouri and remain the chief challenger for Nebraska. Utah and the Utah Aggies, rivals for the Rocky Mountain lead, are favored—but not by any one-sided margin—over Clorado University and the Colorado Aggies.

It's strange to find Southern California struggling to get out of the Pacific coast cellar in November but the Trojans may finally do it, at California's expense, while Washington State is occupied with the job of trimming Idaho and staying in the conference fight with the winner of the Stanford-Washington affair.

In the Center of Things at Grant Field

Charley Preston, Jacket center, will be in the middle of the fight this afternoon when Tech takes on the Auburn Tigers. Charley, a former Boys' High star, is a sophomore, but he is holding down the regular center berth on Coach Alex's team. Neither Tech nor Auburn has won a game of major importance this season, and both will be battling for their first conference victory. Tech beat Clemson early in the season and Auburn defeated Oglethorpe. Constitution staff photo.

G. M. A. DEFEATS STEPHENS, 72 TO 0

Displaying their best offensive of the year, G. M. A. ran wild to defeat a light Stephens County eleven, 72 to 0, Friday afternoon at College Park. It was the greatest victory for the Cadets under the coaching of Bud Harris, former Bowdon College coach.

The Cadets scored in every period and used every player in uniform to run up 11 touchdowns in the 60 minutes of play.

Hughes, starting his first game as a regular, led the way and scored four touchdowns. Thompson, a substitute fullback, scored three, with Chastain two and Brown and Backenstoce one each.

G. M. A. scored 26 points in the opening quarter and the reserves went into the game and ran up three more in the second period. Three more came in the third quarter and the third-string players scored one in the final period.

Against heavy odds of a more experienced and much heavier team Stephens fought all the way but was unable to stem the tide of Cadet touchdowns. Stephens never really threatened to score and began throwing passes on every play in the closing minutes of play.

Judy King Wins In Gotham Show

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Judy King, of Atlanta, Ga., drove her La La Success to victory to the class for single-harness ponies, under 14.2 hands, and Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana farm, of Lexington, Ky., showed the winning horse, Royal Irish, in the event for ladies' saddle horse, over 14.2 and not exceeding 15.2 hands, and ridden by a lady on a side saddle at the national horse show at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Miss King could do no better than second in the harness tandem, over 14.2, however, William C. Cox, Cohasset, Mass., winning.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's teams dominated the hunting class, the New York and Upperville, Va., sportswoman taking first and third.

TECH HARRIERS TO MEET AUBURN

The cross-country teams of Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Georgia Tech will meet over a three-mile course this morning at 11 o'clock in a preliminary athletic event to the Auburn-Georgia Tech football game at Grant field this afternoon.

Coach Wilbur Hutsell plans on using the following Tigers in the meet with Tech: Carl Pihl, Auburn; Linwood Funchess and Ed Galt, a couple of Montgomery boys; William Von Chandler, of Andalusia, who won Auburn's 1933 cake race; William Embrey, Decatur Ga., and Edmond Powers, Greensboro.

George Griffin, the Tech coach, lost three members of last year's team. The Tech squad includes Rankin, former star of the Purple Hurricane team; West, Jones, Batson, Johnson and Kalong.

Tech's freshmen harriers will meet Boys' High's team in another match this morning.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—Despite several first-rate counter attractions in this section, including the Tulane-Colgate affair at Yankee stadium and Fordham's meeting with West Virginia at the Polo Grounds, Georgia's tenth football invasion of the historic Yale bowl promises to draw the east's largest football crowd tomorrow.

With ideal weather prevailing—the kind the boys would expect down south—and the fact that it is Georgia's last football junket in New Haven for quite a spell, a crowd of some 40,000 or 50,000 is expected to be present and seated when the Bulldogs of the south get together with the Bulldogs of the east at 1 p m., Atlanta time.

The southern Bulldogs, 35 strong, arrived at Pennsylvania station at 9:10 a. m. today and immediately took a train for New Haven, where they held a light workout at the bowl under direction of Coaches Harry Mehre and Rex Enright this afternoon. The squad was quartered at the Hotel Taft in New Haven.

GEORGIA LEADS.

The Georgia party came into New York just ahead of the Tulane party this morning, in fact the two trains—the Crescent from New Orleans and the Seaboard from Athens—almost finished in a dead heat and led Coach Mehre to remark:

"This is the first time that we've led Tulane this season."

And speaking of Coach Mehre, he did a great deal of suffering on the way up. But he was greatly cheered this morning with the final decision that Cy Grant, the Cornelia fox hunter, would be able to trot around the Yale bowl tomorrow and flash his old familiar "45" in the faces of the Yale players.

"We can win with Grant in there. Without him I am not so sure," Coach Mehre stated in his last official declaration to the accompanying gentlemen of the press. In other words, Coach Mehre thinks he can blast the Elis for the fifth consecutive game with his old "45," but if he has to depend upon lighter firearms, Yale will undoubtedly have the upper hand.

SQUAD IS "SHOT."

This morning the Georgia squad was met at the station by four photographers, representing New York papers. They took hurried flashes of the Georgia team. It was the first time the Bulldogs have ever been met by New York photographers before a Yale game, and recalled to Coach Mehre's mind the team's successful trips here to play N. Y. U.

I have not decided as yet whether the photographers are a jinx or 'a good omen," Mehre declared. The last two times the Bulldogs had their pictures made at the Pennsylvania they defeated N. Y. U., 7 to 6.

The weather was a great surprise. The Georgia followers, including President S. V. Sanford and Dr. W. O. Payne, remembering past Yale games, brought along the heaviest of over-

Emory's Freshmen To Meet Juniors

Emory's freshman football team will attempt to get back into the title race in the intramural league with a victory over the league-leading Juniors this morning. The game will begin at 10 o'clock.

The Freshmen have one victory, two losses and a tie to their credit. They started off well by winning the first game, but were mauled, 25-0, by the Seniors after holding the Juniors to a scoreless tie in the first encounter between these two teams.

The Juniors, who are leading the league, have won only one game. They have played scoreless ties with both the Sophomores and Juniors.

The Juniors have a better balanced backfield than their opponents. In Conyers, Flournoy, Reichert and Pulleston they have plenty of passing, kicking and charging ability. Their line is as strong as that of the Freshmen.

The Freshmen have in Pate and Ward a good backfield passing combination. Meyer, who tried the kicking for the first time last week, got off some nice punts and will probably take over the major kicking duties today. Gartrell has been backing up the Freshman line in splendid fashion.

Huey Says 'Bowl' Follows His Tigers

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Football Expert Huey Long today declared that wherever his Louisiana State Tigers play a post-season game—that's where the "bowl" will be.

"I'm getting mighty tired of these sports writers saying L. S. U. 'may be invited' here and 'may be invited there.'" said Football Expert Long, to use his new self-crowned title.

"That's a lot of hokum and we resent that 'inviting business.' There's too many 'bowls' now—the Rose bowl, the New York bowl, the sugar bowl, the cotton 'boll' and all the rest. Wherever we go, they'll be lucky we agreed to play there."

"Because," summed up the "Kingfish" judiciously, "L. S. U. is the cherries, and wherever we play, that's where the bowl will be."

Cartersville Bows To Athens High, 20-6

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Scoring the seventh consecutive win of the season, the Athens High eleven defeated Cartersville High, 20 to 6, here this afternoon. Cartersville's score in the final period by Red Williams, halfback, broke the Athens High record of seven games without being scored upon. Athens has scored 154 points this season to their opponents' 6.

Dick Upchurch, Rudy Grant, and George Pittard scored touchdowns for Athens with Williams, who was the Cartersville star, getting the lone marker for the visitors. Athens scored in the first, third and fourth periods.

Charles Williams, guard; Dick Upchurch, fullback, and Wilfong, guard, played the best game for the Athens Maroons.

Hal Dumas Heads Auburn Alumni

Auburn alumni, in their annual meeting last night, elected Hal Dumas, of Atlanta, president of the association for the next year, and as associated officers named A. D. Hall, vice president, and re-elected Harry Lett as secretary and treasurer.

The meeting, one of the best attended in history, was a spirited one. Coach Jack Meagher was one of the speakers. Atlanta newspaper representatives from The Constitution and Journal were also present.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—Oglethorpe crossed the Potomac early today by the easy way—via choo-choo train. George Washington lived many years too soon; Washington crossed the Delaware by the hard way.

The Stormy Petrels from Atlanta put themselves down on Catholic University field tomorrow at 2 o'clock, eastern time, for one of the toughest, roughest games of the season. Catholic has the "smart-mind" choice of the betting by an even six points.

The Stormy Petrels do not put too much in the way the "smart boys" think, however. This is just another intersectional game. And in six out of the last eight, still figuring intersectional games, Oglethorpe has won.

PETRELS READY.

So don't figure Oglethorpe out of the morrow's ball game. Unless, of course, you can take it and really do not care for the consequences.

Coach John Patrick has hit the first real spot of his season. Captain Frank Mitrick, who has been a powerhouse, a Boulder dam and a ne plus ultra in fullbacks is not able to start.

Captain Mitrick has been one of the team's most valuable assets. That is all true, but Oglethorpe is not giving away any hopes on the probability that Mitrick is wholly beyond doing the team any good.

FARMER TO START.

Hoyt Farmer, who follows Interference like a farmer boy obeys a plow, will start in Mitrick's place. And this Farmer boy is capable of heavy work.

Oglethorpe is in for one of the toughest ball games of the season and realizes it. So, at the very start, the plan is to work one smart play after another in an attempt to score first.

Coach Patrick has a couple of football aces he hasn't pulled out of the old hand as yet and he hopes to have a chance against the Redbirds.

SMITHIES PLAY POETS IN MACON THIS AFTERNOON

Tech High Band Leads Motorcade of Fans to Game.

A large motorcade with the band and football team in the lead will accompany Tech High's football team to Macon this morning, where the Smithies will play Lanier High, a bitter rival, this afternoon. It will be another important game in the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association schedule to determine the state champion.

Tech High's band consisting of 70 pieces has chartered enough buses to take every member to Macon and return.

The football team and a caravan of automobiles filled with students will leave the school on Parkway drive around 7:30 o'clock.

Last year Lanier defeated Tech High, 7 to 6, in a season game and lost the state championship by the same score to Tech High in a post-season game. And it is no wonder that Lanier is looking forward to today's game as being the highlight of the season.

A full squad of some 40-odd players will make the trip and Coach Tolbert will send his strongest team against the Poets. It will consist of Captain Cronic and Coyle, at ends; Tarrant and Cushing, tackles; McKinney and W. Williams, guards; P. Williams, center, and Schutte, Butler, Barnes and Newlands in the backfield.

PURPLES CRUSH GORDON, 48 TO 0

By Roy White.

Boys' High continued its scoring rampage and defeated Gordon Institute, 48 to 0, Friday night at Ponce de Leon park. It was the ninth straight victory for the Purples and closed out one of their greatest night schedules. The remaining three games will be played in the afternoon.

Gordon's great line which had turned back every scoring threat except a lone touchdown pass was riddled with Boys' High gains and an almost continuous stream of touchdowns. Even the Boys' High second and third-string players kept up the drive toward Gordon's goal line.

Carlisle Smith and Brandes, with two touchdowns each, led the touchdown procession, with Atkinson, Thrash and Erlich contributing one each. Massengale kicked three points from placements. Mims kicked another and the Purples scored a safety when a blocked punt rolled out of the end zone.

Gordon threatened to score only once in the closing minutes of play, but was halted on the 3-yard line. The Purple substitute forwards held the Cadets for four successive downs within the 5-yard line.

Boys' High exhibited its best passing attack of the year and it was those rifle passes which paved the way for four of the touchdowns. Carlisle Smith, Mims, and Stephens divided honors at throwing the ball, with Atkinson, Anderson and Thrash receiving the passes.

Boys' High gained a total of 16 first downs against five for Gordon and two of the visitors' downs came in the closing minutes of play.

Finals Today In 135-Pound League

The final games in the 135-pound league in the Rotary sandlot football tournament will be played today at the Rose Bowl.

The Grant Park Aces and the Whitefoord Avenue Bears have perfect records. If both these teams win over their opponents today they will have to lock horns next week to decide the championship.

There is one more week for the 120-pound youngsters to try their hand at the manly art. The O'Keefe Panthers are the favorites in this league, but the Red Elephants are still in the battle.

With these young fellows filled with the desire to become champs, the games are now affording much excitement for the spectators. The games are open to the public and these last games are expected to draw record-breaking crowds.

SCHEDULE FOR TODAY.
9 O'Clock Games.

O'Keefe Panthers vs. Rinkidinks (east field).

Hammerheads vs. Midget Trojans (south field).

10 O'Clock Games.

Cyclones vs. East Lake Flashes (east field).

Grant Park Jackets vs. Red Elephants (south field).

Grant Park Aces vs. South Side Wildcats (west field).

The Northwest Yellow Jackets drew a bye.

Rome High Beats Center Team, 61-0

ROME, Ga., Nov. 9.—Rome High school avenged its only defeat of last year by trouncing Center (Ala.) High school here today, 61 to 0. The Alabamans defeated the local team last year 31 to 6.

COACH M'GUGIN PICKS GEORGIA, AUBURN TO WIN

Vandy Mentor Gives His Selections for Today's Games.

How McGugin Picks Games

Alabama-Clemson: Alabama.
Georgia Tech-Auburn: Auburn.
Florida-Miss. U.: Florida by a shade.
Yale-Georgia: Georgia.
Kentucky-S'western: Kentucky.
George Washington-L. S. U.: L. S. U.
Tennessee-Miss. State: Tennessee.
Tulane-Colgate: Colgate.

By Dan McGugin,
Head Football Coach, Vanderbilt University.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—Alabama may have the greatest football team in her history. Her ability to score points is something astonishing. She rolls on, Saturday after Saturday.

Kentucky has a good football team, but in 21 minutes Alabama had 21 points. Clemson has a gallant team, winning from South Carolina, her great rival, and from other good teams, but Alabama is just too tough.

Auburn is about due to win a game. She has played a lot of close ones, but a little loose ball handling, an epidemic which teams suffer from at times without any way of accounting for it, has kept her from winning some close ones.

'GATOR PASSES.

Florida and Mississippi will have an interesting contest, with some great passing by Chase to some of Florida's great receivers. Florida will find in Mississippi a good, hard-fighting team, well balanced, but at this stage Florida appears to be a little better.

Yale's chances to win from Georgia should be better than in recent years. Yale apparently has the best team this year she has had in some time, and Georgia is not as good as during the years when she has won constantly from Yale. Still, Georgia is more dangerous, has a great passing game and some backs who may break up a football game almost any time.

Kentucky has too much for Southwestern and I believe Louisiana will win from George Washington. Louisiana puts you under an awful lot of pressure. Mickal is a great punter and can quick-kick with great skill. He is one of the best passers in the game, a good runner and a great blocker. An individual of this kind in the backfield, with a lot of brilliant men on the squad, gives the other coaches headaches in trying to figure out the most effective defense.

VOLS FAVORED.

Tennessee should win from Mississippi State without difficulty. An analysis of the Tennessee-Fordham game certainly indicates that Tennessee was superior and ordinarily would have won.

Vanderbilt and Sewanee continue their old-time relation, which began 40 years ago. I feel that no coach should undertake to pick the winner of a game in which his own team is engaged.

While Tulane has excellent men in her line and a brilliant back in Simons, she does not appear to be as strong as the average of her teams during the last three or four years. She has won all her games and has played good football. She may have taken it easy against both Georgia and Georgia Tech. But Colgate is apparently as good as last year. Ohio State, with a great football team, was able to win from Colgate only by the close score of 10 to 7. These are some of the things which make me feel that Colgate has the better chance this year.

Governor To Drive In Race Here Today

Governor Eugene Talmadge, one of the nation's most famous governors, will drive today in the magnificent schedule of trotting horse races at Lakewood park.

The governor will be driving in the Georgia Pace which includes such drivers as Allan Darden, Trammell Scott, John Black, J. Armstrong, Courtney Hall, Kirk Bagley and others.

Spills are likely in this event as there will be nine starters and all nine will be handling great, fast horses.

The entries in this day's program, the second day of a three-day card with the third one scheduled for Monday afternoon, include some of the featured winners on the Grand Circuit this season.

Another feature today will be the running race between the black mare, Lady Jane Tarzan, ridden by Henderson Barnett, the young son of the mayor of Greenwood, S. C., and Delma Gretta, a bay gelding, ridden by J. Green.

Barnett rides in regulation jockey equipment, his pound and a half saddle being an exact duplicate of the one used on Man O' War when that great horse was on the track.

Volo York, a bay gelding driven by W. G. Pearson, won the Time Trot stake yesterday, being second in the first heat with the excellent time of 2.05 for the mile, first in the second heat with 2:07 3-4 and first in the third heat with the same time.

In the Atlanta envelope stake Hall Max, a bay gelding driven by W. G. Pearson, swept the event, winning each of the three heats. The best time was 2:07.5 for the mile. This horse is Atlanta-owned with Asa Patterson, owner.

The third event saw Allan Darden drive his bay gelding, Colonel Lynn, to victory in straight heats in 2:13.

These races are the finest ever offered in Atlanta, better even than those of the old Grand Circuit days. Atlantans who like horse races should not fail to attend today and Monday. The program today, featuring the appearance of Governor Talmadge, is expected to pull a large crowd.

The results yesterday were:

Time Trot—Volo York, driven by W. G. Pearson, first; 2:05; Hedgewood Lou, driven by C. F. Boswell, second; Rex Forbes, driven by Lou Huber, third, and Lon Dewey, driven by Charles Swissheim, fourth.

Atlanta Envelope Stake—Hall Max, driven by W. G. Pearson, first, 2:07.5; the Zest, driven by Lou Huber, second; Dolly's Best, driven by Charles Swissheim, third; Chestnut Hunter, driven by C. F. Lester, fourth.

Georgia Owned—Colonel Lynn, driven by Allan Darden, first, 2:10.4; Annie Worthy, driven by Billy Lotz, second; Peter Arimo, driven by Jim Armstrong, third; Lindy Tramp, driven by Carl Hatchell, fourth.

The program today, in which Governor Talmadge appears, follows giving name of horse, description and driver:

2:12 PACE.

1. Sam J. Napoleon, chestnut gelding, W. G. Pearson.
2. Johnny C. Frisco, black stallion, Carl Hatchell.
3. B. B., bay mare, C. F. Boswell.
4. Joan Strong, black mare, Charles Swissheim.

2:18 TROT.

1. Murriel Jayzoff, roan mare, F. Applegate.
2. Scipio, bay gelding, Carl Hatchell.
3. Trubel, bay stallion, Bill Lucas.
4. Louis Jayzoff, bay gelding, Lou Huber.
5. Amos Crow, brown gelding, Thad Burruss.

GEORGIA PACE.
AMATEUR DRIVERS.

1. Bobby Burns, brown gelding, Governor Eugene Talmadge.
2. Dancing Dan, black gelding, Allan Darden.
3. Chief Saunee, chestnut gelding, John Black.
4. Peter Diamond, black gelding, Courtney Hall.
5. Charlie Grimes, black gelding, Colonel Tallant.
6. Stonewall Jackson, bay gelding, Kirk Bagley.
7. Dollys Best, bay mare, Major Trammell Scott.
8. Allan Direct, sorrel gelding, J. Armstrong.

BREAK O' DAY

Oh, they didn't, eh? Well, just three scouts were at that game. And they all had their notebooks. But maybe the boys were working cross-word puzzles. I didn't look over their shoulders. Polite to a fault.

If Yale is looking ahead to Princeton, then Georgia will trample 'em.

TICHNOR, THE KEYNOTER.

"Tic" Tichnor, one of the many grand persons produced by football, was the "keynoter" at the Auburn alumni banquet last night at the Athletic Club.

"This," said Tic, "is the 40th anniversary of my making the Auburn football team. There was just one team in those days. There were 11 men. The rest were scrubs. We bought our own shoes and we got up before breakfast every morning and ran five miles. If anyone of the varsity got hurt the scrub who came over was a scrub until he definitely showed he was better than the other man."

"Tic," who was a great star, despite his 128 pounds, revealed another secret.

"When Bill Alexander is trying to put over something he stammers," said "Tic," thereby giving me some valuable information. I shall listen closely to Mr. Alexander in the future. Any stammering will be viewed with suspicion.

"I was refereeing the 1911 Clemson-Tech game on Thanksgiving day," said "Tic." Tech had a rule that a player had to play in the Thanksgiving game to get a letter. And he could come in only at the start of a quarter. This fellow came in, his clothes all sweaty, and said, 'Alexander at fullback.' I looked at his sweat and I said, 'Son, you look sweaty but I don't believe you've been in here, have you?'

" 'N-n-n-n-o-o-o-no, sir, I haven't,' said the boy.

"It was after the start of the quarter, but I knew he had to play to get a letter, so I told him to go on. And that's how Alex got his letter at Tech."

JACK MEAGHER IMPRESSES.

Jack Meagher, one-time U. S. Marine and a great fellow, has done a fine job coaching Auburn. The alumni are satisfied. The team fights from whistle to whistle.

As "Tic" Tichnor said, "Jack Meagher has reached out and taken a handful of nothing and made a real football team of it."

The alumni cheered him to the limit last night.

A FEW GUESSES.

Here are a few idle guesses for today. If I am wrong write me in care of your favorite postoffice, any but Atlanta.

Tech to beat Auburn. (How I arrived at that I don't know.) Georgia to beat Yale and how have you been? Colgate to beat Tulane, Florida to trim Mississippi, Tennessee the same over Mississippi State, Alabama to take Clemson, Vanderbilt to beat Sewanee, Mercer over Chattanooga, Catholic over Oglethorpe.

And Mother Goose says the cow jumped over the moon.

TUSKEGEE PLAYS CLARK MONDAY

Tuskegee Institute, ancient rival of Clark University, and for six consecutive years holder of the Southern conference championship among negro teams, will arrive in Atlanta Sunday morning for their game here Monday with Clark.

Coach Robinson, the youngest football mentor in the conference, will put the finishing touches on his squad today. This afternoon the team will witness the game between Georgia Tech and Auburn, through the kindness of Coach Alexander. A tapering off drill will be held at the Panther camp. Monday morning the squad will be sent through a limbering up exercise. Tuskegee will hold a secret workout at Ponce de Leon park Monday morning.

Advance ticket sale among white fans is going at a fast pace and indications point to the largest white crowd of the current season. Two sections of the grandstand have been set aside for white fans.

The ticket office at the gate will open at 1 o'clock.

Bush Will Head U. S. Golf Group

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Prescott S. Bush, of New York, will be the next president of the United States Golf Association. Nominations, which are tantamount to election, were announced today by the committee headed by R. E. Griscom, of Philadelphia.

The nomination of Bush caused some surprise as ordinary precedent called for the elevation of John G. Jackson, of New York, who, like Bush, was a vice president this year.

Long Will Attend L. S. U.-Vol Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9.—(AP) Louisiana's sensational senator, Huey Pierce Long, last night informed Colonel Paul B. Parker, U. T. athletic director, that he would come to Knoxville for the Tennessee-Louisiana State University game Saturday, December 8.

He will head a contingent of L. S. U. fans, including his 140-piece band and 1,200 ardent followers.

Gainesville Ties Russell, 6 to 6

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—Gainesville High and Russell High fought to a 6-to-6 tie here this afternoon. Russell had a slight edge though both teams showed plenty of fight. Gainesville scored early in the first quarter, and Russell tallied early in second quarter. Langford Cheek, Scrogga and Smith starred for Gainesville, while Johnson and MacDougall showed up well for Russell.

Cupid Calls Signals For U. C. L. A. Team

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Cupid is calling signals on the football squad of the University of California at Los Angeles.

It was disclosed today that Wilton Wilton, halfback ace, and "Sad" Sam Storey, the dusky tackle, have been married since last semester.

Captain "Pants" Livesay disclosed his marriage a few days ago. Verdi Boyer also is married.

ANCIENT RIVALS FEATURE GAMES IN CONFERENCE

Leaders Play Outside Foes as Second Division Teams Take Spot.

By Kenneth Gregory,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

With three Southeastern conference representatives in foreign fields searching for football laurels, Dixie's gridiron program for Saturday offers no outstanding contests but is supported by a pair of traditional battles and an interconference duel.

The present leaders—Alabama, Tulane and Louisiana State—deploy against outside foes, precluding any change in the race for at least another week and leaving the conference fighting to eight teams that have already tasted defeat.

Tulane, undefeated and untied, is in New York for an intersectional tussle with Colgate, while Louisiana State invaded Washington to engage George Washington in intersectional combat. Georgia journeyed to New Haven for its last scheduled annual clash with Yale.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES.

Although possessed of plenty of power, the Green Wave is expected to have its hands full defending its perfect record against the tricky Red Raiders, conquered only by Ohio State. On comparative records, Louisiana State has a good edge over the Colonials, nosed out by Vanderbilt, a team the Tigers swamped earlier in the season. Though hopeful of making it five straight over the Elis, Georgia's Bulldogs, already snowed under by North Carolina, Tulane and Alabama, may find the northern Bulldogs a little too ferocious.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama meets Clemson College of the Southern conference at Tuscaloosa and is conceded to win handily. A victory for the Red Elephants would put the southeastern on even terms with the southern in competition between the two groups thus far.

Traditional rivalry marks southeastern frays between Sewanee and Vanderbilt at Nashville and Auburn and Georgia Tech at Atlanta. These games are two of the oldest in the south, their annual warfare starting before the turn of the century.

AUBURN VS. TECH.

The Tigers of Sewanee, who have not won from Vanderbilt since the amazing upset of 1924, are the underdog as usual but the Commodores have been warned to expect a stiff battle. The Auburn-Tech tilt looks like a toss-up. Both elevens have lost to Tulane and Duke and appear about evenly matched. The Plainsmen hold a 19 to 15 edge over the Yellow Jackets in their series that began in 1892.

Other intraconference struggles find Florida and Mississippi clashing at Gainesville in what may be a battle royal, and Mississippi State playing the strong Tennessee Volunteers at Knoxville. Kentucky meets Southwestern at Memphis in a nonconference tilt.

Centenary and Loyola, outstanding members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and Oglethorpe, unassociated, add attractiveness to the slate with intersectional engagements. The Shreveport gentlemen meet Tulsa University at Tulsa, HOWELL'S RECORD.

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—There seems to be little doubt that Dixie Howell, of Alabama, is quite a football player. So far this season he has gained 384 yards from scrimmage and has completed 14 passes out of 26 attempted for a total gain of 184 yards.

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A new wave of buying swept stocks upward at a brisk pace in the last hour of trading today.

As the post-election advance was resumed, the market broadened materially. With a turnover of more than 500,000 shares in the final hour, the day's volume increased to 1,228,590 shares, the largest in a month, compared with 843,310 yesterday.

The advance with many active issues up 1 to 3 points at the close, lifted the Standard Statistics Company average for 90 stocks 1.5 points to 73.9, the highest since late August. It has risen about four points in the past week.

Quickened speculative interest in shares gave reflection to hopes in the financial district for business improvement and the belief that inflationary forces still were a market influence.

Leading commodities firmed with stocks but gains were restricted. Wheat closed 5-8 to nearly a cent a bushel higher and cotton rallied 35 to 50 cents a bale. Bonds, at the same time, were steady to firm for the most part, although United States governments were a shade lower.

1 to 3-Point Gains.

International Cement, Johns-Manville, Penn Dixie Cement preferred and Congoleum spurted about 1 to 3 points. Among motor and motor accessory issues, Chrysler, General Motors, Bohn Aluminum, Briggs Manufacturing, Motor Products, Electric Autolite, Borg Warner, Murray Corporation and Eaton Manufacturing scored net gains of about 1 to 3.

Steel shares turned strong as traders heeded forecasts the industry faced an improved outlook the rest of the year. United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and American Rolling Mill were active at advancing prices.

Rails joined the upswing, with Santa Fe, New York Central and Northern Pacific up a point or more at the close.

Retail Trade Better.

Optimistic trade observers, while conceding heavy industry was slow in showing improvement, painted retail trade in bright verbal colors. Dun & Bradstreet estimated sales were running as much as 30 per cent ahead of last year in some areas.

The weekly railroad carloadings report disclosed a decline of 11,795 cars under the previous week, less than the usual seasonal drop. The total, at 612,457, was only three-tenths of 1 per cent under the like 1933 week.

A decline of 26,344 tons in United States Steel Corporation's shipments last month, making the total 343,962 tons, was about in line with expectations.

Coca-Cola directors declared an extra dividend of $1 a share.

The stock sold off a point on the news after making a new peak for the year above 149 in the preceding session.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The immediate trend now appears upward and we believe any corrective phase should be taken advantage of to increase commitments.

BEER & COMPANY—At the present time we see no reason to change our opinion that the present upward move in prices can be extended further.

DOBBS & COMPANY—Industrial stocks continued to gain Friday in their climb away from the recent trading range toward upper limits of that area. A gain of something over a point and a half more in the latter group would be considered highly encouraging.

ABBOTT, PROCTOR & PAINE—We see no occasion to sell stocks at the present time.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The cotton market seems to lack incentive of its own and is inclined at present to follow other markets.

BEER & COMPANY—It loks as if cotton may work some higher.

HUBBARD BROTHERS & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—We are hardly inclined to expect the development of an aggressive buying movement until more is known of coming acreage prospects or pending a pronounced improvement in general business conditions.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The wheat situation is bullish and on the dips we would work on the buying side.

CURB SHARES GAIN IN LATE TRADING

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—After early indecision the curb market worked into a brisk rally in the late trading today. Closing prices were generally fractions to a point or so higher in the more active parts of the list.

Specialties continued to show the widest gains. Utilities and metals rather narrow while oils and alcohols ruled firm.

Singer Manufacturing was off 2 after having risen 22 points in the two previous sessions. Aluminum Company of America and Electric Bond & Share erased small early recessions. Dow Chemical, General Tire & Rubber and Mead Johnson ended about 2 higher. Smaller gains were shown by Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Great Atlantic & Pacific, Parker Rust Proof, Swift & Co., South Penn Oil, International Petroleum, Hiram Walker and Newmont.

Transfers increased to 185,000 shares compared with 163,000 yesterday.

DECREASE IS SHOWN IN LUMBER ORDERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers Association today reported that orders received by 1,270 lumber mills during the week ending November 3, were 9 per cent below new business at the mills for the corresponding week a year ago.

The association's report said production and orders for the week were 13 and 6 per cent, respectively, below the average for the four previous weeks, while shipments nearly equaled that average.

Reports for the week showed production of 159,074,000 feet, shipments 174,224,000 feet, and orders 164,228,000 feet. Revised figures from 1,358 mills for the previous week gave production at 168,938,000 feet, shipments 172,266,000 feet and orders 185,872,000 feet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—After a comparatively quiet forenoon, cotton turned active in the late trading today and prices reached high ground for the week on most positions.

Offerings were light and the market responded readily to trade buying and covering promoted by the late strength of the stock market. March contracts sold from 12.26 to 12.39, closing at 11.38. The final tone was very steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

Little southern selling was in evidence here after the opening and indications of a continued strong spot situation together with reports of a fair business in cotton cloths this morning were regarded as factors in the advance. The relative firmness of near months had a favorable effect on sentiment.

Exports today 18,911, making 1,549,127 so far this season. Port receipts 35,140. United States port stocks 3,154,836.

The early Liverpool cables attributed the steadiness there to trade buying induced by satisfactory progress in the liquidation of German commercial debts and some buying for Bombay account which found offerings comparatively light. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the buyers here at the opening.

According to a private cable Liverpool merchants are showing more interest in American cotton now, that desirable offerings of other growths are becoming less plentiful. This report added that the margin between southern offers and Liverpool ideas tended to narrow, but that merchants were buying cautiously owing to the discounts on new crop months and fears of an easier basis later in the season.

Local spot people said that hedging was less active than yesterday and that there was a little more inquiry for spot cotton at prices below a working basis.

COTTON IN NEW ORLEANS ADVANCES 9 TO 10 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The cotton market was rather quiet most of today's session with prices supported by firmness in other commodity markets. It became quite active in the late afternoon in sympathy with a good upturn in stocks and prices advanced 10 to 13 points from the lows of the morning. This advance was accompanied by trade buying. The market closed very steady and at or near the top with prices showing net advances for the day of 9 to 10 points.

The opening was barely steady, although Liverpool cables were slightly better than due and sterling was easier. Private cables reported trade buying in Liverpool induced by satisfactory progress of the liquidation of German commercial debts and fair Bombay buying met by light offerings. Manchester cabled that there was an increased inquiry and more business in cloth and yarns.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 4 penny points up.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Moderate gains predominated in today's bond market, although there were a number of outstanding strong and weak spots in evidence.

The trading volume expanded to $12,599,000, par value, against $11,379,000 yesterday, and the Standard Statistics Company average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced 2-10ths of a point to 84.5.

Federal Farm Mortgage 3s and all of the Home Owners' Loan issues firmed 2-32ds to 9-32ds of a point, but treasury securities were unchanged to off 6-32ds. The turnover in the government section was not abnormal, amounting to only about $2,900,000.

Among some of the best corporate gainers were Atlantic Gulf & West Indies 5s, up 3 1-4 at 46; Certainteed 5 1-2s, up 3 at 66; Chicago & Northwestern general 4s, up 1 1-2 at 56; Chile Copper 5s, up 1 1-2 at 75; Erie General Lien 4s, up 2 at 74; Parmelee Transfer 6s, up 6 1-2 at 31 1-2; Portland General Electric 4 1-2s, up 2 3-4 at 52 1-2; Southern Rail 4s, up 1 at 59, and Studebaker 6s, up 1 3-4 at 49.

Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s were quite active a loss of 1 1-2 points at 103 1-4. The decline was attributed partly to reports the company might call the issue. Among other losers were Alleghany Corporation 5s, off 2 at 56; Rock Island General 4s, off 2 at 48; McCrory Stores 5 1-2s, off 2 1-2 at 79 1-2, and Kings County Elevated 4s, off 1 1-4 at 91 1-2.

In the foreign department a firm undertone was shown by obligations of Uruguay, Norway, France, Chile and Argentina. The Germans were mildly irregular.

Dun & Bradstreet Notes Gain in Retail Sales

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Retail trade surged strongly ahead this week in most sections of the country, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today in a weekly business summary.

"The public evidently is again in a buying mood," the survey commented, "and retailers are being forced to replenish stocks which had been considered ample for the season.

"The widest gains were included in the reports from the south and the southwest, where volume was 10 to 12 per cent above last week's and 20 to 30 per cent higher than last year's.

"Some centers in the middle west recorded increases of 20 to 30 per cent for the week, but the spread over 1933 figures was held to 10 to 15 per cent. No gains of consequence were forthcoming from the Pacific coast states, the level being maintained at 15 to 20 per cent above last year's position.

"Besides, the rise of industrial operations since the lows of late August and early September has been sufficiently extended to give assurance that further recovery will be in progress during the balance of the year. As a further relaxation of production restrictions is in prospect, industrialists are commencing to carry out plans for expansion."

REDUCTION MADE IN SUGAR PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The American Sugar Refining Company announced today a reduction in the price of refined sugar in non-guaranteed territory by 15 points to 4.50 cents a pound, effective November 8.

The company stated that in guaranteed territory it is meeting the competition of western cane refiners.

Effective at the close of business on November 9, the company is withdrawing the sale of Dixiana brand in North and South Carolina.

National Sugar Refining Company, Pennsylvania Refining Company and Arbuckle Brothers followed suit with price reduction of 15 points to 4.50 cents a pound.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—There was no change in the raw sugar market today, and the only sale reported was 35,000 bags of Louisiana cane sugar to a refiner for November delivery at 2.85.

Futures eased under tired long liquidation and hedge selling, closing 1 to 3 points net lower. Sales 10,950 tons.

The range follows:

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Influenced by correct belief the government crop report would prove bullish and by forecasts of unwelcome rain in Argentina, grain values scored moderate advances today.

Traders tonight construed the government report as bullish because the official estimate of 1934 corn production was only 11,000,000 bushels less than sensational recent private figures indicating severe shortage. Rains in Argentina, experts said, would do much to augment danger of rust damage to wheat.

Wheat closed firm 3-8 to 7-8 above yesterday's finish, May 99 1-8 to 99 1-4, corn 5-8 to 1 cent up, May 81 to 81 1-8; oats at 1-8 decline to 1-2 advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22 cents.

Adding impetus at times to an upward trend of the wheat market was relative strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool.

Corn and oats borrowed strength not only from anticipation of the government estimates of corn yields but also from proposed extensive purchases of corn for relief purposes northwest. Provisions advanced, responsive mainly to hog market upturns.

HESTER'S WEEKLY COTTON STATEMENT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Hester's weekly New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement issued today showed that the amount brought into sight during the past week was 377,171 bales against 622,677 last year and 693,325 year before last and for the nine days of November 489,906 bales against 889,576 last year, and 1,161,377 year before last.

The movement since August 1 shows receipts at all United States ports 2,474,240 against 3,946,786 last year, and 3,783,139 year before last; overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada 218,102 against 272,038 last year, and 197,998 year before last. Interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year 1,186,651 against 1,221,279 last year, and 1,104,725 year before last; southern mill takings net 1,097,000 against 1,624,000 last year, and 1,432,000 year before last.

These make the total movement for the season 4,975,993 against 7,064,103 last year and 6,517,862 year before last.

Foreign exports for the week were 146,334 against 240,541 last year, making the total thus far for the season 1,508,771 against 2,738,102 last year, a decrease of 1,229,331.

World spinners' takings of American cotton during the week were 298,000 against 348,000 last year and 398,000 year before last, distributed as follows:

North and Canada 37,000 against 67,000 last year and 47,000 year before last; south 131,000 against 166,000 last year and 186,000 year before last; foreign exclusive of Canada and orient 63,000 against 95,000 last year and 108,000 year before last; orient 67,000 against 20,000 last year and 57,000 year before last.

Total takings of American cotton for the season 3,029,000 against 4,493,000 last year and 4,014,000 year before last, of which north and Canada 403,000 against 554,000 last year and 438,000 year before last; south 1,147,000 against 1,674,000 last year and 1,462,000 year before last; foreign exclusive of Canada and orient 1,016,000 against 1,630,000 last year and 1,434,000 year before last; orient 463,000 against 635,000 last year and 680,000 year before last.

Stocks at the seaboard and 102 leading southern interior centers increased during the week 63,272 against an increase during the corresponding period last season of 149,881 and are now 834,976 smaller than at this date in 1933.

Textile Industry Expected To Improve in Last Quarter

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—After the paralyzing strike that reduced operations to the lowest levels of the year during the third quarter, the textile industry now finds itself in a strong statistical position and enters the final three-months of the year with an improved outlook.

Wholesale demand in practically all divisions of the industry have shown definite betterment in recent weeks, and from present indications Worth Street brokerage quarters expect fairly active primary buying throughout the next 6 to 9 months. Production, accordingly, has been slightly stimulated.

Partly because of the rebound from the extremely low rate of operations in September, Standard Statistics Company estimates that aggregate textile activity for the final quarter will show a gain of close to 20 per cent from the preceding quarter, while the decline from the comparable 1933 period will be narrowed to less than 5 per cent for the full 12 months, however, a reduction of about 18 per cent is expected to be shown.

The rayon division of the industry regained its equilibrium ahead of all other branches after the September strike. Sales of yarn to knitters held steady during October, while an increase in total deliveries was said to be due to larger yarn takings by rayon weavers.

In the wool division, prices were steady throughout October and brokers believe the prospects to be bright for the remainder of the year, although Standard Statistics Company estimates that for the full year this division will show a loss, as against some net profit for other branches.

More than a month has elapsed since the general strike in the industry ended but there still persists some labor trouble in various sections of the south and east, with charges of discrimination made by workers against the manufacturers being investigated by the newly formed textile labor relations board, a continuation of some unrest is looked for in textile circles during the next few months, but observers say there is definite evidence that it will not reach sufficient proportions again to result in a general strike.

Maunfacturers were forced to absorb considerable expense during the September strike, and previous to that had been paying substantially higher prices for raw materials. All during the period, it was pointed out, they were unable to raise prices of finished products because of the large stocks on hand in wholesale and retail outlets and keen competition within the industry itself.

Third quarter earnings were said to be particularly distressing in most cases, but the improved outlook for the rest of the year holds hope of overshadowing to some extent this unhappy period within the industry.

Bank Clearings

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The slight improvement in bank clearings reflects somewhat larger November settlements. The total for the 22 leading cities in the United States for the week ended Wednesday, November 7, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $4,138,643,000, against $4,221,172,000 for the same week of last year, a loss of 2.0 per cent. This contrasts with a decrease of 2.9 per cent in the previous week. At New York city, clearings the past week were $2,666,452,000, a reduction of 10.4 per cent, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,472,191,000 was 8.7 per cent higher.

The week, both this year and last, covered only five business days and clearings for the past week were $286,067,000 below those for the six days of the week preceding, while the total for the same two weeks a year ago showed a reduction of $337,245,000. The latest week this year included the heavier monthly settlements for the first three dalys of November, whereas last year only two days were covered.

The loss at New York city is quite as large as that here-to-fore shown. In addition, clearings were smaller at Chicago and again substantially lower at Minneapolis and Dallas. On the other hand, Boston reported a large gain, and clearings were quite a little higher at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Baltimore, Atlanta, Richmond, New Orleans and Louisville.

Figures at leading centers, compared with those of last year, are printed herewith; also, daily bank clearings each month for the year to date:

Dead Man Revived And Lives 22 Hours

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Physicians at Philadelphia General hospital say a man "dead" for 12 minutes was brought to life with two injections of adrenalin and lived for 22 hours.

Injections have restored life before, they said, but rarely, if ever, so long after the patient's heart ceased beating. Neither have persons so treated held to life for almost a day afterward.

COCA-COLA TO PAY EXTRA DIVIDEND

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 9.—Meeting here today, directors of the Coca-Cola Company declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $1.50 per share on the Class A stock, the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the common stock, and also voted an extra dividend of $1 per share on the common. These dividends are payable January 2, 1935, to stockholders of record December 12, 1934.

Report submitted to the directors by President R. W. Woodruff, showed that for the three months ended September 30, 1934, net earnings after income taxes and dividend requirements on that portion of the Class A stock outstanding in the hands of the public, amounted to $3,849,947.96, compared to $2,669,409.41 for the third quarter of 1933.

The directors authorized the retirement of 200,000 shares out of the 327,820 shares of Class A stock now held in the treasury.

ITALY TO TURN TODAY TO CORPORATE STATE

ROME, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The wheels of Benito Mussolini's new corporative state start turning tomorrow.

A reform designed to tear out the roots of parliamentary government, the long-prepared state, in which industry, commerce, business and the professions are to make their own laws will be formally set up by Il Duce himself.

Tonight he and his formidable propaganda machine were advertising it to the whole world as something new in modern-day government, something soon to be copied by other states.

The Duce is expected to make one of his most important speeches of recent years at the opening ceremony. This will take place in the Julius Caesar hall of the capitol, where he will address 739 persons, making up the first general assembly of the new legislative bodies.

Representatives of capital, labor and the fascist party will hear him speak. They will constitute the governing boards of 22 corporations, or "self-governing" category organizations, to be officially brought into being at the meeting.

Each one of these corporations will represent a branch of the nation's productive or working life.

Fay Webb Is Denied Right To Quiz Rudy

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fay Webb Vallee was denied an application today to examine her estranged husband, Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader, before trial of her suit to set aside a separation agreement under which she receives $100 a week for her maintenance.

The unanimous action of the appellate division obviates any further moves before the trial date already set, November 19.

It is Mrs. Vallee's contention that her husband deceived her as to his financial resources when the separation agreement was drawn up in April, 1933.

Vallee denied any deception as to his income.

TAX CUT IS URGED FOR CHEWING TOBACCO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Short reductions in the processing tax on tobacco used in the manufacturer of chewing tobacco were proposed today at a hearing before AAA officials.

Spokesman for the industry contended the present rates of 6.1 cents on burley, 4.2 cents on flue cured, 2.9 on fire cured, and 3.3 on dark air cured, were too high and necessitated the production of smaller plugs to keep prices down.

The hearing was the first of two scheduled for today and others are expected to follow.

Cigaret manufacturers, who use flue-cured tobacco, have given notice they intend to seek a reduction in the processing tax on that type.

M. E. UNION LEADERS MEET AT EMORY TODAY

The council for the Union leaders of the North Georgia Young People's conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be held at Emory University today and Sunday. Registration will take place from 4 o'clock to 5 o'clock today at the Theology building on the campus.

All Union officers and adult counselors have been invited to attend. The Rev. Walter Tower, of Nashville, Tenn., will be one of the principal speakers of the conference.

Casey Jones' Conductor Passes in Mississippi

CANTON, Miss., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Casey Jones' conductor is dead.

J. C. (Chap) Turner, the former trainmate of the famous engineer of song and story who lost his life in a wreck at Ball, died at his home here early today after a long illness.

But making the same "run" with Casey was not Chap's only claim to fame—he was just as proud of the distinction he held of being conductor on the first trip of the famous Panama Limited, Illinois Central flyer which was discontinued two years ago but which will soon go back into service.

TARZAN AND THE LION MAN No. 48
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Rungula began to recover his wits, he gazed in astonishment at Tarzan. "You are here, and you are also there," he said, nodding downward toward Obroski, whose features and physique were duplicates of Tarzan's. "Therefore you must be a demon. Spare me, and you shall have anything you like."

The chief recounted the worthy gifts he could bestow—buxom slave girls and fine weapons—but Tarzan shook his head. "I want only one thing, Rungula. You must promise never to harm the white men who come through your country." "I promise, master," Rungula answered, fearfully.

"Then call down to your people and tell them to open the gates and let the prisoner go free!" Tarzan commanded. The chief spoke in a loud voice. The warriors fell away from the captive, and some hastened to open the village gates. Then Tarzan called in English to Obroski, who was still surrounded by blacks.

The prisoner was startled when he heard the voice command: "Go quietly into the forest!" Tarzan watched him anxiously, for any untoward move by the astonished Obroski might break the spell of mystery and terror he had woven. There was still a chance that his delicate ruse would fail!

Vivian Simply Insisted That Mathew Ask for a Raise and He Did, to Her Great Chagrin.

By HAROLD KERR.

Mathew and Vivian sat down to the unpleasant task of reviewing the month's unpaid bills. It was uncomfortable to reflect that the chairs which they sat on weren't really their own; and moreover, the true owners were becoming a little insistent about payment.

"We need red ink to check these with," muttered Mathew, letting his hands run expressively through the sheaf. Vivian spoke crisply. "You mean we ought to have money to pay them with. Two peopl might be able to live as cheaply as one; but you and I must be two other fellows."

"But Peach," protested Mathew, "I'm making $30 a week!"

"In other words I'm extravagant, is that it?"

"No—o—o, but—"

"But the fact is that in another month we'll be so far behind that the furniture people will be demanding their goods back, or else. And you're the head of your department, aren't you? You deserve a raise in salary. You'll simply have to ask for—and get it, too!"

"'You didn't ask Beardsly!'"

"Now, Peach, you know how Beardsly is about those things! It's better to wait until he gives it to me voluntarily."

Vivian bit the end of her pencil to check an angry retort. "Suppose, then," she sighed after a hopeless glance at the total, "that you figure out another way to get hold of $234, and also provide for the maintenance of this household."

The cold numbers dismayed him. Pressing the advantage of his consternation she concluded, "It's either ask for that deserved raise in salary or move back to my mother's house."

Mathew sprang to his feet. "Now, Peach, your mother is sweet and all that sort of thing, but she's got her own worries, and it'd really be an imposition on her ah—hum—good nature." He coughed.

"Ask Beardsly tomorrow morning, then," she demanded. "You're not afraid of him, are you?" she inquired slyly.

"Who, me? Afraid of that old weasel? Say, Beardsly values me highly, say there's no one as efficient as me in the entire office." He was belligerent.

"Well, then it shouldn't be hard to persuade him."

Mathew was caught, and realized it with some dismay. She coaxed him, now. "Then it's all settled? Oh, there are so many things to buy, once we clear up these bills. Shoes, stockings, a fall frock . . . and you might even get yourself a few new neckties," she added generously.

"All right, then," muttered Mathew grudgingly. He swept up the sheaf of bills and crammed them into the table drawer. "You know," he reflected cautiously, "maybe I'd better wait till Saturday before I ask Beardsly about the raise. Monday is really a very poor day for that sort of thing—"

Vivian's pretty face began to quiver. She was playing a part, but a very important role. It wasn't a case of sanctimony; they actually needed the money. And the threat of moving to her mother's house dismayed her also. She contrived to squeeze out a tear, accompanied by a tiny sob. "Oh—and after you promised, too."

Mathew became frightened. Tears always frightened him. He hurried to console her with his arms. "Now, Peach, 'course I'll ask him tomorrow." He bit his lip. "Let's go to bed and sleep on the idea of a new dress for you."

She brightened immediately. "I know you won't fail—"

The next morning Vivian sent Mathew off to town with a specially sweet embrace, and a tender reminder that she'd call up the most insistent of their creditors and promise a partial payment within a week.

All day she pored over the new fashion magazines, imaginatively purchasing a hundred new frocks and coats. She didn't forget, however, to prepare a supper for Mathew which included most of his favorite dishes. This would be his reward.

He came home a little after 6. Without even speaking to him she detected something wrong. His whole bearing denoted failure. She stared, broken-hearted. She sobbed four bitter words before fleeing to her room and locking the door. "You didn't ask Beardsly!"

He tried to apologize, but she wouldn't listen to the memorized excuse for his failure.

There was no breakfast for him the next morning. With tremendous exaggeration she told him that "there simply is no money for food." And then dangerously, "either you ask for that raise today or expect to move to mother's house next week!"

She wouldn't even let him kiss her good-by as he left for the office. Then he became angry. From the bottom step of the porch he shouted: "All right! I'll see that there's more money in this house by Saturday or lose my job!" He strode away without looking back. Vivian was frightened. If he kept that mood as far as the office and displayed it to Beardsly the consequences might be disastrous.

She waited apprehensively for his return. At 5:30 she went to the window and watched for his appearance. At last she saw him approaching. Her heart leaped when she noted his buoyant step. And he was smoking a long cigar. Nobody except Beardsly could have given him that! She ran to greet him at the door. She trembled with anticipation when he smiled down at her.

He removed his coat with a clumsy imitation of a self-important executive and exclaimed: "Well, Peach, guess we can afford a few luxuries now—maybe even a car. I told Beardsly flat to his face that we needed more money and—"

Vivian thrilled. She was proud of him then. "Sweetheart! How much of a raise did you get?"

Mathew's face clouded He looked at her blankly. "Raise? I didn't get a raise. I got a job for you as filing clerk; $17.50 a week!"

DECATUR LOSES TO LAGRANGE

LAGRANGE, Ga., Nov. 9.—LaGrange High school defeated Decatur High, 12 to 6, here tonight before the largest crowd of the season. It was one of the most exciting games of the year.

Decatur scored first late in the first quarter when an intercepted pass placed the ball on LaGrange's 20-yard line. Gantt, following a series of short gains, bucked the ball over for the touchdown.

LaGrange tied the score in the second period, when Dickinson scored, following a series of short end runs. Late in the game Young took the ball over, after a forward pass and a short line buck, to win the game.

Gantt, in the backfield, and Captain Thomas, at end, were outstanding for Decatur, with Dickinson and Young playing best for LaGrange.

ALFONSO FORGIVES SON WHO BROKE WITH CUBAN WIFE

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso, of Spain, it was understood today, has forgiven his son, Count Covadonga, for his marriage to a Cuban commoner, with whom he is now estranged.

Friends said Alfonso came to France recently to discuss the separation with his son, who renounced succession to the one-time Spanish throne by his marriage, welcomed him back into the royal family. The count is expected to return to Rome to live with Alfonso.

Friends quoted the count's bride as saying to friends, "I am going back to Cuba to get a divorce and a dozen red dresses."

The countess' reported refusal to wear mourning after the death of her brother-in-law, Prince Gonzalo, because she was never recognized by the royal family, was given by acquaintances as the cause of the separation.

FOOTBALL'S TOLL.

PHILADELPHIA—Dave Smukler, Temple fullback, still has a split lip and a lot of loose teeth as a result of having his face stepped on in the Holy Cross game, but it isn't a fact that he'll have to wear a face guard when the Owls play Carnegie that bothers him. Smukler likes steaks better than almost anything and he can't eat them in his present shape.

GRANDSTANDING.

NEW YORK—Al Barabas, Columbia back, probably will have time to learn a lot more about football now that it seems his knee injury will keep him out of action the rest of the season. He saw a game from the stands last week for the first time in seven years and was quite impressed with the between-the-halves doings. "I never knew before that people made such a fuss about football," he said.

PURDUE HURT.

IOWA CITY—Ossie Solem, Iowa coach, has the perfect prescription for preventing injuries in football practice—call off the practice. He had to do that yesterday when he found that Dwight Hoover, Bernie Page and George Teyro all would miss the Purdue game because of injuries.

FLASH GUN.

QUINCY, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—When Frank McCall heard a whirr of wings as a flock of wild geese passed over his house in the darkness, he went into his yard and pointed a flashlight skyward in an effort to see the flight. A goose dropped out of the squadron formation, swooped down toward the light, and was killed as it struck the ground.

A Fish Tale

Bottom Drops Out of Lake Iammonia Leaving Fish "High and Dry."

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Friday's fish story:

Fishing at Lake Iammonia, near here—ordinarily very good—was much better than usual today, but it was easier to pull in the bass with a rake and a wagon.

Fish by the bag, bucket or barrel were available, all for the raking, as the 20-square-mile lake went totally dry. Its waters drained through a huge "sinkhole."

Thousands of fish lay dead and dying. Thousands were scooped up in the most available containers. It apparently was easier with a rake—many persons fished in this manner.

About three weeks ago the big lake—favorite fishing place for Georgians and Floridans—started draining. At first the fall was gradual.

Last week the water had fallen to an area called the "basin," about the size of ten city blocks. It fell lower and lower. Suddenly the bottom "dropped." Normally the lake is 30 to 40 feet deep.

Through a "sinkhole," about 15 feet in diameter, the water rushed, leaving the fish "high and dry."

Residents of the section rescued many of the small bass and bream and transported them to near-by lakes. Others carted them home to eat. Conservation laws were suspended in the emergency. Convicts were ordered out to aid in preserving the fish and transporting them to other lakes.

Bulldog Quintet Ends First Workouts

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Georgia's basketball squad under the direction of Co-Captain Harrison Anderson, Marietta center, closed their first week of pre-season practice today with seven lettermen out. After December 1, Rex Enright, basketball coach and backfield coach on the football team, will take over the coaching reins.

Marion Allen, Milledgeville, will be the manager this season, according to H. J. Stegeman, athletic director.

Mid-Georgia Wins Over G. M. C., 7-6

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—Middle Georgia College, of Cochran, Ga., defeated the powerful G. M. C. College team here this afternoon, 7 to 6. Browning, left end for Middle Georgia, caught a 30-yard pass thrown by Watson for the score. Carson added the extra point which decided the game for Middle Georgia.

The whole team played exceptionally well while Westbrook and Kenmore did best for the Cadets.

The game drew the largest crowd of the season.

GRANT READY TO FACE ELIS

coats. Other members of the entourage had come heavily laden with woolen underwear—the kind that grandma used to specify in her last warnings to the younger generation about this time of year.

SHINE, OLD SOL.

But their pleasurable surprise when, upon disembarking they found the weather delightfully cool, fair and bright. They are hoping the sun will prevail tomorrow, for last year it will be recalled that a heavy snow had preceded the Bulldogs' visit, making the ground heavy and treacherous. And that the Georgia players, sons of the deep south, suffered wintry blasts that swept the bowl.

TO START REGULARS.

Coach Mehre finally decided today to start his first-string lineup and a mixed backfield against the Elis He will have Turbeyville and Wagnon at ends; Shi and West at tackles; Frank Johnson and John Brown at guards; McKnight at center; Jack Griffith at quarter; John Bond at left half; Al Minot at right half and Johnny Jones, the discovery of the Florida game, at fullback.

This backfield carries a good kicker in Bond and two passers in Minot and Jones.

Mehre plans to substitute with Grant at right half, Maurice Green at fullback and little Glenn Johnson at left half. Grant will be held out until Mehre deems the time propitious, then he will run Cyrus in there to see what he can do. Green, the team's outstanding sophomore, should see a lot of service in his first trip to the bowl. For he is Georgia's outstanding triple-threat since Grant was hurt.

Very little has been heard of the Yale team up here, excepting that it seems to be the consensus of New York writers that Yale will win since the Elis whipped Dartmouth. However, Georgia has been picked to lose before and judging from the spirit of the players they are in fine mood to make it interesting for Yale in the "rubber" of the 11-game series.

YALE LOOKS GOOD.

The eastern and southern Bulldogs will not meet for several years, since Georgia's 1935 or 1936 schedule will not include their old enemy of the east.

Yale, coached by "Ducky" Pond and "Greasy" Neal, the old outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, has done better this year and played very good football in defeating Penn, Brown, Dartmouth and playing creditable games against Army and Columbia.

A few of the eastern critics favored Georgia but very few. Yale's line, featuring a Georgia boy named Train who plays left end, is very good and they have a plentitude of good backs.

Georgia has had so many injuries of one kind and another that Mehre hardly knows what to expect of his team. The Bulldogs have yet to play over their heads or even an outstanding game this year. Mehre hopes his boys will play such a game tomorrow and that Grant, who was stopped by the Elis last year, will burst forth with a lot of running.

Grant has looked exceptionally good in scrimmage this week. He ran with the ball nine times and made seven touchdowns. It was the first time Cy has done any scrimmaging since the North Carolina game, three weeks ago.

GRANT TO RUN ONLY.

Bond will relieve him of the kicking duties tomorrow and all Cy will have to do is run. Let's hope that he can run like the Grant of old.

Yale, it is said, is on the watch for Glenn Johnson, Bond and Green, who stood out in the Florida game last week. The Elis are not so much concerned with Grant. In fact, they do not even think he will play. It would be great if Cy Grant, who has been nursing his injured shoulder, should step out and become the Georgia dark horse.

CHANGE RULES.

NEW YORK—Coach Mal Stevens, of New York University, probably wouldn't vote to change the football rules but he has a suggestion for one change that would benefit his team. "If you fellows don't improve," he said, "I'm going to recommend that the goal line be moved in ten yards. We wouldn't have lost a game if they had paid off on every time we were within the other team's ten-yard line."

BABE HOMERS AS MATES WIN

SENDAI, Japan, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Twenty thousand Sendai fans cheered Babe Ruth's first home run in Japan as he drove the ball into the right field stands today in the third inning of a game his barnstormers won, 7t o 0, from the Nippon All-Stars.

Five home runs, with the Babe contributing two of them, featured the Americans' win. Foxx, Gehrig and Miller got the others.

Down the Alleys

The "Strikes and Spares" handicap tenpin sweepstakes, the first of a series of tenpin meets to be staged at Blick's bowling center, will be bowled at 8 o'clock tonight with about 40 of the big timber bowlers seeking the beautiful trophy that will be awarded the winner.

Five games are to be bowled. No entry fee is charged, other than the cost of the five games to be bowled. Handicaps will be computed from the scratch mark of 190, the player getting two-thirds the difference between his own average and the scratch mark per game.

Miller, Dameron To Meet Monday

Promoter Bob Anderson will present an array of well-known wrestlers for his weekly Monday night card at the Avondale arena. The program will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

He offers in his first match Sammy Miller against John Dameron, sturdy grappler, of Kirkwood. Dameron has been wrestling in Florida the past few months. They will meet in a one-hour match.

In another main match, Promoter Anderson will match himself against the popular Dutch Green, Washington grappler, who is an old favorite with the fans. Al Olson, the terrible Swede, will find tough goings against Young Parker, in the one-hour opening setto.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to turn out for these matches.

Reservations for seats can be obtained by calling Dearborn 9172. The usual popular prices will prevail.

O'Farrell Released By Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Bob O'Farrell, brought back from Cincinnati last August to help the catching staff of the National league Cubs, was given unconditional release today.

A decade ago O'Farrell was first string catcher for the Cubs and Leo "Gabby" Hartnett was his understudy. When he came back after managing the Cincinnati Reds he was Hartnett's aid.

COAL INDUSTRY TOLD TO ACCEPT U. S. HELP

Lilienthal Warns Industry Against Attitude on Federal Aid.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 9.(AP)—David E. Lilienthal, power director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said in an address here tonight that "if the coal industry rejects the efforts of the government to aid that industry in its problems, public opinion is bound to turn upon that industry and hasten its dissolution."

"The public," he said, "will watch to see if the industry follows businessmen who admit they are defeated, or if it follows those who square their shoulders and tackle their jobs, as the railroad men have, with the fighting qualities and freshness of mind which the industry's problems demand."

Previously he had referred to TVA's offer to appropriate $100,000 for a research program to aid the coal industry in developing new markets for coal and said the industry's response was the issuance of "a pamphlet attacking the federal government, the Tennessee Valley Authority and the program of the president."

Lilienthal spoke at a meeting of the Southern Economists Association.

Effort Made To Kill Kidnaping Suspect

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 9.—(AP)—An attempt was made on the life of Mrs. Margaret Hurtienne, Urschel kidnap suspect, while she was being brought from Eugene to Portland, Deputy United States Marshal J. T. Summerville said tonight.

FILENE SEES NEW DEAL AS KEY TO PROSPERITY

Uncertainty Past, Boston Economist and Merchant Declares.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—(AP) Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant and economist, today told the Associated Press that Tuesday's election was "a great victory for business," and predicted the New Deal would bring "such prosperity as we have never known before."

"First," he said, "it put an end to that uncertainty about which so many businessmen were worrying. We know now that the New Deal is going through, and that business must organize to do business under the New Deal.

"But the election means more than that. It means the release of the 'individual initiative' which, for some time, has seemed to be sadly lacking from our business affairs.

"Many of us had feared that initiative had passed from the individual businessman to government; but if there was ever any truth in that, the passing did not occur in the spring of 1933. Business had been in a bad way for years, and it had been getting worse and worse; and no strictly business action was being initiated in our business organizations to solve the basic business problem."

Filene said the nation was fortunate in having in a crisis "a leader in the person of our great president, who did not initiate any socialistic measures, but initiated a plan under which American business could, if it wished, go ahead."
